Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

In your issue of January 20th there appears a letter from John Brady, wherein he claims that the lien filed by us against him as contractor for work done on No. 30 Reade street is unjust and unwarranted. He also claims that he has paid us in full for our work and has made advances to us. This is unqualifiedly false, and Mr. Brady knows it to be so. Our contract with him was for the agreed price of $2,454.31. We have performed all our work and have obtained the certificate of the architect to that effect. In addition the architect certifies that $354.31, the exact amount claimed by us in our notice of lien, is due as a final payment. Mr. Brady has paid us $2,100, as follows: August 25, 1893, $900; September 22d, $800, and November 4th, $400. The last payment should have been $754.31 by the terms of the contract, but Mr. Brady claimed he was unable to pay us the full amount, and only paid us $400 on account thereof. He has promised to pay us the balance, but has not done so.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, JANUARY 27, 1894.

Tax Reform In Prospect.

IN his manner of choosing a President of the Board of Assessors Mayor Schieren has filled the minds of the practical politicians with disgust. From the very beginning he ignored all precedents, and sought for no man skilled in the manipulation of ward politics, for no "leader" nor "representative of large interests," but only for an honest man of demonstrated ability in business. To Brooklyn's credit it may be said the search for such a man was less difficult than old Diogenes found it in the streets of Athens. The course of politics for many years, in the cities at least, has divorced from public life many of this class of men, and they have grown a class apart, ripening, as it were, for just such a time as the present, when the people, their tastes for political dead sea fruit become palled, have turned to the more wholesome fruit of sober, honest living. The difficulty with Mayor Schieren lay in inducing such a man to accept the office. It is not in any sense a sinecure for such a man, though practical politics of the Brooklyn sort intended it should be so. The pay, to an honest man, is only $4,000 a year, though under practical politics the office could be easily and successfully worked for many times that amount. And to an honest man the duties will be interminable, wearisome and thankless; though practical politics found them only the shadow of a burden. The office, furthermore, is no stepping-stone to political popularity and preferment, for the man who does his whole duty in it, especially in Brooklyn's present emergency, must expect to make enmities among even those who should be his strongest friends and supporters. Under these circumstances, it is hardly to be wondered at that three such men in succession declined the appointment—among them one Democrat. The thing that seem amazing to the politicians is, that the Mayor, after two failures, should not have given up that line of search and turned to the army of practical politicians, even of his own party persuasion, who stood ready to sacrifice themselves to the cause of good government. Herein the Mayor manifested the principles of the true reformer. If he had been less than this, the circumstances of twice failing to induce a man of approved character and ability, outside the pale of politics, to accept the position, would have furnished him ample excuse for turning to the stars of his own party firmament for a selection, and had he done so the mouths of the critics would have been closed against him. It is an undisputed fact that he "turned down" twenty good patriots whom the zealots of his party tried to force upon him for this position, everyone of whom will doubtless join hereafter in playing the party organization against him. But it is this persistence in well-doing which distinguishes the Mayor above the mere partisan and affords a basis for a widening hope of better things in store for the long-plundered and ring-ridden city. It may well be doubted whether Mr. Harkness, in accepting the appointment of President of the Board of Assessors had a full realization of the difficulties which confront him. The craft he has been given to navigate is strongly suspected of piratical practices, in which most of the crew are suspected of participating. Favoritism under stress of politics and favoritism under temptation of pecuniary compensation, blackmail under stress of politics and blackmail for political plunder are alike charged against them; and worse even than these, so far as the true interests of Brooklyn are concerned, a general incompetency pervades the whole department. Whatever the facts may be, and it is maintained by some of the deputy assessors and their friends that, so far as they were concerned, their duties were performed in a fearless, impartial and conscientious manner, this fact stares the investigator in the face from nearly every tax book: That a more unequal assessment it would be difficult to find in any large city in the Union. Vacant property in general is assessed at from a tenth to a fourth of its real value, while residence property is rated at all the way from 60 to 90 per cent of its value. The properties of the large corporations have long been the subjects of manipulation through this department, for political purposes, and have, it is freely alleged, paid quite as much in tribute to the politicians as they have in taxes to the city. Franchises, out of which New York has derived a great revenue, have furnished Brooklyn little or nothing, and yet it is the residents of Brooklyn who furnish the companies with 95 per cent of their revenues. All this has got to be changed. Brooklyn's financial credit and the interest of every property-owner require a complete overhauling and renovation of this department. With very few exceptions the present force of deputies can be replaced by men in every way better qualified for the work. The tenure of office laws may not authorize a general change, but unless we are badly mistaken and misled in our sources of information the deputies will themselves furnish ample cause for their removal, even under the strictest construction of the civil service laws. Then the whole system of assessment for taxation should be thoroughly reconstructed. Property that has long escaped its just and equal share of taxation must be brought under regular and equitable tribute; the license system should be intelligently readjusted, and the burdens taxation in general be equalized. We do not doubt of that when this equalizing process shall have been intelligently performed it will be found that not only will Brooklyn's resources be largely augmented, but there will be room for substantial reductions in the assessments of those who have borne an unjust part of the burden, the small house-owners. Taxation is the highest function of government, and it is fundamentally essential to a pure government that its system of taxation should be free from all taint of inequality and favoritism. We are convinced that in this we express the sentiments of Mayor Schieren, and that in selecting Mr. William Harkness for President of the Board of Assessors he has made the best effort he could to attain to equality of taxation for all in Brooklyn. Mr. Harkness enters upon the office under strong inspiration for the reform of his department, and with the support which he will find in the Mayor, and doubtless from all honest people, will do all that in him lies to bring his department to a state of perfection it has not hitherto known.

IT is now reasonably certain that before the close of the present session Brooklyn will possess a building law up to the standard of modern requirements. The new commissioner, Mr. Wesley C. Bush, has already showed the earnestness of his intention to bring Brooklyn in this important matter into line with the other great cities of the country by interesting himself, even before actually taking office, in the Rutan bill which has already been sent to Albany. It will be remembered that it was largely due to Mr. Bush's activity that new building regulations were drawn up for the last legislature, and the first labor he undertook after receiving his appointment from Mayor Schieren was to carefully compare the bill now at Albany with the regulations which he and his fellow commissioners originally drafted. This inspection at once disclosed the fact that the bill at Albany is practically valueless. It contains a number of fatal omissions and careless blunders which in some particulars would make it inoperative and in others effective in a reverse direction. The very purposes of the bill would be defeated. Needless to say, the document should be recalled from Albany and intrusted henceforth to Mr. Bush. The Rutan bill should never have been sent up the river. It is a disgraceful exhibition of official carelessness and incompetence. Mr. Bush may be intrusted to correct the mistakes that have been made and to push the bill forward so that it shall become a law this year. The new commissioner has made up his mind that Brooklyn henceforth shall not be a dumping ground for all the poor building material turned out in this section of the country.

IF any evidence had been wanting of the total depravity of the political gang that previous to New Year's had Brooklyn in their clutches, it has been supplied by their actions during the last six weeks. In the Police, Fire, Excise and Building departments the chiefs have done all in their power to illustrate to the taxpayers the difference between an honest and a dishonest administration. Shrewd politics alone without regard to decency and regard for public favor should have prompted them to sow the seeds of future success and return to power in the utmost possible show of retrenchment and reform. By this means also they could have materially disarmed their enemies. But they acted in the most suicidal manner for their party that could have been imagined, and in doing so have shown their thoroughly thievish disposition. Like a band of thieves caught flagrante delicto they have clutched at everything they could get away with before taking flight. In filling every possible office of appointment with their henchmen they have given Mayor Schieren the best of possible excuses for wholesale decapitation and removals. Where they could have weakened him they have made him strong. They have actually forced upon him the necessity of weeding out every department of the city government, and if he shall show a sufficient fullness of zeal in the doing to sweep out every last henchman of the thoroughly corrupt crew we warrant him it will be the most popular act of his official life. Of popular sympathy for the sufferers there will be none. It ought to and no doubt will be a sufficient cause for the proscription of any candidate for political preferment in future that he is even so much as an apologist for such a gang.

THANKS to the short-sightedness of trades unionism the one thing which an American youth finds it most difficult to learn in this country is a mechanical trade. The educational institutions of the country will prepare a man to shine in the professions, to keep books and to scintillate in "sassiety," but of the use of tools and of technical industry they teach him little or nothing. The consequence is that the professions are vastly overcrowded and unremunerative, while of the native born there is but a sprinkling in any of the trades. And yet, the prizes to be secured in the building, constructive, manufacturing and other productive trades are higher on the average than those to be acquired in the professions. These facts give the all-sufficient raison d'etre for the New York Trade School that was founded by the late Col. Richard T. Auchmuty. We do not know of an educational institution in the country that at the present moment so well deserves the support of the American people. It is thoroughly scientific in its system, teaching the theory as well as the practice of all the building trades, and of blacksmithing and tailoring. Its graduates may look forward with confidence to the time when they shall be leaders in their branches, employers of men and "Captains of Industry." As yet it stands almost alone in its peculiar field, and even its existence might have been short; had not the true philanthropy and self-sacrifice of its founder attracted the attention of a sterling American capitalist. Now it will go on forever, by both precept and example showing what should be in multiplied numbers in every large centre of population in the country. We commend the New York Trade School heartily to the parents of our American youth.

William Harkness, President of the Board of Assessors.

Mayor Schieren has completed his cabinet with the appointment of Mr. William Harkness to the office of President of the Board of Assessors, and Mr. Harkness has accepted the position—in many respects the most important in the gift of the Mayor. Mr. Harkness is in his 54th year, a resident of Brooklyn for forty-six years, and for the last thirty engaged in the paint and wall-paper trade. His present establishment is at 688 to 692 Fulton street, his home at 300 Clinton street. He is a Republican in his political inclination and has been a member of the Board of Education for the last five years. His business associations are of the most approved, and testify better than anything else to his eminent fitness for the office. He is Vice-President of the Sprague National Bank, a trustee of two other banks, and a director of the Nassau Fire Insurance Company. As a well-to-do Republican he is, of course, a member of the Union League Club. Mayor Schieren feels greatly relieved and elated over his success in getting this sort of man to accept the thankless position. He feels that he has in Mr. Harkness a lieutenant upon whose co-operation for an equitable readjustment of Brooklyn's faulty tax system he can place implicit reliance.

To Revise the Brooklyn Building Law.

Building Commissioner Wesley C. Bush is engaged upon a bill for the revision of the Brooklyn building law, which, when completed, he proposes to ask the Legislature to accept as a substitute for that sent up to Albany by Commissioner Rutan, and to enact. Mr. Bush found occasion for ignoring Mr. Rutan's work in the refusal of the latter to entrust his bill to his successor in office and the new Corporation Counsel for their inspection before it was introduced. Since the bill has been printed, Mr. Bush has had opportunity to examine it and has found so many places in which, as it seemed to him, it was susceptible of improvement, that he has concluded to drop the Rutan form and draft an entirely new bill, fashioned, he says, more upon the plan of the New York law.

Questions and Answers.

GENERAL ASSIGNMENT.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly answer the following?

I contracted with A to put a dumb-waiter in a house nearly completed. I did the work as agreed, and then learned that a few days before I had finished A had transferred the house to B, and a day or two later A made a general assignment. Query: Will a lien hold against the house now owned by B? I had no order from B, but did the work after he became the owner. To whom should I present my claim—the assignee of A or to B the owner—or to both?

Answer.—You make two statements which seem to be inconsistent: "A few days before I had finished A had transferred the house to B," and "I had no order from B, but did the work after he became the owner."

If ninety days have not yet expired since the work was done we should advise you to file a lien against the property, B owner, and also to present your claim to both A's assignee and B. The lien law reads: "Any person who shall hereafter perform any labor or service or furnish any materials which have been used in erecting, altering or repairing any house with the consent of the owner may have a lien for the price and value of such labor and material upon such house, etc." The word consent is thus discussed in several decisions of the Court: "A lien is given whenever the owner of the land consents by his acts and declarations to the erection of a structure upon it, to the same extent as if he had contracted directly for its construction." By this provision the Legislature intended to enforce the equitable principle that one who knowingly takes the benefit of the property and labor of another, in the form of improvements upon his land, ought to have the land subjected to a lien therefor." "Consent may be evidenced by the fact of knowledge of the performance of the labor and the absence of objection thereto."

BREACH OF CONTRACT.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly answer following: A owns a piece of land by quit claim deed from city. B leases same from A with permission to build on it. B makes contract with C, who started building but did not finish it. C is worth nothing. B gave him three days' notice to go ahead with building, but he did not. A is finishing building himself. C had overdrawn his payment to some extent and left unpaid bills to the amount of $400. The contract was $1,325. C received $900. A intends to use the $400 to finish building. Is it possible that there is no remedy for such a case as this? I am one of the losers. Will you kindly advise me how to get at this case? (2). C had made a verbal contract with E in presence of witness that E would get his money as soon as E's job was done. It was distinctly understood that the work would not be done any other way. Can E proceed criminally against C or not in above case?

Answer.—Your question does not state clearly the precise information you desire, but we will answer to the best of our conception of it. We presume, as you say, that B made the contract with C, that you intended afterwards to say that B is finishing the building, and intends to use the $400 for that purpose. A is clearly not injured, so he has no remedy to seek. B may finish the building and sue C for the difference between $1,325, the amount of the contract, and what it actually cost him in all to erect the building. The mechanics or material-men to whom C owes the $400 have only the same remedy that B has, namely, to sue C for what he owes them. There are no facts stated in the question which would warrant criminal proceedings against C.—LAW EDITOR.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—Many of the ordinary winter conditions prevail, although the mild weather during a portion of the present week permitted the pushing forward of some work and contributed slightly to the sale of brick. A portion of the demand was supplied by odd lots coming forward from New Jersey, and a portion from the holding of North River stock at this point, and, as there were no important fresh arrivals of the latter, the accumulation has probably become somewhat reduced. On prices "of course there was no change," say all the brokers and commission men, as that matter is all attended to by the manufacturers' association and the duties here are simply to skirmish around and keep a weather eye open for such custom as may be willing to negotiate. It is hinted that if a freeze comes to shut off all sources of supply, there may be an addition to the value limit on goods here, but a counter suggestion comes that in the present generally indifferent attitude of buyers, an increase of cost might result in shutting off considerable demand. It is generally expected that the price of fronts will be named at old rates for the coming season.

LATH.—There has evidently been too many lath in since the opening of the year and the market continues to shade off gradually. Some stock has sold during the week at $1.90, and possibly that might still be all that could be obtained under pressure, but $2 was also made and it may be retained as part of the quotation. General consumption is slow just now and receivers occasionally have to search outside the Metropolitan limits to find customers.

LIME.—Everything conspires to make it a very small and uninteresting market at the moment. No important arrivals take place, but a larger quantity would be useless in the face of very indifferent demand, and the general market rate as fixed by the combination remains unchanged. There does not seem to be much bother about the tariff question at the moment, as the legislators are evidently doing all the worry.

LUMBER.—At some of the yards there has been a little more stock sent out during the month than expected, owing to the large amount of mild weather which has permitted both consumption and deliveries. Still, it is only worthy of passing remark, and would not in ordinary seasons be considered of any account, nor do dealers discover anything as yet to induce them to exhibit special interest looking to the negotiating for new supplies. There are a great many reasons why a greater quantity of stuff should be taken by consumers, but buyers do not exhibit a desire to place orders, and even the small accumulations now in hand are doing very well in satisfying all the calls made. Under the circumstances operators with bulk lots of stock to offer adopt the judicious course of abstaining from much of an effort to secure custom, and there is still a backwardness in perfecting contracts, somewhat unusual, especially where customers desire to engage the product of certain favorite mills. A certain amount of discussion over the tariff goes on in a disjointed sort of way, with now and then a tendency to indulge in some very pronounced expressions of opinion, but a great many operators prefer to admit the decided uncertainties of the situation and no business is doing upon basis of change in duties. A letter recently written from Ottawa says that the Canadian government is steadily working up to a point where it will determine to renew the duty on saw logs unless lumber is free-listed this side of the boundary line. Results accomplished in the woods are quite uncertain as yet, but there are evidences that the loggers are not doing quite as well as promised at the commencement of the season.

Eastern Spruce has been dropping in to moderate extent, a portion on orders and some for a market. The random offering evidently sold irregularly, for while good luck might in one instance secure a willing customer and a fair price, the next sale would more than likely compel a concession. There are some specials in hand, but differing from the ordinary method buyers do not ask a bid upon the specification, they name their own figures and expect them to be accepted. Nothing of importance doing in Hemlock of late and the market a little nominal. Yellow pine is meeting with some attention, but there is no trouble about finding a seller for all demand developed and at easy terms. The call is increasing a little for Carolina pine with the market ruling steadily though offerings are ample. White pine is dull so far as large parcels are concerned, but some buyers can now and then be found for car lots of stock. There is also some attention secured from exporters.

Hard woods are apparently pretty dull and it is difficult to obtain any information of importance on the market. The poplar people are talking steadily because of expected support from the primal markets as well as upon hopes of more demand for the wood. Oak and birch will also be wanted if consumption commences to revive, as the assortment on hand is not particularly full or liberal. Walnut is a little doubtful on home account, but there is likely to be a good fair chance for all first-class goods adapted to the foreign outlet. Some manufacturers have had their agents here looking the market over, but appeared to come to conclusion that it was not a good time to waste any effort in urging custom.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

There continues to be considerable complaint of dullness from the several lumber centres. Nearly all reports, however, are apparently reflecting prior conditions that will measurably have passed away ere this issue of the Lumberman shall reach its readers. The very latest information received at this office since the date of most of the correspondence appearing in this issue indicates a very recent start in improvement. Again must we chide lumbermen at large for thinking that there could be a sudden increase of demand for lumber after January 1. This month is usually a dull period in lumber movement, and why should January, 1894, be an exception to the general rule? Neither should we gauge the present month with the corresponding one of last year. Then there was an extraordinary winter trade as a consequence of the world's fair building here, and of general prosperity throughout the county. After the panic and depression of last year, nothing but a slight gain should have been looked for this month. That gain is being realized, so that everybody should be cheered by it instead of continuing to express disappointment and nurse a complaining spirit.

At Chicago there is an improvement in the wholesale trade. Nearly all the shippers state that there has been an increase of orders during the week, and inquiries are coming in with such frequency as to indicate a continued enlargement of demand. Evidently these indications are the forerunners of the spring trade. Dealers do not expect a rushing demand right away, neither is there much anticipation of anything extraordinary during the coming season; but a fair requirement is looked for as a reasonable certainty.

On account of there generally being small stocks in the hands of country retail dealers and consumers the wholesale trade is likely to fully realize any increase of consumptive demand. Reserves are mainly in the hands of the wholesale dealers or at the mills. It is probable that the spring trade will be a hand-to-mouth process to a considerable extent, but that has been the rule for several years. Retail dealers do not carry so much stock as they did in former years, and for this

WITH all the dullness that appears on the surface there is no doubt that business is slowly improving. This is not a time of year when rapid progress can be expected; if the record of failures are less and the reports of trade from different centres are not couched in the gloomy terms that have been characteristic of them for so long a time we ought to be satisfied and encouraged. The probable falling off in the volume of money coming to New York ought also to be significant of a better state of things throughout the country, and further stimulation will be occasioned in a short time from now when renewed agricultural activity calls money from this centre to the interior. Wall street has not been a very dull place in the past week, though the amount of business done has been small, because interest has been excited in the fate of the issue of bonds by the Treasury and of the Wilson Tariff bill. But the success of the bond offer and the passage of the bill have had surprisingly small influence on prices, showing how utterly indifferent the public is to the stock market. This indifference was also manifest when there was a danger that Mr. Carlisle's offer of bonds would not be accepted by investors, though that would not have lasted long, because such a failure would undoubtedly have had most serious consequences, and we would have seen activity, but in the wrong direction. The service done the financial community by Mr. John A. Stewart and Mr. Edward King in making the issue a success has not been fully appreciated. It is remarkable that up to almost the last moment they were the only men having any influence in the matter, who saw that Wall street could not afford to let the issue fail. How near it came doing so is shown by the total of the subscriptions which was only about $12,000,000 more than the amount subscribed for in New York at the last moment under the persuasions of the two gentlemen mentioned above. The presidents of the great banks of this city coolly contemplating the failure of the loan after the Secretary of the Treasury had come to their doors to urge it on them, suggests the picture of a man calmly smoking a pipe while seated over an open barrel of gunpowder. Great credit is, therefore, due the gentlemen who did take a proper view of the situation and made the loan a success. Now that the tariff bill has passed the House, people are speculating on the time it will take in passing the Senate and what changes it will undergo in the process. From all appearances there are some months of anxiety ahead before the measure will be finally disposed of, and during which the recovery of business will be retarded, though the depression has been so long continued and the economies on all sides so great that it would seem that at least the small rate of improvement we have seen recently must continue in spite of tariff discussion.

THE failure of the competition for a new municipal building may pretty safely be taken for granted. The fact that the Mayor lays the blame for the failure on his professional advisers is at least an acknowledgment of the failure itself. It is impossible, so long as the conditions of the competition are observed, for anybody to form a judgment upon the merits of the designs or the findings of the architectural judges. That is one of the misfortunes of the situation. Whatever may be the value of public criticism it is certain that the plan of withholding information from the public until a choice has been made is not popular and tends to promote the failure of the competition. It does not at all follow that the failure of the competition is a public misfortune. To us it seems rather a matter for public congratulation. The plan was ill-digested from the first. In the first place there is a want of reason in opening new parks down town at the public cost and at the same time closing with big buildings the parks already existing, which are moreover bordered with towering buildings, the owners of which built under an implied covenant that the park would remain open. To cover the City Hall Park with a new City Hall would be to reduce at once and very seriously the rental value of the big buildings facing the Park on Park row and on Broadway. The city can afford to buy land for its new building and the Elm street improvement would offer an excellent chance to get a site cheap, and at the same time to enhance the value of adjoining property if the fixed idea had not taken possession of the authorities that the new city hall must be in the old city hall park. Still more unpromising is the condition that the old city hall must go and that the Tweed court house must stay. To tear down the one public building that good citizens are proud of and grateful for, and to keep standing another public building that good citizens are ashamed of and resent, is a queer way of projecting "an ornament to the city." In cities of which their citizens have reason to be proud the preservation of good old buildings is as much an object of municipal and public care as the erection of good new ones. The plan for the new building was an outrage from the beginning, and it was extremely unlikely that a good result could come from a piece of vandalism like that proposed. The failure of the competition is a respite for the old City Hall, and that is an excellent thing. It is not likely that another competition will soon be undertaken. Before it happens, it is to be hoped that there will be a public sentiment of which municipal officers will have to take notice, not only against pulling down the old City Hall but against putting up any new buildings in City Hall Park.

Municipal Vandalism.

THE New York approach to the Brooklyn Bridge just now presents a spectacle deeply discouraging to those who take an interest in the embellishment of the city and in its progress in civilization. Everybody knows that when the bridge was completed, ten years ago, it was decided that the iron structure that would practically have served the purpose would not be dignified or monumental enough to be suitable in the approach to so great a public work, and that it was worth while to incur a considerable greater expense for the sake of making the approach worthy of the city. Architects of standing were consulted about the treatment of the approach. The result was the massive viaduct of masonry from Park row to Franklin square that is about the most massive and impressive piece of public work in New York. The architecture of the approach is not exquisite, but it is dignified. The arches that span the streets traversing the approach are impressive by their magnitude, and some of them are highly picturesque objects. That one which spans North William street in particular was a very effective structure.

It is scarcely credible that the present authorities of the bridge have gone to work to destroy this approach, and to waste all the money that was spent for the sake of making it worthy of its purpose. It seems that the switching accommodations at the New York end are too restricted, and that more space was needed on each side of the approach. This emergency presented a difficult architectural problem in the design of the addition so as not to interfere with the monumental aspect of the work. Perhaps it could not have been managed without some injury to the appearance of the structure, but the attempt was at any rate worth all the skill that could have been commanded. But the problem did not disturb the authorities in the least. They simply commissioned some railroad engineer to devise something that would carry a wagon-road on each side of the bridge. He went to work in the usual method of the railroad engineer, who has no more notion of art than a hog is vulgarly said to have of a holiday, to effect the practical purpose in the cheapest way. He has built a hideous and vulgar iron structure of which the obtrusive ugliness entirely destroys the effect that a more enlightened administration spent so much money and took so much pains to secure. He has not only projected this abomination so as to render all the offices in the archways of the approach untenantable and unavailable, except for storage lofts and, of course, greatly to reduce the income of the bridge from this source. He has ruthlessly torn off for a quarter of a mile or so the parapet of the viaduct and the corbels beneath it. The total result of his labors is the conversion of one of the few public works in which a civilized citizen can take pride into one of the many public works of which every civilized citizen must feel ashamed. The thing has been done in so thoroughly wanton and brutal a way that it is plain that nobody concerned has ever given a thought to what was in the minds of the original builders of the bridge when they made considerable sacrifices in order to make their bridge an ornament to the city, in addition to a convenient way of crossing the river. The work is a vivid illustration of the remark of an enlightened European that public works are executed in America without reference to art. But this is an extreme instance of vandalism. We do not recall any other quite so atrocious.

It is the more atrocious because the bridge company is not a private money-making corporation from which vandalism, if remunerative, is expected as a matter of course, but the representative of the two cities, the owners of the bridge. In a civilized city the defacement of the bridge approach would call out a general expression of indignation; but we have not seen any intimation in the newspapers that anybody in New York cares at all about the matter.

SILVER men who not a year ago were arguing that the coinage of silver should be unlimited because there was not enough gold to go round among the great nations who participated in the gold scramble of the last three years or so are now changing front and claiming that the production of gold is increasing so fast that silver is likely to present the best qualities on which to base the currency inasmuch as its value will be more settled than that of gold. The production of gold is increasing in a remarkable manner, especially in South Africa. Nearly two years ago we pointed out that the South African gold fields promised to supply the deficiency that was being made in the floating gold supply by the hoarding of the great military powers of Europe. Since then the production of those fields has increased in a much larger ratio. The values of the South African gold production of the last five years were about as follows, taking each ounce reported to be worth $20: 1889, $7,635,160; 1890, $10,897,760; 1891, $14,847,760; 1892, $24,217,360; and 1893, $29,569,460. The average annual production of the world for the years 1850 to 1860 was about $142,500,000, and from 1881 to 1884 only $97,500,000. In 1892 it had risen again to $140,000 and last year is estimated to have been as much as $150,000,000. It will be seen from these figures that only about one-half of the increase for last year came from the South African gold fields and that consequently there is a general increase, which, though it deprives the silver men of the argument of a defective supply of gold for currency purposes, is not so great as to prove their more recent assertion that redundancy may bring about a decline in value. Measuring the value of gold by the values of commodities it may hereafter be asserted that the former has fallen, because no doubt the increase in the supply of gold will bring about an advance in prices before very long, but when we look at the prices most things are now selling at and compare them with the productive value of money, that argument will be true only in appearance and not in fact. For instance, if the increased supply of gold raises the price of wheat, now selling for less than it can be raised and brought to market for, to a figure that gives a fair remuneration to the grower and carrier, it will not be fair to say that the value of gold has decreased because a given amount of that metal will purchase less wheat than it does now. That the supply of silver is not greater than it is, though obviously great enough for the demand, is due to the closing of so many silver mines in the country last year which must remain closed during the winter months but will doubtless reopen again in the spring, so that unless the demand for silver can be enlarged there is much more likely to be a decline in silver prices than in gold prices. If the silver men would cut loose from the fiat-money men and come down to business principles, and put aside their own theories and fancies, they could find an enlarged use for silver, which the country would accept and which would materially help to steady the price of their product, namely, in the substitution of silver or silver equivalents of limited legal tender for all the small notes outstanding and to be issued. There is no indication, even with the great increase of supply for the last few years, that there will be more gold than can be used, but without an increase in the use of silver there is always a danger that its production will be larger than the market can afford to take.

WE published last week a timely letter from Mr. F. R. Houghton concerning the "Greater New York" scheme, that certainly raises a question which should receive prompt attention from the public and particularly from those gentlemen who are actively engaged in and without the Legislature pushing the project along to a popular verdict. The fact that certain important imperfections in the scheme have not yet been noticed is, it seems to us, very good evidence of how little active popular sympathy has ever been given to the project of consolidation. It has indeed been much talked about in the newspapers—used as a staple topic for paragraphs for years—and people have accorded a perfunctory assent to the proposal, but they have paid so scant attention to details that probably there are not to-day one in a thousand who could specifically state what are to be the limits of "Greater New York" as suggested. This expanded metropolis is essentially the work of a few active enthusiastic individuals who have pushed ahead for years on their own initiative. We have not any fault to find with this, for their work is good, but we must say their plan, as now formulated at Albany, has not by any means been delineated in accordance with public sentiments and requirements. They propose, for instance, to include in Greater New York parts of Long Island, where the ruling feeling is decidedly antagonistic to consolidation, while, as Mr. Houghton has pointed out, they have excluded, for what reason one cannot say, contiguous places like Yonkers, Mount Vernon, New Rochelle — all towns closely related to New York by geographical and other ties and where opinion is strongly in favor of annexation. It would be most illogical to leave out these towns, for they are essentially a part of the metropolitan area and belong to Greater New York. The bill now in Albany should at once be amended so as to remedy these serious defects. The Real Estate Exchange should move in this matter.

"Public Opinion."

(A conversation on a street corner.)

JONES—The country is being ruined; nothing short of it. The blamed tinkering with the tariff is doing the business.

BROWN—I'm glad to hear something is doing "business."

JONES—I tell you, sir, this political playing with other people's interests is criminal. That's the word, criminal. Wilson and his piratical gang ought to be drummed out of Washington. Pretty soon there'll be nothing of the country left for them to monkey with. That's one blessing. What do you think, Socrates?

SOCRATES—I don't know.

JONES—You don't know? You must know; everybody knows. This tariff business is cutting the very vitals out of the country.

SOCRATES—Indeed! I am very ignorant. Pray tell me how are they working this destruction?

JONES—Why, by lowering the tariff, disturbing trade, placing manufacturers in such a fix that they can't tell whether they're afoot or on horseback.

SOCRATES—Indeed! What duties have been reduced?

JONES—Why—there's—let me see—there's sugar—and wool and—

BROWN—Iron.

JONES—Yes, that's so—Iron—and—and—well, a host of other things.

SOCRATES—But, unfortunately, you don't happen to know exactly what they are. Eh?

JONES—No. I can't bother my head with such stuff.

SOCRATES—Of course not. And how much have they reduced the duty on, say—sugar?

JONES—Oh! They've put that on the free list—didn't they, Brown?

BROWN—I think so. Yes, of course they did.

SOCRATES—The raw material or the manufactured article or both?

JONES—Blamed. if I know.

SOCRATES—And in the case of iron. Do you mean that the duties are to be lowered on all iron goods or on only some, or is it on only the ore?

JONES—Well—. That's too much for me.

SOCRATES—And on wool—?

JONES—Stop there, I'm not a walking encyclopedia.

SOCRATES—Evidently. But tell me do you know anything about the sugar trade, its condition, profits, methods of manufacture, and so forth?

JONES—Why, no. It's all I can do to keep up with my own business.

SOCRATES—Nor of the wool, nor the iron trades?

JONES—"Not guilty" on those counts also.

SOCRATES—But if you don't know precisely what changes in duties the new tariff contemplates, nor anything about those trades, and I presume of others too, how can you, my much talking friend, say they'll be ruined by this Wilson measure; indeed, how can you accurately speak at all on the matter?

JONES—Not speak? Why, my dear fellow, would you have me mum on a question everybody 's talking about?

SOCRATES—Not at all, only shouldn't your opinion be intelligent, and can it be intelligent if you haven't given five minutes' real study to the facts?

JONES—Pshaw! Who has time for that? I'm not a college professor. My opinion is just as good as anybody else's.

SOCRATES—Just as good—unfortunately.

JONES (aside)—Old crank. I tell you Brown, this country 's in a devilish bad state and will be in a worse fix before Cleveland & Co. are through with it.

(On the opposite corner of the street.)

ROBINSON—I wouldn't spare one of the robbers. The whole gang should be kicked out, the sooner the better. The sniveling lot have been whining long enough over their "infant industries." The American people have got tired of being in this wet nurse business.

SMITH—You bet. Why, up there in Trenton those pottery fellows are making 30 per cent.

SOCRATES—Who's making 30 per cent?

SMITH—The Trenton potteries.

SOCRATES—All of them?

SMITH—How can I tell you?

SOCRATES—How much of the capital invested there makes 30 per cent?

SMITH—I'll never tell you.

SOCRATES—Do any of the concerns lose money or pay very small dividends.

SMITH—I pass.

SOCRATES—Then why are you talking about "Robbers?" Are there not some men in all businesses who, due either to particular circumstances or to extraordinary merit, make extremely large profits? In all cases is it due to the tariff?

ROBINSON—But look here, Socrates. Take the case of the carpet manufacturers. You know they are actually selling their goods abroad in competition with the whole world and yet they go crying to Washington that if the tariff is lowered they'll have to go out of business and dismiss their poor, dear work people whom they love so tenderly, they do.

SOCRATES—How many yards of carpet do they sell abroad?

ROBINSON—I don't know.

SOCRATES—Was any profit made upon what was sold, and if so, how much, or was it merely sent abroad to get rid of accumulated stocks which the domestic market couldn't absorb?

ROBINSON—The returns have not yet come in on those questions.

SOCRATES—Do you know anything about the carpet business?

ROBINSON—Only what my wife tells me.

SOCRATES—Do you know how a carpet is made, what kind of wool is used in the manufacture, how much it costs, the price of labor, the average of profits?

ROBINSON—The study of carpets and the Pentateuch are two subjects which I have deferred until I have more time for "culture."

SOCRATES—Then how do you know the carpet manufacturers may not have some cause for weeping in the Capitol?

ROBINSON—Come off, there. You old protectionist! He treads as softly as if he was walking on Wilton, doesn't he Smith? But I can tell you, Socrates, the days of you and your crowd are numbered. The Public is on to you.

SOCRATES—You mean Public Opinion, don't you? Enlightened intelligence!

THE action of property-owners very frequently stands in marked opposition to their utterances. Nothing is more frequent (and nothing is better justified) than the persitent cry which is perpetually going up from holders of real estate for the improvement of the city. We want, they say, better streets, park improvements, extensive additions to the sewerage system. and so on. In a word they are constantly demanding, and, as we have said before, demanding quite rightly, that the city should be brought in every respect to the highest point of efficiency. Nothing, for instance, has been heard more, of late, than the cry for better transit facilities, and yet, strangely, whenever any person or company proposes any specific additions to or improvements of the existing transportation system there is sure to arise at once, all along the route of the contemplated betterment, active and, alas, seldom intelligent opposition. It is proposed, as our readers know, to build a cable road along Lexington avenue, and yet this necessary and wholesome enterprise, viewed that is from the point of view of the city at large, is meeting opposition and attack from a few owners along the line of the road between 35th and 42d streets, that is along the only part of the avenue on which there is already a horse car line. These individuals object to the change in method of traction, which clearly, from all points of view, must be to them a benefit only second to the larger benefit which will accrue to the traveling public. The demand of property-owners for general improvements must carry small weight, so long as in specific cases like this they evince for the very principles upon which they wish the city authorities and others to act so little practical adherence.

READERS of the fragments of an address recently delivered by Justice Brewer before the Yale Alumni, scattered through the daily papers, must have thought that they were living in an unquestionably bad age, one of turmoil, strife, misthoughts, and a time it would have been better not to have lived in; a time rendered unsafe and unpleasant by that many-sided, erratic, dogmatic, egotistic and irrepressible being, the crank. Here is what Judge Brewer said: "With all the splendor of its material development, this is also the age of cranks. Listen to some of their utterings: Making the State a dram shopkeeper secures temperance; financial problems are solved by causing blood to flow bridle-rein deep; pardon of Anarchist murderers is a means of justice; a long-continued strike fills the mouths of the laborer's wife and children with bread; dividing the school money between denominational bodies accomplishes the grand democracy of the public schools; taking an Indian's land helps to civilize him; putting a tax on a Chinaman protects the American laborer from one with whom he is unable or unwilling to compete, and is a means of grace tending to the conversion of the 'Heathen Chinee.'" At first glance it does look as if the times were out of joint and that conservatism and wisdom were relegated to the back places while the wildest theorists and most impracticable of doctrinaires were elevated to the seats of honor. But is this age crankier than other ages have been? And if the crank has more honor than he deserves to-day, is it not due to special causes and will it not cease with them? Shakespeare makes one of his characters say: "This is a mad world, my masters," wherein is expressed with more epigrammatic force for an age hundreds of years gone the way of all ages, just about what Justice Brewer would say of the times he lived in. Supposing we add, Justice Brewer siad, too: "In times of peace it is easy enough for any man to act as President of these United States. I refer you to the husband of Mrs. Hayes." Why should Justice Brewer refer to the late Mr. Hayes in this way unless he, too, be afflicted with either the personal or political crankiness that indulges in spite and prejudice. The argument would have been just as good if the illustration were given in terms of taste. No one mistook Mr. Hayes for a Solon, though he had naturally the statesmanship of cleanliness which ought to count as something of value in this day and country. Following up this little partisan fandango on the grave of Mr. Hayes, Justice Brewer had something to say about how this came to be a Christian nation. So far crankiness has not been analyzed scientifically; when it is it will probably be determined that, like electricity, its elements are undiscoverable, but its prevalence universal. When we complain of this disturbing spirit we probably are the victims of that imperfect knowledge of which the crank is the great exemplar. Not that the crank is to be esteemed, but he is to be taken as something that comes with living, like the measles, and is to be borne philosophically. If only those of perfect knowledge were to be allowed to speak, earth's critics would have no ground. It is, indeed, exasperating to find how powerful for mischief the crank is at this moment, but in the end the right thing is attained. This is no more an age of cranks than any other age has been. We think so sometimes because we are more acquainted with the activities of our own age than preceding ones; but historical research tells us at once that every age is an age of cranks and one more than another, only by the enlargement of the field of operations. The unpractical mind is apt to hope for a world that will run smoothly and free from care, danger or trouble; but the practical mind knows that these things are and always will be inseparable from our condition, aggravated or lessened from time to time by the circumstances of the hour, but always present in some degree.

Legislation at Albany.

ALBANY, February 1.—The Legislature is not getting forward with much legislation concerning the City of New York. Possibly this is due in part to the fact that the city authorities by various enabling acts of late years have obtained the power already to make such local improvements as they desire to have made. The Elm Street Improvement Law, it will be remembered, was passed last year, and also the law enlarging greatly the powers of the Dock Department. Then in the year previous the bills were passed authorizing the building of a new City Hall. The Croton Aqueduct system has also been looked after and perfected by recent legislation.

But there are signs, nevertheless, that this may not be a session barren of legislation relating to New York of great importance. The Senate has appointed a committee this week to investigate the Police Department which the correspondent of THE RECORD AND GUIDE will vouch for as composed of men of integrity, and with such a large factor of independence among them that no whitewashing report will pass muster with them if facts are dragged out which reflect injuriously upon the management of the Police Department. Moreover, the members of the committee have given the best evidence that they could give that they intend to make an investigation in good faith by offering to appoint any man as their counsel the Chamber of Commerce may name. It is to be hoped that Joseph H. Choate, who has been named, will accept the appointment. Moreover, the committee will summon any witnesses that may be named by those who have been declaring that the Police Department is corruptly managed.

Pending the report of this Special Investigating Committee the leading Republicans in the Legislature have put upon the shelf their bill abolishing the present Board of Police and creating a Board of Police of two Republicans and two Democrats. But, nevertheless, legislation of an interesting character regarding the Board of Police continues to be introduced. Assemblyman Sheffield this week presented a bill making Superintendent Byrnes the chief executive officer of the police force, with power to change the assignments of the inspectors, captains, sergeants and roundsmen. Mr. Sheffield thus emancipates Superintendent Byrnes from his present thraldom to the Board of Police. Instead of being largely a figure-head he becomes the actual ruler of the police force, and the Board of Police Commissioners are relegated to the duty of presiding at police trials and making appointments to the force.

Mr. Sheffield also introduced a bill which puts its finger upon the radical point of weakness in the charter of the City of New York—the provision that the heads of departments shall serve for six years.

while Mayors only have a term of two years. When a reform Mayor like Abram S. Hewitt is elected, therefore, he finds himself saddled with city departments under the government of men appointed by his predecessors in office. He may appoint one commissioner to each department during his term, but what can one reform commissioner do against three other commissioners previously appointed upon the party spoils plan? Mr. Sheffield would make the term of every commissioner in charge of a department of the same length as the Mayor's own. The Hewitts when elected, therefore, could stamp their individuality upon every branch of the city government. Mr. Sheffield, therefore, has introduced a bill with the following provision:

"At any time within sixty days after the commencement of his term of office, the Mayor of the City of New York, hereafter elected, may remove from office any head of department and appoint his successor. Such successor shall hold office, unless removed in accordance herewith, until the expiration of the term of office of the Mayor who appoints him, and until his successor is appointed and qualifies. Nothing herein contained shall be construed as affecting the power of the Mayor to remove any head of department for cause."

Charles B. Stover, secretary of an organization known as the Chadwick Civic Club, came here this week with a rapid transit bill which he asserts has the approval of the labor unions of New York; that it was adopted at a "trade union conference," held at Clarendon Hall, New York, on February 3, 1893. The bill has been introduced by Senator Robertson and Assemblyman Butts. It abolishes the present Board of Rapid Transit Commissioners and substitutes a new Board of three members, to be appointed by Mayor Gilroy. The question of whether or not the city should build the road is to be submitted to a vote of the people at the coming Fall election. If the people decide that the city should not build the road then its franchise is to be sold at public auction to the highest bidder. The bill authorizes the new Rapid Transit Board to authorize a third track upon the 2d avenue line, north of 1st avenue, on the 3d avenue line, north of 9th street, and on the 9th avenue line, north of Rector street.

Assemblyman Robertson has introduced a bill giving the Fire Commissioners power, by a unanimous vote, to retire firemen upon a pension.

Senator Coggeshall, who lives at Utica, to every one's astonishment, has introduced a bill raising the salaries of all patrolmen of the police in New York to $1,500 after January 1, 1895. Mr. Coggeshall, of Utica, seems to be pretty free with the money of the taxpayers of New York.

Assemblyman Reilly has introduced the bill providing for a continuous ride for 5 cents upon any elevated and suburban elevated railway connected with it.

Senator Cantor's bill, incorporating the New York Zoological and Botanical Gardens, has been introduced in the Assembly by Mr. Sheffield.

Assemblyman Mittnacht has introduced a bill increasing the number of Deputy Sheriffs from twelve to eighteen, with a similar increase of assistants. This would increase the salary list of the Sheriff $21,000.

Senator Ahearn has introduced a bill giving the Fire Department power to take land for sites for buildings for that department by condemnation proceedings.

Assemblyman Sulzer has presented a bill providing that the drivers of the carts of the Street Cleaning Department shall receive $720 instead of $600 as at present.

A bill fixing the price of gas in New York and Brooklyn at $1 a thousand feet was introduced by Mr. Burtis.

Lancaster vs. The Amsterdam Improvement Company.

The first impressions of the decision in this important case obtained from the Albany dispatches were that it held the charter of the corporation forfeitable by the State. This seems to have been incorrect. The important points in the decision are given herewith.

The opinion, written by Justice Gray, was concurred in by all the Judges present. The conclusion of the court is stated in the following language:

"It seems to me to be very clear, upon examination of our laws and by reference to such judicial opinions, that there never was a time in the history of the State when a foreign corporation was prevented from entering the boundaries to transact any lawful business which a non-resident natural person might have transacted here. What public policy is evaded, and what public interests are prejudiced, by extending to the foreign corporation, for the transaction of its business, the privileges and protection of the laws of our own State, even when that business involves the acquisition of and dealing in real property? If we were to consider the question simply in the light of a sound or a good policy, there are abundant reasons for holding that it is to the public advantage that our borders should be as much open for all lawful purposes to foreign corporations as to natural persons. Their advent and lawful operation cannot but tend to some advancement of our commercial interests and must advantage the commonwealth. It is the policy of the State to encourage the employment of capital here by liberal laws; upon what reasonable ground shall we recognize the natural person who comes here and refuse recognition to the foreign corporation? And how is the matter affected if the capital is employed in dealing in the acquisition and barter of lands, and not in commerce, manufacturing or such like ways? What legal difference is there, which the State can recognize, if all the corporations happen to be residents of this State? The corporation is, nevertheless, a legal entity, endowed by a sister State with capacities and powers, and seeks our State as the field of its activity in the conduct of its business enterprise. Incorporations are, as a rule, advantageous to private and to public interests. As the business capacities of the general mass of mankind are constantly improving, associations of individuals, voluntarily combining their contributions, are able to perform works of various characters which no one person is able to accomplish. I believe that to be a well recognized principle in political economy. But we are not to consider the question as one simply of sound or of good policy, but whether there is any known public policy which is affected. What reason is there that the Courts shall condemn the business proposed to be carried on by the defendant? What vice inheres in it? The case does not fall within those which the Courts have decided to be against public policy. The business is not immoral in itself. That it is not prohibited by legislation I think I have been able to show.

"In the opinion below it is suggested that if the defendant may legally acquire and convey land in this State at pleasure there is no limitation upon the amount which a foreign corporation may hold, except in its ability to purchase and pay. As applied to the case of this corporation, it might be a sufficient answer to say that the chartered purpose of dealing in the purchase and sale of real property rather negatives the idea of an intended accumulation of real estate holdings to any extraordinary extent. But a better answer would be that it is always within the power of the Legislature to interfere and to regulate if, by the magnitude of the business, the public interests are affected and seem unduly threatened. Decisions of this Court might be referred to to show how far the legislative power has been deemed to extend in the direction of controlling a private business, on the ground that its magnitude affected the public and justified such interference.

"Without prolonging the discussion, I think the General Term erred in their conclusions and that the judgment should be reversed, and that judgment should be ordered for the defendant upon the submission, with costs."

A Suggestive Decision.

AS TO ADVERTISING IN FORECLOSURE PROCEEDINGS.

Persons interested in real estate matters have lately given much attention to the inadequate manner in which properties sold by order of Court have been insufficiently advertised, and our leading real estate journals and daily press have given much consideration in their columns to the matter. An interesting motion in this connection has just been decided by Judge Lawrence.

The East River Savings Institution brought an action to foreclose a mortgage on premises in West 79th street, Charles L. Bucki being the owner of the equity of redemption thereof. Hattie E. Bucki, his wife, was made a defendant in the action, in order to release the property from her inchoate right of dower. Proceedings to obtain a limited divorce by Mrs. Bucki are now pending, and she claims that her husband defaulted in the payment of interest on the mortgage above referred to for the sole purpose of forcing a foreclosure thereof, and having the property purchased at a judicial sale thereof, in his interests, for a low price, freed from her claim of dower.

As soon as the foreclosure action was commenced Mr. Bucki closed the house, boarded up the front door and parlor windows, thereby making it impossible to persons desiring to purchase the same to view the interior.

Mrs. Bucki, through her counsel, Messrs. Julius J. and A. Lyons, asked the Court to have inserted in the judgment a clause authorizing the referee to properly advertise the property, in addition to the manner required by law, and to print and paste posters of the sale, and also that a person be put in charge of the premises with a view to showing the same to persons desiring to inspect the interior thereof, the expense of this advertising to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale.

This motion was opposed by Mr. Bucki, through his counsel, Messrs. Wallam & Beach, and the following decision was rendered by Judge Lawrence upon said motion:

"Under the circumstances disclosed by the papers read on this motion I think that the Court should take some steps to see that the property is not sacrificed in the foreclosure sale. Provision may be made in the judgment for advertising the property and for showing it to intending purchasers."

This is certainly a great advance in the interest of mortgagors, in enabling them to obtain the real value of their equity in the mortgaged premises sold under decree of foreclosure. The decision is suggestive at least that defendants in foreclosure proceedings may upon proper showing to the courts obtain such publicity of the sale of their property as shall secure to them the full benefit of a free and public competition at the sale.

The Tiffany Chapel.

The Tiffany Glass and Decorating Company have erected a building adjoining their studios at 333 4th avenue, New York, for the exhibition of their chapel which attracted such wide attention at the late World's Fair, Jackson Park, Chicago, Ill. It is their purpose to open it with a private view on or about February 8th. Cards will be mailed from their regular list, and will be sent on application to those who are interested in Christian Art in its latest developments.

The Architectural League.

The Architectural League, of New York, will hold its regular meeting at No. 215 West 57th street, on Wednesday evening next. Prof. C. Francis Osborne, of Cornell University, will read a paper on "The Architect and His Work." Drawings in competition for the Avery prize, subject, "A Pulpit in an Episcopal Church," will be on exhibition, and the award made by the vote of the members present. There will be a special exhibition of full-size measured drawings of European work, made by Albert Randolph Ross. The collection was gotten together by the Society of Beaux Arts Architects, and an invitation has been extended to the society to dine with the league. Dinner will be served at 6.30

An Alleged Brick Trust.

The brick trade has been interested and not a little amused by reports that have been circulated chiefly outside of the trade, of a new combination that is to take in all the brickmaking interests of the Hudson River Valley, New Jersey and Long Island. Inquiries in the trade itself resulted in discovering that a person named Campbell, said to hail from the vicinity of Mattewan, has formulated a scheme for buying up these brick interests with the stock of a company he is to form and so control the whole brick output. The company to do its own towing and sell directly to the consumer at its own prices. While, of course, he has found brickmakers to listen to his proposal he does not yet appear to have induced any to accept his terms. His canvass so far, apparently, has been confined to the Hudson River Valley and has not yet reached the New Jersey or Long Island men. No doubt if the promoter or promoters of this scheme could guarantee a fair cash price for the plants and interests he or they want to absorb a trade can be promptly effected, but in the absence of such a guarantee, the labor expended on the scheme will be entirely profitless. One well-known member of the trade, in speaking of it, said: "The objection that people who are engaged in the brick manufacturing business would have to this plan is that they would be left out in the cold after their leaseholds expire. Their leases generally run for five years and the lessees expect to have the benefit that may accrue from a renewal at the end of their term. As it is proposed to take over these leases, when they expire the company would stand ready to renew them. The promoter of the scheme, I understand, promises 8 per cent on preferred stock and 17 per cent on common, but I have not learned that he has as yet provided any plan for redeeming these stocks or of making them of permanent value. He does not propose to pay cash, and without cash or cash equivalent he cannot have my plant nor I think other plants that I know of. As an illustration of the nature of this plan I may say that it estimates a saving of a million dollars a year from towage alone, which would be a very remarkable result seeing that the total expense of towing in this trade is now about $180,000 a year." Brick manufacturers of all the districts mentioned were unanimous in their opinion that any combination of the nature of the one proposed to control the trade and put up prices would inevitably result in failure, for the reason that the capital required to start business being comparatively small and the clay deposits very extensive whenever profits made the business attractive competition would immediately arise and break prices. Even putting that aside, as it would require to get about a hundred and fifty manufacturers in line, a thing impossible to do, the plan is quite impracticable.

The Boston Convention.

EIGHTH ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF BUILDERS BOOKED FOR FEB. 13 TO 16—THE PROGRAMME.

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday, February 13th, 14th and 16th, the eighth annual convention of the National Association of Builders will be held at Boston. The programme of exercises now issued shows that the intervening day, Thursday, will be given over to committee work, and to visiting points of interest in Boston and vicinity. Doubtless "the Battle of Bunker Hill" will be fought over again on that day—in imagination.

The entire itinerary, including a diversified schedule of entertainment, has been arranged and will be directed by the Master Builders' Association, which is one of the strongest bodies represented in the National Association. The general headquarters for Monday and Monday evening before the convention, will be at the Master Builders' Association, No. 166 Devonshire street, and after that in parlors retained for the purpose at the Parker House. The Convention will be held in the Mechanics' Building, in Huntington avenue, and, to save time, luncheon will be served to the delegates daily, in the rooms immediately below the Convention Hall.

The opening exercises, on Monday, include an address of welcome by Mayor Matthews, and the annual address of the President of the Association, Mr. Ira G. Hersey, committee appointments and reports, and annual reports of officers and standing committees. At the afternoon session, on Wednesday, Mr. Carroll D. Wright, United States Commissioner of Labor and Statistics, will deliver an address on "The Relations of Employer and Workman," and to be followed by a general discussion of the subject, with a view to action upon a form of permanent arbitration. On Friday morning there will be a "Discussion of the Uniform Contract, with a purpose of securing suggestions as to possible improvement of the form, it being understood that the only action which can be taken by the Association is to recommend our delegates to the 'Joint Committee on Uniform Contract,' to urge the adoption of changes, which, after discussion, may be approved by the Convention."

If, as will probably be the case, the traditions of the Association are observed, the report of the committee appointed to name the time and place of the next convention, and the officers for the ensuing year, will designate Baltimore as the next place of meeting, and one of the delegates from that city, for the next President.

The Master Builders' Association of Boston will provide distinguishing badges for all the cities represented in the Convention, and therefore no badges need be provided by any of the affiliated bodies for their delegates or visitors.

On the subject of entertainments during the convention, the programme speaks as follows:

"It is the purpose of the Master Builders' Association of Boston to arrange such entertainment as it has to offer to delegates and visitors, in a manner that will avoid the introduction of large events which would require the simultaneous presence of all those attending the convention. This method will permit each delegate or visitor to accept the hospitalities offered, in an individual way, and to suit his tastes and convenience. Committees have been assigned so as to provide each delegation with special hosts whose only concern will be the entertainment of their particular guests in the way most attractive to them. Souvenir books will be given each delegate and visitor, in which will be found detail of entertainment plan. No banquet will be given, but a reception and smoker will be tendered the delegates and visitors on the evening of the day upon which the convention closes.

A Triumph for the Building, Savings and Loan Associations.

A DECISION BY THE COURT OF APPEALS OF FAR-REACHING IMPORTANCE - IT PROVIDES A BASIS FOR A NEW AND DESIRABLE FORM OF NEGOTIABLE SECURITIES.

The Building, Savings and Loan Associations of this State are rejoicing over a victory won in the Court of Appeals over Superintendent Preston, of the Banking Department. Something over a year ago Mr. Preston, who has supervision over the associations, ruled that they were not authorized by law to issue paid up or income stock. Some of the associations had begun to do this without consulting him, and after his ruling they paid off and canceled such stock, fearing that a conflict with him in the courts would result in the annulment of their charters. For the same reason no regularly organized association felt like proceeding against him in the test of the question. They felt also that back of the Superintendent, and prompting him to the stand he had taken, was the allied banking interests of the State. Thereupon an association, called the Peter Cooper Savings and Loan Association, was organized for the express purpose of contesting the matter with the Superintendent.

Mr. Preston refused a charter to the association because in its articles of incorporation was a clause authorizing it to issue paid up or income shares. The association applied to the Supreme Court Special Term for a mandamus requiring Superintendent Preston to file the certificate of incorporation. This was refused and the General Term, on appeal, sustained the Special Term. Now the Court of Appeals has reversed these decisions on the essential point, and the Special Term will be required to issue the mandamus.

The decision is of far-reaching importance. If, as the result of it, the Building, Savings and Loan associations are empowered under the law to issue paid up shares, as seems probable, their power as financial institutions will be vastly increased. Hitherto they have not been in great favor with the general class of investors, because they afforded no periodical income for lump sum investments. Only by the hazardous and discouraged practice of so-called "withdrawals" could an investor obtain a cash income from his investment and this was involved with much trouble and delay. To realize the full value of his shares one was required to keep on paying weekly installments for ten or eleven years, and leave the dividends to accumulate with the principal. Any association in good standing has been able to obtain money from the banks, on its notes, as occasion required, but only in temporary loans for special contingencies.

The average earnings of the co-operative associations in this State have been 7½ or 8 per cent for many years, and they have been desirous of issuing income shares paying 5 per cent interest in semi-annual installments. The proceeds of these shares they designed to invest in the same manner as their receipts from periodical subscriptions. Under competent and honest management there could be no doubt about the security of such investments. From the moment of their placing they would increase in value every week by the payments of principal of the mortgagor, which are reinvested as fast as they accumulate, for the general benefit of the members. As real estate is the basis of all security, in the last analysis the value of such security would survive until all other forms of security had been destroyed. The issue of paid-up shares by Building, Savings and Loan associations offers a new and desirable form of negotiable securities, of fixed value, with fixed income, as readily transferable as railroad or other stocks and bonds, with the very best sort of property for its security.

How the associations proceed to avail themselves of this new and vast augmentation of power will be watched with great interest. Much more confidence would be felt in them if they were not so largely composed of people who are entirely devoid of business training, especially of the kind which fits them to deal with real estate investments. With the new powers, new and larger responsibilities are imposed upon the boards of direction of the association, and, it must also be said, upon the Superintendent of Banking. There is an aspect, however, in which it would seem as if the difficulties and apprehensions would be naturally overcome. It is, that with the new class of shares will appear a new class of investors, generally of the experienced and successful business class, who will naturally secure their full share of representation in the boards, and will be in position to keep things secure and straight, or to sound a timely alarm when they tend in the wrong direction. It would seem in general as if the Building, Savings and Loan Association, as a financial institution, had been raised to a greater dignity and to a vastly wider field of usefulness by this decision in "The People ex rel Charles S. Fairchild, appellant, against Charles S. Preston, Superintendent of the Banking Department." It is not to be wondered at that the Savings Banks view the decision with alarm.

The College Place Improvement.

Although there are several hundred objectors among interested property-owners to the new report of the Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment in the College Place Improvement matter, they are merely formal objections and the report is generally accepted as perhaps the best obtainable solution of the problem and there is a general disposition to let it go through. We give herewith a list showing the new in comparison with the old awards. Where the awards are less the assessment has been reduced in proportionate amount. It is believed this readjustment will meet the objections Judge Lawrence made to the original report:

The first installment of iron work for the draw of the temporary 3d avenue bridge over the Harlem, arrived last week, and will be placed in position as fast as delivered. The draw is being built at Phoenixville, Pa., and is brought here in sections. The contractors say that the bridge will be open for traffic in about four weeks. As soon as it is finished the work of removing the old bridge will begin to make room for the permanent structure. The improvement will cost $2,000,000.

Opinions of Others.

Mr. Jefferson M. Levy, an operator of wide experience, who has been a close observer of events in the real estate field for many years, and who is about as familiar with the larger transactions in the office-building section of the city as any one, is a firm believer in this class of property, and unhesitatingly predicts for it higher prices and a livelier market within the near future. Mr. Levy said to a reporter for THE RECORD AND GUIDE: "I look for higher prices in the near future. The close observer of the real estate market must have noted that all through the recent panic and ever since, property in this section has been more active than ever, and has sold at increased prices over the quotations of just before the panic. The big financial institutions have been acquiring permanent locations, and have improved and are improving their purchases in a manner which imparts greater value to it than it ever before had, and that is vastly improving the whole character of the neighborhood. There is none of this kind of property in the market, and it is only by bidding up to the owner's figures that any of it can be obtained. The way in which real estate has held up during the panic has excited the admiration of people who look for safety in their investments. There was nothing like it. Large numbers of the people who met disaster in Wall street last year will go and put their money in real estate. It isn't fluctuating like a thermometer all the time, but is steady and safe, and has the excellent merit of increasing in value right along.

"Instances of this sort are familiar to everybody. A man of my acquaintance asked me last spring what I thought of the business and financial outlook. He had some stocks that had fallen in value I advised him to sell them right off and put his money into real estate. Strangely enough he did it, and has been my most grateful friend ever since. In common with nearly all other securities the stocks suffered a persistent decline and have never recovered since. The property he bought, on the other hand, paid him a monthly income, and although he felt a little anxiety over it during the worst of the panic, he is very cheerful about the transaction now. I mention this as showing what might have been a common experience. Real estate in this city, as THE RECORD AND GUIDE has many times remarked, is the best sort of property a man can own, whether the times are good or bad. No, this state of things is not confined to down-town property. Take 4th avenue, for instance, between 18th and 23d streets. See what has taken place there within the last two years. It took courage on the part of John S. Kennedy to put so much money into such a location, and the croakers, who know everything, predicted that it would be a failure. So they did of the Metropolitan Life Building on Madison square. But they have been brilliant successes, both of them, and see what they have done for their respective neighborhoods! A new character has been given to them, and the prices have advanced in every direction around them. I take from your own files a list of the most recent transactions. Here it is: Nos. 783 and 785 6th avenue, $110,000; 31 West 17th street, $38,000; Lispenard street, $125,000; 46 to 56 Wooster street, $95,000; 218 Pearl street, $46,000; Holland Trust Company Building, $225,000; 475 Broadway and Mercer street, $150,000; 15 Dey street, $100,000; 106th street and Manhattan avenue, $47,000; Jex estate, $150,000; 46 East 72d street, $65,000—making a total of $1,151,000.

"That makes a fairly good showing, in my opinion, and it does not include several transactions that are equally large. And all of these sales have been made at advanced prices. I feel very sure that we are on the eve of an active market with better prices all along the line."

Questions and Answers.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly answer the following question in this week's RECORD AND GUIDE: "In case a landlord rents a house for one year or more, said house including range, globes on gas fixtures, range covers, etc., being in good order, who pays for breakage of same and to what extent? A SUBSCRIBER.

Answer.—As to the real estate the rule is positive that unless a landlord binds himself by an express covenant he is under no obligation to make any repairs about the premises however necessary. Lots of tenants don't think so, but that is the law and always has been. The law imposes an obligation on every lessee to treat the premises in a tenant-like manner, that they may revert to the lessor undeteriorated by the willful or negligent conduct of the lessee; he is bound to repair and support the buildings; to keep the house wind and water tight; put in broken windows and doors, no matter whether the lease says so or not. We think that these rules extend to the personal property appertenant to the house, such as range, globes, range covers, etc., and the tenant can be made to pay for all breakage, unless the lease expressly says that the landlord shall do so.—LAW EDITOR.

TENANTS IN COMMON.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

You will greatly favor a subscriber by answering the following question: A dies, leaving one-half interest in house to his sister, leaving daughter having no means of paying lawyers. Please let a subscriber know what to do?

Answer.—The will should be proved in the Surrogate's Court. Then the sister and daughter of the decedent are tenants in common of the property. They may share the rents equally, or may sell the house and divide the proceeds.—LAW EDITOR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22, 1894.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

By answering the following question you will greatly oblige one of your subscribers. I received an order to sell a piece of property from the owner about six months ago, and have since then submitted same to various parties several times. To the last party to whom it was submitted they, after a few days, came to me saying that they would take the house at the price given to them. I go to the owner and tell him that I have sold his house. He informs me that since giving me the order to sell six months ago he has sold same, although he never notified me to that effect. Can I claim a commission from him, and can I be held responsible in any way to the party to whom I submitted the house, having done so in good faith. H. M.

Answer.—The Wisconsin Courts lately decided in a case, where the owner of property had authorized an agent to sell it for $5,500 net, that he was not bound by the agent's sale of it for a gross sum of $5,500 made nine months after receiving his authority without consulting the owner, during which time the lot had increased in value and the owner had paid the taxes. Six months is a good while to rest upon a given price, and upon given circumstances and surroundings, where so many things can and do happen as in this great city. Why did you not go to the owner again after so great a lapse of time, and after such business troubles as we have had? We fear that you would fail in recovering a commission, if you should sue. As to liability to the party to whom you submitted it, what has he lost in money? He has not been damaged by you. You did not sign a contract to sell the house to him; you told him a price and a few days later he said he'd take it at that price. It needs a written contract to bind a sale of real estate.—LAW EDITOR.

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

There is little or no change to note in the course of the real estate market during the last week. Some large transactions have been brought to a conclusion similar in their character to those that have curiously distinguished the market all through the eight months of universal business depression. Even in the darkest days of the financial panic last summer and fall it seemed as if there was an unlimited quantity of money available for the purchase of first-class investment property, of the kind that would answer for office-building purposes. And ever since then, while other forms of realty have been of sluggish movement, this class of property has been in active demand, and has sold in many instances for better prices than was asked for it a year ago, before the panic was even thought of. Facts of this kind, coming as they do in a time when people had rather let their money lie idle in safe deposit vaults than risk it in any other kind of investment, of course, speaks highly for New York City real estate as a medium of investment. But if any one were to argue from this fact that real estate in all parts of the city had increased in market value, or had even held its own during the depression he would be a discredited prophet. It is enough to say of real estate in general that it has held up better than ever before through a financial panic, better in fact than any class of investment property, and now that the storm is well-nigh over it stands before the people as the best medium of investment that can be found. People who have owned real estate during the long period of financial disturbance have borne frequent testimony to our observation, that it is the best sort of property to own in bad times as well as good times. There are evidences, too, that people who have hitherto preferred other forms of investments are turning their attention to New York City real estate. This is the testimony of all the brokers without exception. But when all this has been said the fact remains that the market is still under the depressing influence of the panic. Many brokers say that if owners were not quite so stiff in their demands there would be more business, while others argue that the owners cannot be expected to come down in their prices so long as the property they own is a better investment than they could find elsewhere, and that if they were to yield to the bear influence the buyers would disappear. As to the future, a better inquiry is reported in nearly every direction, and it will be strange if the usual time for a revival in business, about the middle of this month or the first of next, does not see a satisfactory amount of business done.

THE COLUMBUS AVENUE CABLE.

The bad weather of the past week has, on Columbus avenue at least, been abused for more than the personal discomfort it caused; its influence in delaying work on the new cable road on the avenue has, in fact, been its worst offence. Owing to this cause the opening has not been extended beyond 88th street, where it had reached a week ago, and the line of operations has not presented such a scene of rushing activity as it did for some weeks previously. Wherever work could be done it has been prosecuted, and in the spots where rock offered an obstacle to progress the drills have been kept busy. In these days of dull business it has a cheering and sustaining effect on the minds of real estate brokers on this avenue to look out of window and watch the creation of something that is sure to bring business some time.

WHERE THE MONEY WAS.

An incident was related to a RECORD AND GUIDE reporter a day or two ago which is full of significance, as indicating where a great deal of the money was that had been withdrawn from the banks during the panic and where there probably exists, even at this time, an accumulation of so large, yet uncertain a quantity, as seriously to question the value of all statistics and estimates of the money reserves and balances in hand. A real estate transaction of several weeks ago was awaiting the payment of $50,000, preliminary to the formal transfer. All things were ready, when the seller, turning to the buyer, said: "Well, where's your money?" The buyer replied, "Wait a few minutes till I go and get it." He was gone about ten minutes, and on his return planked down $50,000 in bills. "Where in the devil did you get all that money in these times?" was the question of the amazed seller. "Oh, I got that out of a Safe Deposit vault, and I've got $150,000 more in the same place. Catch me locking my money up in any bank in times like these! No, sir."

Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell, on Tuesday next, February 6th at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, by order of the Court of Common Pleas, in partition, the four-story brick store, 25x40, and two-story frame building in rear, lot 25x75, No. 98 South 5th avenue.

The house is of more substantial than ordinary construction and could readily be adapted to club, institutional, flat or business purposes.

On Thursday next, February 8th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell at auction, at the Real Estate Exchange Auction Room, 59 to 65 Liberty street, the three-story English basement brownstone dwelling and lot, 15.4x50x92, No. 345 East 20th street; also the six-story brick building and lot, 50x100, on the southeast corner of Rivington and Attorney streets; and at the same time and place the handsome four-story and basement brick and brownstone trim dwelling and lot, 26.8x55x60, No. 971 Madison avenue, on the southeast corner of 76th street.

A VALUABLE BUILDING PLOT FOR SALE.

Attention is directed to the advertisement, on another page, by Mr. Charles Buek, of the plot, 100x100.11, on the corner of Manhattan avenue and 102d street, four full-sized city lots, which he offers for sale at $45,000. Here seems to be an excellent opportunity for some enterprising builder.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

One of the largest transactions that has distinguished the real estate market in recent years is said to have been consummated yesterday in the sale to a Chicago syndicate of the entire block on Broadway, west side, between Liberty, Cedar and Temple streets. The brokers quoted in the transaction are De Selding Brothers and William Cruikshank. The price paid for the property is reported to be $2,700,000, and it is said that it is the intention of the purchasers to erect upon this location a fire-proof office building, twenty stories high, to cover the whole plot, and to cost something like $2,000,000. Henry Ives Cobb is said to be the architect. Mr. Cobb had plans for a less lofty structure at first, but upon conferences in this city with some of the persons and institutions who are expected to take a share in the enterprise, it was shown that in order to be able to compete successfully with the other large buildings it would be necessary to have more floor space, and accordingly the plans were altered. Mr. Cobb has recently returned to Chicago with the plans. The block said to have been purchased has a frontage of 117 on Broadway, 159.7 on Liberty, 153 on Cedar and 115.6 feet on Temple street. The corner of Liberty street, fronting 29.5 on Broadway, 159.7 on Liberty and 84.2 on Temple street, was sold under Court orders in 1892, in partition, to the heirs of the Wolfe estate, at $770,000. The corner of Cedar street, 40.3 on Broadway, 153 on Cedar and 33 on Temple street, was sold in 1887 to the Niagara Insurance Company and Horace Waldo for $607,000, and the buildings improved at a considerable expense. The two other parcels on Broadway have not changed hands in very many years. The same Chicago syndicate are reported to be negotiating with D. B. Silliman and W. Wheeler Smith for the purchase of their property on the southeast corner of Broadway and Wall street, or the improvement of the same under some arrangement for mutual interest. Nothing definite has yet resulted from this latter negotiation, but a deposit has actually been made on the larger one.

Tim & Co., have sold for A. C. Hassey the three-story high stoop dwelling, No. 128 West 36th street, size 16.8x55x98.9, beginning 123.2 west of Broadway, to R. Cochran, for $24,500, all cash.

W. Seelingsberg has sold for I. S. and M. S. Korn, the private dwellings, Nos. 55 Barrow and 21 Commerce street, with lot 25x78, extending through from street to street, to W. N. Tuckerman, on private terms.

Horace S. Ely & Co. were the brokers in the sale of the Hanover Trust Co. property, No. 33 Nassau street, to the Bank of Commerce

Wm. H. Ramsey has traded the seven-story brick warehouse on the northeast corner of Greenwich and 10th streets, 90x104x50.9x95.1, at about $130,000, to W. E. Pruden, for other property.

We hear that David L. Einstein has sold the five-story brick, iron front, store and factory, No. 25 Maiden lane, 25x45.6x23.6x39, for about $150,000. Mr. Einstein bought the property at auction in 1886 for $71,000.

It is reported that the premises No. 187 Broadway and Nos. 5 and 7 Dey street have been sold for something like $600,000. The Broadway piece is 19.6x100 feet, with a five-story iron front building. The Dey street plot is 52.9x91.2, covered by an old five-story stone front building. It was conjectured that the Mercantile National Bank, which owns No. 191 Broadway, corner of Dey street, was the buyer, and that No. 189 Broadway had also been secured. Inquiry at the Bank led to a positive denial of the purchase, and representatives of the owner of No. 189 also denied that that parcel had been sold. It may be that the buyers are the Metropolitan Telephone and Telegraph Co. who lately purchased Nos. 13 and 15 Dey street, in the rear of their large building on Cortlandt street.

Rapid Transit.

The Special Committee on Rapid Transit of the Real Estate Exchange met yesterday and adopted the following resolutions, which were directed to be reported to the Board of Directors at their meeting next week:

"The Committee on Rapid Transit respectfully report as follows:

"That this Exchange has been consistently on record in favor of an underground road. By the courtesy of Mr. Wilson your committee have had an opportunity of inspecting the plans for his proposed system of rapid transit.

"Your committee believe that an underground system is the only satisfactory solution of the problem thus far presented and that some plan should be pushed through with as little delay as possible. Under the present circumstances we would recommend the employment of private capital, and if this is proved to be impossible that the city should lend the necessary assistance."

This was signed by Richard V. Harnett, Saml. F. Jayne, C. W. Luyster, Douglas Robinson, Jr., and Clermont L. Clarkson.

What is Your Boy going to Do for a Living?

There was held at the New York Trade School last week, Tuesday, a "Students' Gathering"—a species of entertainment designed to make the young men of this city and their parents better acquainted with the school and its purposes. The school is situated on 1st avenue, extending the entire block front from 67th to 68th street. In it are taught bricklaying, plastering, plumbing, carpentry, house painting, stone-cutting, fresco-painting, blacksmithing and printing. On Tuesday evening some six hundred or more of the friends of the school, among them several ladies, attended the Students' Gathering The departments were all illuminated and in exhibition order, and were duly inspected, after which addresses were delivered by Mr. John Beattie, on "The Relation and Possibilities of the Trade School to Mechanics;" by James Muir, on instruction in plumbing; and by President Chauncey M. Depew, of the New York Central Railroad. Mr. Depew said that owing to the difficulty of obtaining an apprenticeship to any of the trades nowadays, the Trade School presented about the only opportunity of learning a trade. The professions are so overcrowded that the trades offered to young men the best chances of success. As an example he said there are six thousand lawyers in this city and only six hundred making a living, and on the other hand every season saw thousands of skilled workmen coming to this country from Europe, without the least intention of becoming citizens, who work through the season, saving their money, and when the season is past return to Europe, only to show up at the beginning of the next season. The trouble with our educational systems, Mr. Depew declared, was that most men are educated in everything in common and in nothing in particular. He counseled the young men to be conscientious and thorough in their work, for thus they would make progress. Among the many present were Trustees J. Pierpont Morgan, R. Fulton Cutting, William E. Dodge and A. K. Mackay and Stephen M. Wright, Edward Murphy, James Muir, John Beattie, T. L. Taylor, John Noll, Louis Reiss, N. D. Lent, James Hughes, J. A. Rossman and T. J. Byrne, representatives of exchanges and master-mechanics' associations. The schools are open to inspection every afternoon. Parents of boys who are preparing to enter upon a life calling of their own ought to give this school particular attention.

SPENCER-NEEDHAM COMPANY.

On the last page appears the advertisement of Spencer-Needham Company, dealers in masons' building materials, with office and yards at the foot of Horatio street, North River. Both Mr. Spencer and Mr. Needham were for years with the late firm of Canda & Kane, and the good wishes of the building trade that they won stand them in good stead to-day. The fact that they are supplying the United States Appraisers' Warehouses on Christopher street indicates that the firm has the facilities for handling the largest kind of work.

DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP.

Announcement is made that the firm heretofore well-known in the North River bluestone business, Scully & Moran, has been dissolved. Mr. John H. Scully, who was a partner in the late concern, has established himself at 101st street and East River, and is prepared to do business in his old line. He has issued a cordial invitation to his old friends to visit him at this address, and no doubt his promise to do business on reasonable terms and to supply good material as well as his experience and previous attention and courtesy to his customers will make the responses to this invitation very satisfactory to him.

Lewinson & Just, who, as recently reported in THE RECORD AND GUIDE, purchased the four-story and basement brownstone dwelling, No. 128 West 42d street, and are altering it for business purposes, will remove about May 1st from their present offices at No. 90 Nassau street to their 42d street building, where they will occupy the two upper floors, the first loft for offices and the upper for draughting rooms. The ground and parlor floors will be altered for store purposes. The removal has been forced on Lewinson & Just by the demands for more office room of their increasing business. They are consulting engineers and contractors in all kinds of structural ironwork, having been intimately identified with this process of construction through some of the largest undertakings. They furnished all of the structural and ornamental ironwork of the Metropolitan Opera House, of which J. B. McElfatrick & Sons were the architects, and they enjoy the distinction of having been selected by Richard M. Hunt as consulting and supervising engineers for the Chateau of Geo. W Vanderbilt, now being built at Biltmore, North Carolina, the ironwork in the roof of which will amount to 2,000,000 pounds. Lewinson & Just are also the contractors for the structural and ornamental ironwork on the College of Pharmacy, of which Little & O'Connor were the architects.

ARTIFICIAL STONE WORK.

Artificial stone has so grown in popularity in recent years for sidewalk, area and other uses, as almost to supercede flagstones in many sections of the country. It answers especially well the purposes of a lively community like that in and about New York, where there is so much travel, and where appearance counts for so much. A good man to engage for work of this kind, whether in laying sidewalks, garden walks, areas, cellar floors; brewery, stable and ice-house floors, and granolithic work of all kinds, is Peter Otto, of Nos. 890 and 892 Jackson avenue, corner of 162d street. He guarantees perfect satisfaction, and his experience is of sufficient extent to give value to his guaranty. Among the hundreds for whom he has done such work we mention Builders James Frame, Dunn Bros., and the Amsterdam Improvement Company, Fred. Rohrs, Thos. Overington, Sheridan & Byrne, J. W. & Paul Decker, J. C. Bume, A. Murray, Father Taylor, and the American Express Company.

PORCELAIN TUBS AND SINKS.

Among the many improvements which science and hygiene have given to modern building there is none more refreshing to the dwelling than porcelain washtubs and sinks. With no other material is it possible to prevent the impregnation of the atmosphere of the home with foul and injurious odors. The porcelain fittings are always clean and bright. Manufacturers and dealers in this class of building materials, of large experience, are the Charles Graham Pottery Works, at Nos. 110 to 132 Metropolitan avenue and 319 and 321 Devoe street, Brooklyn. Their goods are ornamental in appearance, durable and cheap. Among the many important buildings to which they have been furnished are the McAuliffe & Gabey flats, 77th street and Columbus avenue; the Simon Banner flats, at 75th street and Columbus avenue; the J. H. Parker flat, at 86th street and Lexington avenue; the Geo. Daikers flats and dwelling, at 145th street and St. Nicholas avenue; in thirty cottages built for the Rev. C. K. Capron, at East Orange, N. J., and in the houses built by J. F. Ryan, at Nostrand avenue and Dean street, Brooklyn. The Charles Graham Chemical Pottery Works may be reached by telephone No 39, Williamsburgh.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you please let me know through your issue of this week if the law of 1882 makes it obligatory on Superintendent of Buildings or only in his discretion that leaders from houses should connect with the sewer, which will thankfully be received, as it is said to be a disputed point. W. J.

Answer.—The statute of 1885 (which we suppose is the one you mean; not 1882), says explicitly: "And in no case shall the water from the said leaders be allowed to flow upon the sidewalk, but shall be conducted by drain pipe or pipes to the sewer." This makes it obligatory upon the Superintendent of Buildings and leaves him no discretion in the matter.—LAW EDITOR.

The American Surety Co. have received the report of Mr. Richard M. The company, it will be remembered, purchased the property, fronting 84.4 feet on Broadway and 85.8 on Pine street, in two parcels, about a year apart. They own a plot of 1,446.58 square feet, and intend to erect upon it a building of from sixteen to twenty stories.

The plans are not yet determined beyond the facts above mentioned. Work will begin on the 1st of May. Mr. Charles W. Clinton is the architect.

The alterations to the Grand Ocean View Hotel, owned by Miss E. Meyer, on the corner of Jefferson and South streets, will cost $15,000. Metal ceilings and side walls have been specified by the architect, A. F. Leicht; and three handsome stores will be added to the ground floor.

The first story will contain a store and the basement will be fitted up as a bakery, and the upper stories will be arranged to accommodate two families on a floor; cost, $16,000.

Rowe & Baker are the architects for the new building for the United Presbyterian Societies at 5th avenue and 20th street.

Moses G. Byers will build at once a boarding stable, to cost from $10,000 to $15,000, on the 60x75 plot he purchased recently on the east side of 7th avenue, 21 feet south of 18th street.

W. E. Cushman, a baker, who has just purchased the building on the northwest corner of Columbus avenue and 71st street, will alter the premises to adapt them for his own business at the expiration of the present lease.

We understand that Moses G. Byers, the contractor, will improve a plot, 100x75, on the east side of 7th avenue, 21 feet south of 18th street, to which he this week took title. The plot is now covered by a brick and stone Presbyterian church.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

The New York Rock Excavating Co. (the members of which are Hugo S. Mack, J. B. Cole and A. Kompe) filed a lien against northeast corner of 94th street and Riverside Drive for $7,950.81 to keep me from giving title to the property, which I have sold. According to surveys from Mr. J. Rudolphy I owe this company $437.85, which I am ready to pay at any time. I will bond this lien immediately. FRANK L. FISHER.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

In answer to letter of Burrows & Smith I wish to state that the contract was for $2,415, of which amount I paid on August 25th, $900; September 22d, $800. The last payment of $715 was to be paid when the work was completed. Out of this amount I advanced them on November 4th $400, which was not due at the time and is not yet, as I had to employ men to do part of their work. I have bonded the lien.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, FEBRUARY 3, 1894.

At the Gateways of the City.

BROOKLYN is a city that depends more upon a pleasing and inviting appearance for her general prosperity than any other large city in the country. The city is not an independent business centre, in this respect shining chiefly by borrowed light from her greater neighbor, but is essentially a city of homes, with such business as is incidental to that fact, minimized by the overshadowing importance, in a business sense, of New York City; for Brooklyn people will persist in dividing their patronage with New York. It would seem, then, that it ought to have been the persistent and continuous policy of Brooklyn from the beginning to dress herself in as inviting apparel, respecting her streets and approaches and public places, as was possible; for by this means only could she expect to impress her visitors favorably and induce them to permanently abide with her.

But those who have hitherto been responsible in these matters seem to have had no conception whatever of this fact, but to have permitted and even promoted the desecrations which have produced her present bedraggled and discreditable appearance. The chief gateway to the city is now the Brooklyn Bridge, but it would be difficult to find in all the city a more dilapidated, deserted and degenerated section than that directly adjacent to the Bridge entrance. Visitors from without, the great majority of whom come by this approach, are met upon the threshold with a view of the city in repulsive and decaying aspect—as if it were not only not growing at the rate of over 30,000 a year, but was actually degenerating and running into a decline. The approach to the ferries is in no instance—not even at Fulton Ferry, where all is grimy and unclean—so completely discreditable as the surroundings of the bridge entrance.

For this condition of things the Bridge Trustees are largely responsible. They it is who have juggled with whole squares of buildings and left them in their present ruinous appearance. They it is who have laid out a "plaza" near the bridge entrance, with no purpose evident beyond the demolition of buildings that were less objectionable than the present ruin. But they are not wholly to blame in the matter. They could never have gone so far had the newspapers of Brooklyn been alive to the fact that Brooklyn depends for her prosperity upon her beauty and attractiveness as a city, and that so great a violation of this principle as is apparent now about the bridge entrance and lower Fulton street would inevitably inflict great injury upon the city at large. The lack of appreciation of this principle is furthermore shown in the continued use of the barbarous cobblestone pavement in most of the new streets. Originality and invention seem to be at an exceedingly low ebb where no better street pavements can be found for the fourth city in the Union than cobblestones and cast-off paving stones from New York's streets.

It is said, in explanation of the ruins about the bridge entrance, that matters there are in a transition state; that the district is just entering upon a period of reconstruction, in which the plans are not yet settled; that the Bridge Trustees are not through with the devastation that must precede reconstruction in glorious form. It is said that the "plaza," by which is meant the paved portion of the ruin near the bridge, is to furnish a carriageway from Liberty street to the bridge, free from the trolley railroad perils of Fulton street, and that when the plans of the Bridge Trustees shall have been perfected, the passenger approach to the bridge will be at Johnson street, between Fulton and Washington streets, with a clear space in front as far as the junction of the two last named streets. Then the new Post-office will be in view on one side, the Columbia Theatre and Eagle buildings flanking it, City Hall and its surrounding municipal and big business buildings in the foreground, and on one side only some old buildings which will be rebuilt.

If this programme is carried out the private enterprise of Brooklyn property owners may be relied upon to do all else that would be necessary to bring the main portal of the city up to a more respectable and creditable appearance. The ideal improvement, it seems, it would be idle to hope for. One needs only to picture in imagination the artistic treatment that would be given to this bridge approach, if it were in some city of monarchical Europe to obtain an idea of the improvement of which it is susceptible. It would be little enough to expect that there would be a harmonious and artistically related treatment of all the parts—the station, plaza and surroundings. The station would be an imposing and ornamental structure; the plaza would be large and smoothly paved and would contain a monument, a fountain, a group of statuary or a group of great trees, and the surrounding blocks would be built up in form of a colonnade or in continuous groups of buildings of artistic design, of equal height and uniform style. Thus the best would be attempted for the favored locality and the result achieved would be of perpetual advantage to the city and would stimulate the improvement of the whole surrounding territory in similar style.

This is too much, of course, to hope for in this city, because we are a free and independent people and not a monarchy, and because every individual owner will (as he has the undoubted right to) "improve" his property so that it will produce for him the largest possible return in rents, and gin mills, cheap restaurants and houses of questionable repute pay better in such a locality than any other class of buildings. But it ought not to be too much to expect that the authorities of the city and the bridge will hereafter hold this principle in view, and instead of "improving" so that devastation and ruin shall follow in their wake, strive as far as they are able to embellish rather than profane the natural beauties of the city.

A NOTABLE improvement in the general tone of the real estate market is apparent this week. Nearly every broker reports a material increase in inquiries for both buying and renting. The latter was to have been expected, for this is the season of renting and people will begin now to make their arrangements against the 1st of May. It is too early to declare with any positiveness what the general character of the season will be, but most brokers predict very few changes, with few or no modifications in rentals. Some argue that as a result of the economies that are being enforced by the hard times, Brooklyn will have an influx of population from New York, of people looking for lower rents, and that this will more than offset any possible shrinkage in the local demand. The inquiry for houses to buy sets in fully as early as in any normal season and promises well for the spring's business. As will be seen from our reports of projected buildings, the builders are also preparing for brisk operations at the opening of the building season. This is as it should be. Brooklyn is, next to New York, the most densely populated city in the Union, which means that her improvements are of the substantial character and that her land is more productive in general than that of any other city than New York. There is no doubt whatever about the future of Brooklyn real estate.

A Correction.

THE RECORD AND GUIDE has received the following letter from the South Brooklyn Co-operative Building and Loan Association:

An article appeared in the issue of January 20, 1894, entitled "The Dawn of Returning Prosperity," in which you state incidently that the Daily News Building and Loan Association is the largest association in the State. As a matter of fact that is an error. The largest association in the State is right here in the City of Brooklyn, and a slight glance at the subjoined report abundantly proves it. I think it is due the undersigned that a correction be made.

Yours, respectfully,

DAVID B. HUTTON, President.
A. C. FISCHER, Vice-President.
JAMES H. STRAIN, Secretary.

There was no intention on the part of THE RECORD AND GUIDE to misrepresent the facts, and we are sure that the officers of the Daily News Association are quite as much surprised as we to learn that the South Brooklyn Association has outstripped them in the race for first place. But the rivalry is a healthy one and both associations are right in feeling proud of their achievements. The plan of co-operative savings they represent is, we believe, still in its infancy, and with wise and conservative management the "South Brooklyn," the "Daily News" and all kindred bodies may justly expect a much more rapid growth in the future than they have had thus far.

The Building Material Exhibit.

The encouraging reports received from architects' offices as to spring work, both new and that deferred from last fall, lends a decidedly brighter outlook for the opening season's building operations, particularly that of suburban construction of the better class. At no time could construction be undertaken so economically as at the present, a fact that is influencing favorable action on the part of many. While plans are being prepared, and the selection of material for the thousand-and-one things necessary in the interior equipment and finish of a building is under consideration, a visit to the Building Material Exhibit, Nos 276 to 282 Washington street, Brooklyn, should not be neglected. A visitor will see there in half an hour a greater variety of tile-work, mantels, fireplace appurtenances, furnaces, ranges, laundry tubs and other sanitary specialties for the bath-room; trim, mosaic work, patent wall plasters, dumb-waiters, winding doors, bricks, granite, stained glass, and so on through the entire list, than he would be able to find and inspect in a week in the ordinary way of hunting through the market. The convenience of such an exhibition goes without saying. This is a permanent affair, and the great hall in which it is held, convenient of access from the Bridge, is a handsome and well-lighted room where the exhibits, arranged by sections, are shown to the best advantage.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

It is due to the other members of the committee of the Mechanics and Traders' Exchange, William Lamb and Bernard Gallagher, who have been associated with me, and who have devoted a great deal of time and careful consideration to the study and revision of the Brooklyn building law, and to Commissioner Rutan who originated it, that I should at once correct the very erroneous impression that the notice in your issue of last week, concerning said law, would certainly make on the minds of those persons not conversant with the facts.

The so-called "new law" is the same that was framed last winter by the committee appointed by Mayor Boody, but because of hurried copying, and lack of subsequent comparison, contained a number of serious errors and omissions.

When these faults were discovered the original committee of the exchange expressed a desire and willingness to Commissioner Rutan to re-examine the entire bill and make the necessary corrections.

The committee held several meetings at the office of the Commissioner, and the corrections were all made with his consent and concurrence, and although the original bill has been sent to Albany, the corrected one will be substituted for it, and will have the endorsement and support of Commissioner Rutan and the committee representing the Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange; and I believe also that of every architect, builder and citizen who recognizes the necessity of a more comprehensive and modern law sufficiently practical to be operative.

WAREHOUSEMEN.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly answer the accompanying query for a subscriber, viz:

Would a storage warehouseman be liable for damages in case he sold goods for storage charges at the expiration of the month (presuming he has received no money) as per agreement as follows, to wit:

"I, John Doe, hereby agree to pay to Richard Roe the charges on goods stored in my name at intervals of not more than one month, and in case that I fail to make such payment promptly at the specified time or times I hereby authorize and direct said Richard Roe, or his agent, to dispose of said goods in any manner that he may see fit without notice to me, John Doe, 15 Square street."

If this does not exempt Richard Roe (the warehouseman), will you kindly give a formula that will "fill the bill," and oblige

A SUBSCRIBER.

Answer.—Such an agreement would protect the warehouseman from liability if he sold the goods fairly for charges overdue for storage. Of course if there should be a surplus he must pay this to his customer.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—About the only change suggested on the market since our last report is that business appears to have been somewhat duller than usual, and down to present writing only three or four large loads are known to have found custom. Weather conditions may be held responsible to some extent for quiet trade, but at the best consumption is slow and probably has taken all the supply that was really needed. So far as known, no arrivals came to hand, but there is a snug amount here and it will last a long while at the present rate of distribution. The general run of valuation is at old figures and there is not a hint that buyers have been allowed any favors.

There has of late appeared in some of the daily papers various dispatches dated from various localities along the Hudson River, but all so framed as to convey an impression that a large Trust was practically completed through which the principal territory of production tributary to this market was to be brought under control of one head with all the usual ornamentations expected if such conditions were attained. A little investigation, however, seems to show that, like similar stories in former years, the report is at least premature and seems quite a long way from materializing into anything of positive character. Manufacturers frankly admit they would be very willing to go into any scheme of a legitimate character calculated to place the brick business upon a more substantial basis, but none of them either as individuals or associations have voluntary sought remedy through the formation of a Trust, nor can it be ascertained that they have found attraction in the plans suggested by the "promoter" who is endeavoring to work up the deal. A gentleman connected with this journal has made special inquiry among the trade upon the feeling in regard to the Trust, and the result will be found in another column.

GLASS.—The general condition of the window glass trade is very dull, and the market has an unsettled position in regard to prices. The average tendency is in buyers' favor, however, and the indications are that a great many workers are somewhat anxious to secure custom. A proposal to shut down all factories on the 10th inst. is urged, but the result seems to be considered doubtful, as the necessary consent of 85 per cent of productive capacity has not yet been secured and it is intimated that proprietors of some of the most important pots will refuse to sign the agreement.

LATH.—It has been a stupid market. There was not a great deal of stock to offer, but there seemed to be practically no natural demand or even a place to put stock by the use of a little extra force, and holders therefore concluded that the best policy was a waiting one. They generally did not seem to calculate upon getting more than $2 and probably had to take less in some cases. Consumption is not full enough to make any great impression upon dealers' stocks and the market depends largely upon receipts. The claim is that not much stock now remains in manufacturers' hands and that at the ruling run of value production must be curtailed.

LIME.—Business has been moderate, and the market most decidedly dull, although the season and general surroundings considered little else could be expected. Prices are nominally unchanged, but we were impressed with the manner in which quotations were referred to this week, the figures being called "about" the same, and in view of that qualification it might pay buyers to make close inquiry regarding any allowances they are likely to get.

LUMBER.—Since our last writing there has been quite a decided touch of winter, which for the time being brought an already narrow yard trade to a temporary standstill. Now and then, however, dealers commence to find a little display of interest among regular customers, who seem willing to talk about spring trade and give a hint of placing contracts after a while. The building of the speedway and some possibility of getting additional rapid transit are spoken of as factors that should give more vigor to general building operations in districts where the structures are sure to afford a large consumption for lumber. There are a great many yards from which it would be a pretty difficult matter to meet any increased call of magnitude, but thus far there has been no noticeable attempt to make good existing deficiencies, and dealers, as a rule, while admitting goods to be probably about as cheap as they are likely to be reached, prefer adhering to a stand off policy and taking all the chances later on. No one in this locality appears to have an idea that the consumer is likely to obtain much if any benefit from the removal of present import duties. There may be some slight difference in the cost of spruce, but it seems to be a foregone conclusion that on white pine the Canadians will absorb the remitted duty in any case and should business happen to be good will get the lion's share of what is going on. The chances for export are improving somewhat, it is thought, both as regards pine and the better qualities of hardwoods.

Again we hear of some negotiation and an occasional sale of white pine in car lots, principally box, as required to meet a special necessity, but nothing of importance comes to light in the way of contract deals concluded against the accumulation of stock held at the mills and the new cut is scarcely mentioned. The dry lumber is in most cases controlled by large concerns who distribute among the smaller dealers, and they first want to ascertain how they are coming out on wintered grades before they decide upon the attitude toward the next season's offering.

Yellow pine has much the usual irregularity and deals are closed at prices to suit the conditions of trades immediately in hand, but the buyer is losing no advantage for the time being. Some business is doing in f. o. b. orders for shipment from southern ports, but nothing out of the usual line. Carolina pine remains steady and finds more or less attention, although many of the orders booked are for delivery some little time hence. Hemlock is dull. There is not much outlet for it on consuming demand and it is rare that any great quantity can be placed in bulk or car lots, especially as even with better prospects of spring trade, a great many operators do not like to handle hemlock in frosty weather. Spruce is said to have scarcely any open or direct demand, although some receivers entertain an idea they could place a few really attractive schedules without much difficulty.

The matter of coming supplies is still somewhat uncertain although recent developments are rather more encouraging than at the commencement of the month. In the northwest the fall of snow and the general character of the weather favored loggers, and conditions were good in Canada. In Maine and New Brunswick work in the woods is progressing steadily and quite liberally. Reports from Northern New York intimate that while weather conditions are all right the loggers are getting out a smaller quantity than last year, in consequence of large amount of old lumber on hand. Hemlock is plenty in the Pennsylvania district.

Hardwoods remain very much in the position noted for some time past. Prices are steady, because they are already about as reasonable as could be expected, compared with cost at primal points and the transportation charges to lay down stuff here; but buyers do not seem to find attractions to hurry them and the run of business is slow and uncertain as yet. As soon as consumption picks up at all, however, the market can hardly fail to receive benefit all the way through, in view of the small quantity of stock held by so many dealers, and the consequent necessity for them to quickly resort to first hand offerings the moment they discover increasing wants among customers.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

It is noticeable that at the several meetings of lumber associations recently held, a hopeful spirit has been manifest. An evident confidence in future trade, and present values as a basis for an advance, instead of a decline, has been generally expressed. It is seen that stocks in the hands of consumers and retail dealers are light, and that increased consumption will necessitate a large distribution. This is being daily proved by reports of increased sales, which are daily being received from mills and markets. Though the wholesale trade has as yet begun to stir but little in the direction of new purchases of bulk stocks, the consumers are getting at work, and that involves the immediate requisition on lumber in the hands of local dealers at consuming points. After that movement shall have been maintained for a few weeks, it will have an effect at points of wholesale supply and induce purchasing in large lots to meet the demands of future trade.

At the Chicago pine yards enough increase has been experienced since January 1 to show that there is a disposition abroad to buy and use lumber. Any hindrance to the steady rise of trade from now onward will be caused by unfavorable weather. It is now so near February, a month in which there is always a rise in demand, that any temporary check on account of storm or cold cannot last long. The fact is that, considering all conditions, January trade has thus far been remarkably good. Several dealers report that their sales have thus far been in excess of those for a corresponding portion of a like month last year. Though others make a less cheerful report, the fact that there are a few instances of increase means a good average for the trade as a whole during the month. Inquiries are also being received in sufficient number to indicate a good trade ahead. Altogether, dealers have reason to feel encouraged with the outlook. The effect of small stocks in the country

THERE are some features that give encouragement for hoping better for things in the stock market in the near future, notably the steps that have been taken to dispose of the Reading floating debt and the movement toward resuming the work on the Richmond Terminal reorganization. These are evidences of a beginning of a movement for setting up the fallen and as such are very pleasant to contemplate, the course having for so long been one of throwing down. The National Lead Co. makes a good report for last year and shows improved business during January, and as its trade is so extensive and touches so many interests, that fact may be accepted as an evidence of the growing improvement in general business. The imports of dry-goods for the past week are much larger than they were in the previous week, from which it may be taken that merchants in that line are compelled to replenish stocks to a moderate extent at least. Of course actual business is still light everywhere, and is not likely to be very large for some time to come yet; but if there is only a fair prospect ahead and fears of relapse into the unhappy conditions of the closing months of last year are dissipated, it will be as much as we can expect for the present.

THE financial condition of all the great governments of Europe is best expressed by the latest Punch cartoon to hand, in which John Bull, Mlle. France, Italy, Austria, Germany, Russia and Greece are genially welcomed to the regions of national pauperism, known as budget deficiency, by that old-timer Turkey. That is the pictorial view. The news, however, is not all bad. While the newspaper correspondents are trying to involve England and France in a war in which the rest of the great powers will only take part as spectators, trade in the first-named country is reviving under the stimulus of the work that has been begun in the great centres of ship building and of the dividends paid by most of the great railroads for the last half of 1893, which, though reductions, are better than had been expected and are taken to express a confident belief of good judges of the situation that better times are at hand. It is difficult to see, however, how any improvement of British trade can be permanent while the position of silver is so disorganizing to business in India and in the far East. A threatened stamp and tax on all bourse transactions has about killed the little business that was being done on the Berlin Stock Exchange, while the fate of the commercial treaty negotiations with Russia is equally effective to stay a recovery of trade. The last-named measure is looked upon in Germany much as the Wilson Bill is regarded here, and until the Reichsrath finally disposes of it, it will form the excuse for much dullness. There are, of course, other things that make the outlook bad, which are not spoken of so much as the political causes, though in reality they may be more influential. One, for instance, is the fact that about $160,000,000 of Italian rente are owned in Germany, another that the condition of the coal and iron interests of the Empire, which though said to be better than it was is still very bad, as is shown by the estimate of receipts from the Prussian state coal and iron establishments for the year 1894-'95, which is about a million and three-quarters of dollars less than last year. Austria-Hungary is, too, a large holder of Italian rente, though not by any means as great as Germany. Vienna bankers are becoming cautious in their advances to Hungary owing to the building mania at Buda Pesth having assumed alarming proportions, so that it is not unlikely that we may hear of financial trouble from the Hungarian capital before very long. The report of the trustee savings banks of France for 1893 is interesting because it gives the best view obtainable of the condition of the peasant and workman. Compared with 1892 the new money fell off about $18,750,000 and the withdrawals increased about $31,500,000. Foreign trade with France for 1893 decreased $240,000,000. Higher duties are given as the cause of a falling off of $40,000,000 in imports of foreign wines, but the vintners are still dissatisfied, and having had a large vintage last year, which they say they cannot sell, instead of attributing any part of this fact to the condition of the times they join the wheat growers in clamoring for increased import duties. As matters are shaping themselves in the Chamber of Deputies it is probable that the import duties on wheat will be considerably raised. Imports of manufactures into France fell off $18,000,000 in 1893, but exports declined $40,000,000. The increase in navigation bounties made a year ago was either inadequate or the principle underlying such bounties is false. Since the bounties went into force the French entries decreased 361,678 tons and the clearances 249,464 tons; while the foreign entries increased 388,011 tons and the clearances 34,748 tons. There was even a loss in the French navigation with foreign countries in Europe, for which a bounty had not been paid previous to February 1st of last year. The suppression of the half-bounty on foreign-built ships put on the French register did not prevent the importation of such vessels, in fact there was for the year an increase of such of about 16,000 tons. The carrying out of the arrangements made for settling the Argentine debt meet with considerable difficulty, so that holders of Argentines do not get the promised interest. One London bank requested the holders of one Argentine loan "to retain" the next due interest coupon, which is as neat a way of announcing a default as could be conceived.

WE sincerely hope we shall have no more legislative dispensing of charity. The present depression in the labor market and in business in general undoubtedly afforded an excellent opportunity for the city authorities to undertake improvements. The opportunity offered, however, should have been approached and made use of upon business principles, precisely as our large financial institutions have been induced by the cheapness of building materials to undertake the erection of office buildings which might under other conditions have been deferred. Those corporations would scarcely have been acting in a business way had they employed any surplus of money in mere unremunerated decoration or in locking up their capital in any unproductive form. But this is the very thing that the city authorities have done. Instead of going to work as business men would to expend what money they could command upon the many necessary improvements the city needs, they have undertaken to invest the city's funds in what may be called municipal trimmings, as though the chief problem before them was not how to act with the utmost calculation for the benefit of the city, while at the same time aiding the unemployed, but how in the readiest and easiest way to distribute largess and alms. Instead of rushing into expenditure on the Speedway (which is not immediately needed and is not essentially necessary to the welfare of the city), it would be more in accord with business common sense to undertake extra work upon the improvement of our miserable streets, the defective condition of which entails an indirect assessment upon our merchants of many thousands of dollars annually. There is also our inadequate dock system which might have received attention, as well as certain street widenings which are imperatively needed. We are not objecting to the Speedway or to any improvement of that class. They undoubtedly but indirectly benefit the city. At the same time they are not of prime necessity and should not receive attention until the hard daily requirements of the city have been fully met. We believe that it would be to the advantage of everybody were the municipality to be a large spender in dull times like these, but the city's money should be expended upon business principles.

IN Albany, the representatives of the 23d and 24th Wards have apparently awakened to the fact that "The Greater New York Scheme" means a higher rate of taxation for their constituents. This is due to the fact that higher taxes than those prevailing in New York City are exacted in nearly all the towns which it is proposed to incorporate in the Greater Metropolis. We cannot possibly see how Brooklyn, with her decidedly high tax rate, and many of the Westchester County and Long Island cities, with their high tax rates, can be annexed without adding to the burdens which the New York taxpayer has to meet. The only way to avoid this is to continue separate systems of taxation in each of the separate localities consolidated; but any arrangement of this kind impairs the essential part of the "Greater New York" scheme, which is the abolition of all the present governmental differences in the metropolitan area and the construction instead of a single piece of machinery for the whole district. The trouble is the plan of consolidation and the problems it necessarily raises have received so far very little analytical consideration. The scheme has sounded well in the public ear and enthusiasts have pushed it forward. The plan, however, is beset with many difficulties. It is easy enough to say this place and that place shall henceforth be part of New York City, but it is a much more difficult way to integrate them into one real whole. Our experience already has been that the 23d and 24th Wards, a district which is geographically and commercially, as well as politically, closely related to the city on Manhattan Island, could not be properly governed from the City Hall. It will need no little ingenuity and statescraft to construct a government that shall be both efficient and economical for the larger metropolis contemplated in the Greater New York bill. We are not by any means opposed to the measure, but we believe the public have so far done very little thinking about the subject they are to be asked to vote on.

The Bond Purchase for January.

THE record of the bond market for January has some features which will be regarded with some satisfaction, as they add other evidences that the situation is slowly improving. The fall in the quotations, for railroad bonds especially, seems to have spent itself in December with the decline that accompanied the placing of Atchison in the hands of receivers, because, with few exceptions, there has been a steady advance in prices, and these not brought about by speculative buying. Moreover, the total of the month's business was greater than that of the preceding month and nearly up to the monthly average for the year 1893. In bonds of all classes listed on the New York Stock Exchange during January trading amounted to $29,209,200; in December it was only $27,703,150; and the monthly average for last year was $29,500,000. A large part of the bond movement of December was crowded into the last two weeks and was made up of the Atchison direct and allied issues; the Atchison general 4s and second A's alone made up more than 25 per cent of the month's business. Last month the transactions on these two bonds were only about 7 per cent of the whole month's business. No other issues took their predominating place, consequently the trading was distributed better. As this was accompanied by rising prices, it may be justly inferred that a process of absorption is going on which will not be without effect in the not distant future. The buying has not been in the bonds of the best class, because the floating supply of that class disappeared as soon as the danger of serious runs on the savings banks disappeared last summer, and the few that come out from time to time in the ordinary course of the market are immediately taken up. The fact that the new fifty year 4 per cent loan of the United Companies of New Jersey was taken in less than a week without public subscription shows the demand there is for good bonds, and is mentioned only as an illustration as these bonds do not form part of the amount mentioned above which includes only bonds listed on the New York Stock Exchange. A summary made by the Railroad Gazette of the changes in the price of bonds in January classified shows average increases as follows: Bonds of roads in the hands of receivers, .45; of grangers, .93; of Trunk lines, .72; of Southwestern roads, 1.47; of Transcontinental roads, .56; of Coal roads, 1.03; of Southern roads, .75; of miscellaneous roads, .78. The December list contained 48 bonds, in which transactions of $100,000 and over were made in the month, the January list contains 56 such, they are:

The significant fact in connection with the above list is, that with very few exceptions the closing price is either the highest or very near the highest of the month. Picking out special cases, it will be found that the Atchison direct issues show considerable strength, while the guaranteed Colorado, Midland and Atlantic & Pacific bonds are heavy. The St. Louis & San Francisco bonds, in none of which did the transactions come up to $100,000, and consequently none could be included in the above list, there was a rapid rise and much closing strength in January. The consol guaranteed 4s advanced from 37 to 43½, the closing price, on dealings in $19,000. If the quotations are an indication of the prospects of the several bond issues to which they refer in reorganization, then the low priced St. Louis & San Francisco bonds deserve the attention of the buyer as they do any way because of the history of the road itself, its earning capacity, and in spite of the advance they have seen in the last thirty days. The Reading issues have also been in much favor during the past month, advancing apparently on talk of reorganization without assessment on the stock or incomes; really most probably on the fact that they had sold under their value for the time being. Even with the prospect of no interest for some years to come the first incomes look cheap in the thirties, as we are ordinarily wont to judge values in the bond market. Among the bonds that do not show up satisfactorily in spite of the general improvement of the list are the Northern Pacific issues. These are effected by their own bulk, the enormous losses of earnings of the properties on which they are predicted, and the complications that attend their present control. No unprejudiced testimony could support the presence of Mr. Oakes among the number of receivers considering how closely he was identified with the people who brought the property to its present condition, but there seems no way of making the courts see the impropriety of the fact. If there was ever any reason why he should have been retained in the management of the property it should have been temporarily, only long enough for him to turn the property over to other hands.

The railroad bond market is likely to be affected by the discussion that is going on on the question of railroad receiverships. If the courts cannot be made to see that there is an indecency in appointing receivers for permanent control and operation of a great property on secret proceedings, then the laws should be amended to make it impossible. Among the many ways in which any certain set of men can retain control of a property under any and all circumstances, this doing it in connivance with the courts is obviously the most objectionable. Any reform that can be carried out in this particular will increase the confidence of the investment public in railroad securities. Erie is another case that has done much damage to business, and opposition to the plan brought out six weeks ago is becoming stronger. One of the best arguments against it is that it increases fixed charges which will leave only an estimated balance of about three-quarters of a million dollars, based on the earnings of the last fiscal year. Security-holders have only to look at previous reorganizations to know what that means, and as reorganizations are very profitable to bankers they should not accept bankers' recommendations in these cases without a precautionary pinch of salt. The condition of the Treasury for the time being need no longer cause anxiety and that is one and a very important obstacle to improvement out of the way. There are, however, still enough obstacles left to create setbacks from time to time and make progress slow.

In an article on the merits and demerits of American railway bonds the London Economist makes some interesting observations and draws conclusions favorable to the investment value of our mortgage securities. Its opinion is adverse to the purchase of income bonds or collateral trust bonds; of the first it says: "A mortgage without definite foreclosure rights, either in regard to the corpus or the income of the property upon which it is presumably secured is but a delusion and a snare;" collateral trust bonds it declares: "generally indicate that a company has nearly exhausted its borrowing power." Regarding the value as investments of American bonds of good class generally this paper further says: "Now there can be no doubt that no small degree of care should be exercised by those who invest in American railway bonds, but at the same time these securities are entitled by their record to a large measure of confidence. Looking back through one or even two decades, we find that even in the worst times the percentage of bonds upon which default has occurred has been extremely small, while much smaller is the proportion upon which there has ultimately been any loss. In saying this, of course we are referring to bona fide mortgage bonds and not to those pseudo securities which are not based upon specific or definite lien."

Legislation at Albany.

ALBANY, Feb. 9.—A few of the members of the Assembly from New York City have fought with a great deal of bitterness this week the bill of Assemblyman Burtis, of Brooklyn, authorizing the voters of the metropolitan district, in which are situated the cities of New York, Brooklyn and Long Island City and the towns of Kings County, Richmond County, and Westchester, Eastchester and Pelham, in Westchester County, to vote upon the question of their consolidation into one big city, which has been popularly termed "Greater New York."

The opposition has come chiefly from Assemblymen Butts and Marrin, who represent the assembly districts of New York City lying north of the Harlem River. It was evident that their resistance to the passage of the bill has been chiefly due to the fear that the taxpayers of New York City would have to assume heavy obligations of Brooklyn and Long Island City and consequently that the general city tax rate of the New York portion of the proposed "Greater New York" would be increased. But notwithstanding the opposition of Assemblymen Butts and Marrin the bill was passed to-day by the big majority of 106 to 7. Ex-Speaker Sulzer led most of the New York members to favor it, the Brooklyn Assemblymen were tied up to the bill by pre-election promises, and Mr. Ainsworth and Mr. Fish, the Republican leaders also supported it. The bill as passed will meet with the opposition of Senator Robertson, who represents the 23d and 24th Wards of New York, as well as Westchester and Putnam counties. "I do not think the annexation of the Westchester County towns to New York would benefit them for many years," said Senator Robertson to-day to the correspondent of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, "and I say this from a knowledge that the towns of Westchester County which were annexed to New York several years ago have had to submit to greater taxes, and thus far have derived no benefit from their union with New York. I have introduced a bill to give Yonkers an opportunity to vote upon the question of whether or not she shall be united to New York, but personally I should be opposed to that little city of Mount Vernon joining the metropolis. These Brooklyn people who are urging forward this scheme to unite this city with New York should recollect that she has thirty Assemblymen to her eighteen, and therefore will be in the best position to dictate the terms of consolidation."

The "Greater New York" bill passed to-day is a brief one, and therefore is given in full below:

SECTION 1. The territory referred to in this act is as follows, to wit: The city of New York, Long Island City, the county of Kings, the county of Richmond, the towns of Westchester, Flushing, Newtown and Jamaica, and that portion of the towns of Eastchester and Pelham which lies southerly of a straight line drawn from the point where the northerly line of the city of New York meets the centre line of the Bronx river to the middle of the channel between Hunters and Glen islands in Long Island sound, and that part of the town of Hempstead which is westerly of a straight line drawn from the southerly point of the town of Flushing, through the middle of the channel between Rockaway Beach and Shelter island to the Atlantic ocean.

SEC. 2. At the next general election held in this State there shall be submitted to a vote of the duly qualified electors of the said territory the question of its consolidation under one municipal government; and for this purpose there shall be provided by the proper authorities, in each election district therein, separate ballots as hereinafter described, and separate ballot boxes, in the manner and by the persons, as required by the provisions of chapter six hundred and eighty of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-two, entitled "An act in relation to the elections, constituting chapter six of the general laws," and any act or acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto, for the submission of a constitutional amendment or other proposition or question to a popular vote. One-half of the number of said ballots shall read, "For consolidation," and the other half of the number of said ballots shall read, "Against consolidation," and the endorsement on said ballots shall read, "Consolidation." Each elector shall be provided, in addition to the other ballots furnished at said election, with two ballots, one of which shall be "for" and the other "against" said consolidation. All the provisions of said chapter six hundred and eighty of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-two, relating to the submission of a constitutional amendment or other proposition or question to a popular vote shall in all respects be followed, complied with, applied to and carried into effect, in the submission of said proposition or question of consolidation to a popular vote as herein provided; and no ballot on said proposition or question shall be deemed invalid by reason of any error in dimensions, style of printing or other formal defect, or by having been deposited in a wrong ballot-box, but all such ballots shall be canvassed and returned as if said error or formal defect had not existed, or as if they had been deposited in the box required for that purpose. The ballots cast in each of said election districts, except in the city of New York, shall be deemed and taken as an expression of the voter, as the case may be, in favor of or against the consolidation with the city of New York, of the city, county, village, town or part of a town mentioned in the first section, in which the said district is situated, and the ballots cast upon said proposition or question in the city of New York shall be deemed and taken as an expression of the voter, as the case may be, in favor of or against the consolidation of the territory mentioned in section one of this act under one municipal government. Within ten days after the votes upon said question of consolidation shall have been canvassed and returned the secretary of state shall make and file a certificate in his office of the result of said vote of each city, county, village, town or part of a town included within the territory mentioned in the first section of this act.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect immediately.

The Senate Committee on Cities, the past week, reported favorably Senator Guy's bill empowering the Department of Public Works to complete the construction of the Riverside Park and Drive at an expense not to exceed $750,000, his bill giving the Park Department care of the trees upon West End avenue, and his bill to prevent the establishment of such nuisances as bone-boiling factories within 400 feet of any park in New York City.

The Senate Committee on Cities also reported favorably Senator Guy's bill giving the Park Commissioners the care of the Cathedral Parkway.

The greatest bill of the week in relation to New York real estate was presented by Senator Guy and Assemblyman Lawson. It authorizes and directs the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of New York to acquire title to such of the land within the boundaries laid down for the Riverside Park as has not yet been acquired by the city. Practically the bill says that all the land from the south side of West 72d street north to the south side 129th street along the Hudson River, "and westerly by the bulkhead line on the Hudson River laid out by the Commissioners of Central Park and established by Chapter 288 of the Laws of 1868, including the lands under water or rights therein, if any exist in any party or person westerly of said bulkhead line, as the same may have been heretofore granted by the State or the Mayor, Aldermen, or Commonalty of the City of New York, between 72d and 129th streets, are laid out, appropriated and set apart" for the use of the Riverside Park. Two exceptions are made, however, to this law; one a piece of land at 79th street and the other at 96th street, where there are to be public piers. The act also says that "so much of Chapter 426 of the Laws of 1885 as provides for a new avenue to be called 12th avenue is hereby repealed." Section 2 of the Act says that:

"The Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New York, by and through the counsel to the corporation, are hereby authorized and directed to acquire title to all the lands, tenements, hereditaments and premises, including upland and land under water laid out and appropriated by the first section of this act, as and for a part or extension of the Riverside Park and for dock and commercial purposes, not now owned, on the title to which is not vested in the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New York, or the State of New York, and are hereby directed and authorized to make application within six months after the passage of this act to the Supreme Court in the First Department at any General Special Term thereof for the appointment of Commissioners of Appraisal. The said counsel to the corporation shall give notice in the City Record and in two public newspapers published in the City of New York of his intention to make application to the said Court for the appointment of such Commissioners of Appraisal, which notice shall specify the time and place of such application, shall briefly state the object of the application and shall briefly describe the real estate sought to be taken. Such notice shall be published continuously in the City Record for at least ten days, excepting Sundays and the legal holidays immediately previous to the presentation of such petition. At the time and place mentioned in said notice, unless the said Court shall adjourn said application to a subsequent day, and in that event, at the time to which the same may be adjourned, the Court, upon due proof of the publication of said notices and upon filing the said petition, shall make an order for the appointment of three disinterested and competent freeholders, residents of said city, as Commissioners of Appraisal to ascertain and appraise the compensation to be made to the owners and all persons interested in the real estate described in said petition or laid out or designated on said maps as proposed to be taken or affected for the purposes named in this act."

The Commissioners of Appraisal thus appointed are to give formal notice to the owners of the property to be taken to present their claims and demands concerning it within sixty days. They are to take evidence regarding the values of the lands and are then to determine the compensation which ought justly be made to their owners for taking their property. The report of the appraisers is to be filed in the office of the County Clerk of New York, and must be confirmed by the courts before being final. All damages, costs, and expenses for and on account of acquiring title to the lands thus set apart for the extension of Riverside Park are to be paid for from the fund for street and park openings in New York. Provisions are, of course, made for appeals from decisions of the appraisers to the General Term of the Supreme Court. The Department of Parks is continued in charge of the park, but the Department of Docks is to have charge of the public piers, already mentioned. The act closes with the words: "But no portion of the said lands, bulkhead or water front herein set apart for commercial or dock purposes shall be devoted to any other use or purpose; and no building, shed, or any other structure shall be placed upon or within the same, which shall in any manner be detrimental to the health of the public, or injuriously affect the public use and enjoyment of said Riverside Park as hereby extended or property fronting thereon, or be in any other respect a public or private nuisance."

Assemblyman Lawson and Senator Coggeshall, of Utica, presented a bill on Wednesday providing that there shall be a bureau in the Department of Buildings of New York, to be known as the Bureau of Gas Fitting. The chief of this Bureau is to be called the Superintendent of Gas Fitting, and he is to have one or more subordinate officers, who are to be called inspectors of gas-fitting and gas-fitters. Each of the said inspectors is to have a technical and practical knowledge of gas-fitting and to have had at least ten years' experience as gas-fitters. The Bureau of Gas Fitting is to have charge "of the construction, care and management of the work of gas-fitting" in New York. The Department of Buildings or the Board of Health is authorized and required to make regulations in regard to the work of gas-fitting and the material to be used therefor, such regulations and inspections to conflict in no manner with the following rules, which are primary regulations:

"A. Gas-fitting shall be done after and according to the rules and regulations as now used, adopted and put in force by the several gas companies of the State of New York or standard rule of gas pipe fitting."

B. All pipes should cut in beam not more than 18 inches from support on bearings and also shall be tested by a mercury gauge so that the mercury therein shall be raised at least 18 inches and shall continue to be so raised to the said height of 18 inches for a period of time not less than thirty minutes."

The act further says that "the Bureau of Inspectors of Gas Fittings shall have the right to inspect any gas piping and fixtures, to wit: chandeliers, side bracket lights, gas stoves, gas ranges and all such other fixtures as may be used for illuminating, heating or cooking purposes at any time after the expiration of forty-eight hours from the time when the owner thereof or the person having the care or possession thereof was notified of such intention to so inspect such gas piping." The bill makes it a misdemeanor to violate any of the provisions of the act. No gas company is to be permitted to introduce gas into any building] in the City of New York "in course of erection or to which repairs shall be made" unless the gas fittings have first been inspected.

A bill to regulate the disposition of stable manure in the city of New York was introduced the past week by Assemblyman Lawson. It makes it the duty of any person keeping a horse or horses, a mule or mules in the yard or stable "south of 130th street to cause all manure dropped by such animal or animals to be removed from the floor of such yard or stable at least once in every twenty-four hours and to cause the same to be immediately pressed in bales or barrels." The pressure required may be applied by placing such manure in a baling press or barrel and reducing the same to one-third of its original bulk. It is made unlawful to carry through the streets of the city any stable manure unless pressed in bales or barrels. The Board of Health is directed to enforce the law.

The Assembly Committee on Cities reported favorably yesterday Assemblyman Reilly's bill, providing for the creation of a park in the 12th Ward of New York, and Mr. Lawson's bill, providing for the completion of Cathedral Parkway.

Senator Guy introdueed a bill on Wednesday, at the suggestion of Thomas Stevenson, of New York, providing for the giving of fuller notice of foreclosure sales. The bill provides that notice of such sales shall be posted up at least forty-two days before the sale, in three public places in the city, and one of them in the exchange in which the sale is to take place, and that, further, it shall be advertised for six weeks in the newspaper having the largest circulation.

Assemblyman Fairbrother has introduced a bill, with an eye to the New York Steam and Heating Company's big chimney in New York, doubtless, providing that in cities of above 100,000 population, bituminous coal or other fuel shall not be used for making steam, if it produces a greater amount of smoke than anthracite coal, unless the furnace is so equipped that at least 75 per cent of the smoke from such coal is consumed or prevented from entering the atmosphere.

A bill has been introduced by Assemblyman Fish authorizing the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to raise annually $50,000 for monuments to distinguished Americans.

Assemblyman Sheffield has introduced a bill providing for annual payments by New York City of $35,000 to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

Senator Robertson has introduced a bill authorizing the City of New York to bond itself for $200,000 to complete the American Museum of Natural History in Central Park.

A bill has been introduced by Assemblyman Sheffield providing for the appointment of six judges of the Court of Special Sessions of New York at salaries of $5,000 each.

Assemblyman Lawson has introduced a bill reducing the salaries of the police justices of New York from $8,000 to $5,000.

In another bill Assemblyman Sheffield reduces the number of police justices of New York to one and his assistant, and gives him a salary of only $3,000 instead of $8,000—amply sufficient. This police justice is to hold court in the various police stations of New York.

Assemblyman Sheffield has introduced a bill exempting Gramercy Park from taxation as long as it is used for park purposes.

The Assignment of Dore Lyon.

The announced failure of Dore Lyon did not create any surprise either in the building or real estate trades as it was anticipated from those facts that come out in trade circles in regard to embarrassed people from time to time, and which were plentiful in this case for a good while. A long period of financial struggle and physical distress culminated on Wednesday when Mr. Lyon made an assignment to George W. Carr, with preferences aggregating $28,153: To Grace U. P. Schmidt, $1,000; Seventh National Bank, $9,000; Bradley & Hubbard, for the amount of their contract on 31st street houses, and to the holders of twenty-two notes for various amounts. Mr. Carr, the assignee, explained that "the assignment was precipitated by the failure of A. R. Steers, lumber merchant, one of his largest creditors, and the filing of a mechanic's lien by Mr. Steers' assignee, thus making further extensions or arrangements impossible." He, however, made no statement of assets and liabilities. Mr. Lyon has occupied a conspicuous place in the building up of the West Side of the past eight or nine years, though his name is not identified with the best class of property that has gone up in that time. His transactions were, however, very large, and a year ago only he made a statement to a trade agency showing an asset surplus of $605,000.

Obituary.

GEORGE P. CURTIS.

George B. Curtis, while testifying as an expert in the trial of a suit in the Supreme Court, on Wednesday, was stricken with apoplexy and removed to Chambers Street Hospital. He died there the next day. He was sixty years old and resided at No. 137 West 42d street. He was frequently called as a witness in the trial of "L" road damage suits.

West Side Real Estate.

Brokers on the West Side are more cheerful than they have been for some time. Business is still very dull and the transactions few and in the majority of those cases probably trades are disproportioned to the out and out purchases of a really good market, but with the coming of spring and the promise of fine weather when buyers can look about more comfortably they expect that their long and patient waiting will receive its reward. Very little importance was attached to the failures of Dore Lyon and John G. Prague as influences adverse to values, though if there was an admission of weakness at all it was in connection with property in builders' hands, limited, however, to the belief that builders would relinquish some of their profit in order to free their hands for new operations, but not that there was any disposition on their part to throw their property over. It is natural that in times like these there should arise an idea that in a district so purely residential as the West Side above 66th street there would be many houses in the hands of professional and business men pressing for sale as a result of the financial stress of the past year. At all times there are houses of this character in the hands of brokers, and at this time there may be more than is ordinarily the case, but the prices at which they are offered do not attract buyers, and they also fail to indicate any great weakness on the part of the holders; probably where these make their sacrifices is in other lines of investments than New York realty. On the whole it is highly probable that buyers can get most advantage from the property in builders' hands, because to the latter the loss of time from the business point of view is serious, and they would be content with small profits in order to get their hands free for new undertakings. The opinions on business and business prospects of such of the representative West Side brokers as could be reached in one afternoon's canvass will be found in the statements here appended to the names of the brokers making them:

Charles F. White: "There is a good deal of inquiry, especially for business property, but owners hold it so stiff that very few sales are made. A number of people are looking after corners, but these are very scarce. Buyers would be willing to pay a good, fair price for avenue property if they could get it; it is only in the side streets that bargains are expected. The only weakness I can imagine on the part of holders is where foreclosure stares them in the face, and in most cases that danger can be removed by the payment of a few hundred dollars. Renting is fairly good, though not as good as it was last fall; still it is rather early to speak positively about it."

Stabler & Smith: "The situation of the market as we see it in this section is that a demand for moderate-priced three-story dwellings has begun, and from all appearances there will be a good business done in that line this spring. The demand for four-story dwellings has not yet started with us to any extent, but as most of the houses in our immediate section are three-story dwellings we are more likely to meet that demand than that for the higher-priced properties. Regarding flat properties there are very few in this immediate neighborhood unsold in the builders' hands, and as a rule they are freely rented, quite as well as a year ago and at the same price. There is some demand for lots, but nothing to amount to much just at present. Rents of private dwellings have hardly been maintained; owners have accepted lower prices in many cases and the supply is somewhat larger than is usual. We know of no property pressing for sale. If there was more weakness we could do more business. Last summer, at the height of the panic, we could have sold fifty Columbus avenue houses if we could have got them. In fact we see nothing discouraging in the market at all."

J. E. Briggs: "Applications for private dwellings have already begun, which is surprising, because February 1st is the earliest day usually for notifications of continuations of leases. The demand is for small houses, but there appears to be very few of that class offering for rent."

W. E. Jackson: "I am agreeably surprised to see that there are people coming over here from the Murray Hill section looking about, some among them being very large buyers. Of course they are trying to get property as cheap as possible, and are somewhat bearish in their ideas. I think, however, we have good reason to feel that we will have a good spring trade. We have had quite a number of inquiries for houses to rent, although this is rather early in the season for that. There are quite a number of people looking around for investments, especially for three-family apartment houses with steam; we have had more inquiry for this class of property than for two-family houses. I think that such property will have a ready sale. While, as is quite natural after what has transpired in the business world in the past year, there is quite a number of houses owned by professional and business men offered for sale, the figures at which they are held shows that their owners have confidence in their investments."

Charles E. Schuyler: "It looks to me as if there are more people inquiring for expensive and cheap than for moderately priced property. Ordinarily the demand is for houses at from $37,000 to $40,000; now it is for those selling at from $20,000 to $25,000, and those selling from $60,000 to $90,000. Renting is picking up very well and I anticipate a pretty fair spring business in that line. Fewer houses are being offered by people in straitened circumstances as a result of the financial troubles of the past year than we were led to believe would be the case. Not nearly as many houses are being offered this year than was the case last year at this time. I am convinced that this section—68th street to 105th street—is in a healthy condition."

F. Zittel: "Real estate business, considering the panic we have A Fine Corner on Fifth Avenue, near Fourteenth Street.

The most recent improvement to that part of the city that is fast being monopolized by the book-publishing trade is the building now being completed on the northwest corner of 5th avenue and 13th street, whose imposing front, ornamented with polished granite columns, now meets the gaze of passers by. The building is of handsome design and built with strength sufficient so that it can be arranged for lofts as well as offices, or either, as may be desired. It occupies the whole of a plot 52x100, and backs up on the south side of 14th street. It consists of seven stories, the upper ones light on all four sides, and a basement with vaults carried out to the curb line. The materials of which this building is composed make it practically fire-proof. All the stairways are of stone and iron, the plastering is in grooved plaster slabs, similar to those used in the Metropolitan Opera House; the finish is in hardwood and the interior fittings up to date, including gas and wiring for electric light. Each floor contains its own toilet-rooms, furnished with plumbing of the very latest pattern. Two Otis electric elevators, one on the 13th street and the other on the 5th avenue entrance, provide rapid communication between the different floors. Its ample window space on all sides makes it especially desirable for offices or for those whose business requires plenty of light. This building was put up by L. & E. Weber, the contractors for the Havemeyer Building and the Empire Theatre, from plans by Cleverdon & Putzel, the well-known architects. This is an outline description of a building that is sure to attract occupants without delay, but the neighborhood in which it stands also deserves a word. For some years past the publishing houses that found themselves crowded in their old down-town or Broadway quarters have selected this as the region most suited to their business, consequently a good many of them have located themselves there. Some of the proprietors of well-known periodicals have also chosen this part of the city as one best suited, under all the circumstances and the requirements of their business, for real estate investments, and have put up handsome buildings as a consequence. This has made what was once a quiet residence avenue a very busy thoroughfare, bringing all sorts of interests kindred to the book business into its vicinage and creating a sharp demand for offices and lofts that come up to modern requirements. It also brings a current of people its way. From all of this the building under notice will undoubtedly benefit. It is not only right in the line of this traffic going north and south on 5th avenue, but also in that crossing 14th street. The premises of the great Anglo-American publishing house, Macmillan & Co., are only a block below, and Websters, who are so identified by American military biography, are only across the way. In the same block may be counted perhaps half a dozen publishing firms, so that it will be seen that this building is sure to soon secure a good patronage if it has not found one ready made.

Fifth Avenue, northwest corner of Thirteenth Street.

It should be added that the building is now receiving the finishing touches, and applications for offices or lofts should be addressed to Mr. I. S. Korn, 137 Broadway.—(Communicated).

gone through, is remarkably good. I do not expect a boom in the immediate future, but I do expect a fairly healthy market. There is not a great number of houses for sale on the West Side for a city as large as ours, and as most of the weak builders have been weeded out in the past year there will be no great break in prices, but builders naturally would sell a little closer than usual. While it is a little early to form an opinion of renting the outlook is good and we have an inquiry already. Rents are about the same as last year. I think when the cable road, which is now building, is finished it will have a great influence on property on this side and its good effect will be felt by all. If the tariff question was settled one way or the other it would very much benefit the market. I am going to Florida on Saturday for a month and on my return I expect to be more than busy."

Hunt & Wendell: "The buyers are coming out. We have had more inquiries from purchasers in the past week than for the last two months. Of course they are looking for bargains, which we are able to give them. We do not mean that we have anything to sell at panic prices, but that sellers are willing to meet buyers. Money is much easier than it has been. Principals, not agents, mind, are coming to us and asking us to make loans for them, and when a man does not want an excessive loan he can get it easily. Money is in fact offered more freely than at any time in the last ten years. We do not say that 4 per cent money is plentiful, but 4½ to 5 per cent money can be readily had. The outlook is for a better market this spring, not at the prices of last year, sellers are not asking the prices that they did, for instance, a man that has stood out for say $35,000 or $40,000 for a house until now is willing to consider an offer for a few thousand less. We think, consequently, that this is one of the very best times to buy real estate."

North Side Happenings.

The present condition of Tremont avenue has called forth many complaints among the property-owners and builders, and many inquiries have been made as to when the proposed improvements would take place. At the Department of Street Improvement, Commissioner Haffen said: "I am aware of the importance of finishing this avenue as soon as we can. Work on the sewer from Vanderbilt avenue to the section east of 3d avenue will be commenced in April or May, and while the sewer is in progress the surveys and plans will be made ready to go ahead with the grading. By the end of the fall all the surveys will be completed, and the regulating and grading of the avenue from Aqueduct avenue to West Farms will be probably commenced in about a year."

The roll of charter members of the North Side Board of Trade has now about one hundred names of prominent North Side business men, among which are the following: Henry Lewis Morris, Fordham Morris, Hugh N. Camp, Jordan L. Mott, Fred. N. Camp, John C. De La Vergne, James L. Wells, Albert E. Davis, John W. Hotaling, Fred. W. Devoe, Louis Risse, Commissioner Louis F. Haffen, J. Clarence Davis, Dr. John H. Eden, and Franklin A. Wilcox. The use of the Melrose Lyceum has been offered by Franklin A. Wilcox for the meeting soon to be held for the purpose of effecting a permanent organization, electing officers and adopting constitution and by-laws.

Real estate in this city is not as active a commodity as everybody would like to see it just now, but it continues to be the best form of property that a man can own, even in times like the present. It may be said even that the promise of greater activity, contained in the flurry of sales of two weeks ago, has scarcely been maintained. The two chief items of last week's gossip have been destroyed by later investigation, one of them proving to be a mistake and the other a case of Chicago gas. The latter, by which is meant the effort of a Chicago "syndicate" to buy the Broadway block, between Cedar, Liberty and Temple streets, and to build "the finest and biggest building in the city" upon it, has been the subject of much gossip, in which the Chicago speculators have come in for a good bit of merited derision. It is generally reported that the "syndicate" contracted to pay $2,700,000 for the property and expected some New York institution to lend them $3,000,000 on it. In order that there should be no failure in this important part of the undertaking they offered a bribe of $200,000 to whomever would secure them the loan. It is enough to know that they had to retire, beaten if not subdued.

For all this, and despite the fact that property is moving but slowly, and often then only in the way of liquidation, it will not be safe for anyone to attempt to bear New York City realty. The worst that can be said of it would be good of any other form of property—that is, that it is better to hold than it is to sell. Some, who take gloomy views of the outlook do not know or do not sufficiently appreciate the facts upon which its market values are based. They seem to be oblivious of the fact that New York City is the richest city in the country, and is growing more substantially and denesly than any other; that, while there may be an occasional lean year, the general tendency is to fat years. It ought to be enough for such persons to know that the worst of the business situation is known; that the country has not ceased producing all the staples of life and trade because it is denying itself some of the luxuries and superfluities, and that whatever change is to come must necessarily be a change for the better. New York City realty, at present prices is good property to buy. But one ought not to expect to borrow 75 per cent of the value of a second class property without resources in case of emergency and expect to avoid trouble in times like these.

EXPLANATION OF WHAT APPEARED TO BE A PECULIAR SALE.

Some comment has been made upon the newspaper reports of a sale at auction at the Broadway Salesroom on Tuesday by Richard V. Harnett & Co. The property was the southeast corner of Prince and Greene streets, 20x50. The newspaper report said that the property was bought by Henry Wesser at $55,000 for Frederick Loeser, the owner of the adjoining property on both streets. This report is false and some have thought it was purposely inspired to create a false impression of the value of the property. The facts are that the sale was ordered by the heirs of the estate to which the property belonged as an easy way of dividing the estate; that the widow of the deceased owner wanted the property, for sentimental considerations largely, and was willing to take it at a round figure. Mr. Wessels appeared for her and bought the property for her, and the auctioneer was paid his full fees.

MR. GEORGE DE F. BARTON.

Hardly any one does any building in these days or buying of real estate without finding it necessary or desirable to obtain some of the capital for his undertaking from other sources. In this event it is of much importance to know a specialist in this branch of the real estate business whose familiarity with it is such that he can be relied upon to do for you better than you could hope to do for yourself, and whose associations insure for you the best terms that the general condition of the business will permit for any one.

People who have had business dealings with Mr. George De F. Barton will say without hesitation that he is such a man. Mr. Barton has been twenty-three years in the real estate business, making a specialty of negotiating loans. He was twenty-one years on the corner of Broadway and Pine street, where he was associated with Mr. Whittemore. The firm did by far the largest loan business in the city. On May 1 last the firm was dissolved by mutual consent and Mr. Barton has since been at No. 59 Liberty street. He is one of the active members of the Board of Directors of the Real Estate Exchange, of which he is also the Treasurer.

Mr. Barton was formerly an officer in the United States Navy, serving during the entire four years of the war, and afterwards was attached to the Brazil and European Squadron until his resignation in 1869. He is a member of the Union League, Lawyers', United Service and other clubs, and for years has been one of the most active members of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion. There isn't a man prominently connected with the real estate business of this city who does not know Mr. Barton, and respect him as a representative of all the best qualities that combine to make a good business man.

A DOWN-TOWN BUSINESS PROPERTY AT AUCTION.

George R. Read will sell at auction, at the Real Estate Exchange Auction Room, Nos. 59 to 65 Liberty street, on Tuesday, February 20th, the five-story brick building and lot, 20.6x50.2½x51.9x55.01, Nos. 90 and 92 Beaver street, running through to Nos. 137, 139 and 141 Pearl street. Particular information regarding this valuable property will be given on application to the auctioneer at his office, No. 9 Pine street.

THEY WANT MONTHLY MEETINGS.

The Real Estate Owners' and Brokers' Association will hold a special meeting on Monday evening next, at 8 o'clock, in the Hamilton Bank Building, 125th street, to consider a proposed amendment to the by-laws empowering the Association to meet on the second Monday of each month, excepting July and August. Hitherto the regular meetings of the Association have been quarterly, with monthly meetings of the Board of Managers. It is now felt that the interests of the Association require the general meetings to be monthly also.

THREE HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-FIVE PER CENT ADVANCE IN THIRTY-NINE MONTHS AT POCANTICO HILLS, N. Y.

Four lots on the west side of Mallory avenue, between Kenneth and Bogan avenues, 200x50 feet, were sold last month at $450 each, by James Burke to a Mr. Farley. These lots were purchased by Mr. Burke at an auction sale conducted by Wilson H. Blackwell & Co., in October, 1891, at $95 each. The last sale, therefore, shows an advance of 375 per cent in a space of three years.

OPPORTUNITY FOR A GOOD INVESTMENT.

Adrian H Muller & Son (Louis Mesier, auctioneer) will sell, at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, on Tuesday next, Feb. 13, by order of Lawrence Wells, executor, the three-story and basement brick dwellings and lots, Nos. 38, 42 and 44 West 11th street, between 5th and 6th avenues. This property is well situated in a section which has lately afforded a profitable field for reconstruction—the substantial old houses being changed to studios and flats, with great advantage.

Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell at auction on Tuesday next, February 13th, at the New York Real Estate Salesroom, No. 111 Broadway, by order of the Supreme Court, in partition, the two-story brick front building and lot, 25x80, No. 460 Greenwich street.

At the Real Estate Exchange Auction Room, Nos. 59 to 65 Liberty street, on Wednesday next, February 14th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell eight lots on the Boulevard, east side, between 88th and 89th streets, title in fee except as to part lying within the old Bloomingdale road, as to which all the right, title and interest will be sold, and a title by tax lease for 1,000 years; also at the same time and place, the three-story and basement white marble and brick and three-story and basement dwelling, Sailors' Snug Harbor leasehold, No. 9 Washington square North, with twenty-one years' renewal from May 1st next; lot is 31 front and about 150 deep to Washington Mews.

Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell at auction, at the Real Estate Exchange Auction Rooms, 57-65 Liberty street, on Thursday next, Feb. 15, by order of the Executors of the Estate of Thos. B. C. Berrian, deceased, the important investment properties, Nos. 257 and 259 Hudson street, 53.6x80, with five-story brick tenements and stores, and Nos. 336 and 338 East 24th street, 50x98.10½, with two four-story double brick tenements and stores. At the same time and place they will sell two properties in Elizabeth, N. J., for the same estate, No. 124 Catharine street, 28.5x148.35, with two-and-a-half-story frame dwelling, and No. 9 East Scott place, 25.5x143x51.78 x irregular, and three-story frame restaurant and Masonic hall and dwelling. For further particulars regarding any of these properties application should be made to Messrs. Harnett & Co., at their offices, 71 and 73 Liberty street.

Parties in want of private stables—either to buy or rent—will do well to examine the properties offered by Commissioner Randolph Guggenheimer. They are six in number, and of the most approved and substantial construction, and front three on 50th and three on 51st street, at 4th avenue. There is room for ten horses in each of four, and for thirty to forty in the other two. Mr. Guggenheimer will exchange them for other property.

The Presbyterian Board of Home and Foreign Missions is hesitating between selling and not selling its property on the northeast corner of 5th avenue and 12th street. It wants the money to put into its new building further up the avenue, but the circumstances under which it received the property are restraining it. It was purchased from the Lenox family, large contributors to the Board's work, at a low price, on condition that it should be kept for the use of the Board. Now the heirs are said to be opposed to the sale.

THE FAILURE OF JOHN G. PRAGUE.

The announcement of the failure of John G. Prague was made yesterday, he having assigned to Charles Strauss, a lawyer, at No. 237 Broadway, without preferences. A meeting of the creditors is to be called so soon as the assignee can make up a full list. No detailed statement of assets and liabilities has been issued, but the former are said to amount to from $550,000 to $600,000 and the latter to $450,000. The assignee is reported to have said that the failure was precipitated by threats of small creditors to file liens. As is well known Mr. Prague has built largely on the West Side. In the past eight years he has put up no less than 214 dwellings and apartment houses, between 72d and 90th streets. The assignee has given it as his opinion that the estate will pay out a hundred cents on the dollar and leave a handsome surplus for the assignor if the creditors will have patience and give the properties included in the assets time to realize their values. The liabilities include money due on mortgages, taxes, interest and obligations on general account.

EXCELSIOR TERRA COTTA CO.

Such is the new name of the company which was formerly the Partridge, Powell & Storer Co. The new concern will manufacture architectural terra cotta, in all colors, and continue the manufacture of special colored superior front brick, for which the old company gained a favorable reputation. Architects and builders will thus be enabled to secure a successful combination of colors in brick and terra cotta and avoid the annoyance of making separate contracts for material so closely related. The offices of the Excelsior Terra Cotta Co. are at No. 105 East 22d street. Telephone call, 939 18th street, and the works at Rocky Hill, N. J. All inquiries for estimates, etc., will receive immediate attention, and the company announce prompt delivery and reasonable prices. The front brick used in the building, corner of 5th avenue and 13th street, illustrated on another page, was furnished by this company.

CANDEE & KREKELER.

Travelers about town, particularly below 23d street, frequently observe the "Danger" signs, and see the trucks of the above-named firm laden or being loaded with second-hand building material, because the firm are active in the work of removing old buildings, which line of work is always rushing at this season of the year. Messrs. Candee & Krekeler's yards are at Nos. 460–472 Hamilton avenue, opposite 15th street, Brooklyn, N. Y., but they make a specialty of removing New York buildings. They are experienced men, and have the facilities for removing old buildings with dispatch. Telephone call, South 313.

PIONEER OF THE SAND INDUSTRY.

The New York Sun recently printed an interesting account of the removal of sand for building purposes from the shore front in Hempstead Harbor, and among other points brought out the fact that the title which heads these lines belongs to John Gallagher, whose New York office is at the foot of East 38th street. Mr. Gallagher has been engaged in this business thirty-five years, and is a direct handler of all kinds of sand, gravel and broken stone, which he supplies by the cargo or truck load. His facilities are of the very best, and builders, contractors and others requiring anything in the way of sand, gravel or broken stone, will do well before placing orders to see or communicate with Mr. Gallagher. His telephone call is 510B 38th street.

GLASS BENDING.

B. & W. B. Smith, of No. 220 West 29th street, who have fitted up many of the largest and handsomest stores in New York City and throughout the country, found it necessary to bend glass for their own work, being unable to get it done well enough in this country, and it requiring too long a time to get it from Europe. They built buildings and kilns at Flushing, L. I., to do the bending satisfactorily. Not having sufficient work of their own to keep the works busy, they are ready to take work for other parties. They only want to do work for those who will appreciate good work and pay a reasonable price there for. Glass will be delivered when promised. Messrs. Smith will answer all letters of inquiry or will be glad to have interested parties call at their office, No. 220 West 29th street, New York City.

Builder Michael Brennan has just completed a row of six superior four-story brick and stone dwellings on the north side of 70th street, 150 feet west of Central Park West, Nos. 11 to 21. Out Among the Builders.

Geo. M. Walgrove is the architect for a six-story high class apartment house, 100x100 in area, to be built for Mr. Winfield Poillon, on the northwest corner of Central Park West and 61st street, at an estimated cost of $250,000. The building, which is to be in the style of the Italian renaissance, will be surmounted with a round tower finished with tiles, and will have two entrances and will contain twenty-four suites of apartments of eight rooms and bath each. The fronts are to be of Longmeadow stone, light brick and terra cotta—the two lower stories of solid stone. There will be four three-story bays, three on the avenue and one on the street front, of stone, extending through the third, fourth and fifth stories. The stairways are to be fire-proof, and there will be rear fire-escapes at four points. The halls and baths are to be wainscoted with marble and floored with tiles. Hardwood trim will be used throughout. Steam heat, two hydraulic elevators, exposed plumbing, enameled tubs, gas ranges and the best appointments generally will be used. None of the contracts have yet been let, but work is ready to proceed at once.

Clarence True has made plans for W. E. Lanchantin for eight American basement redstone and red-pressed brick front four-and-a-half-story houses, 15 to 16 feet wide, to be erected on the south side of West 94th street, 100 feet east of West End avenue; also for T. A. Squier for three houses on the southwest corner of 97th street and West End avenue. These will also be American basement houses, three stories high, and all three stand on a lot 25x100, each having a frontage of 33.33 feet and a depth of 25 feet, a yard, 8x10, being in an "L."

Neville & Bagge are drawing the plans for two five-story flat houses, 25x88, three flats on a floor, containing all improvements including bath-rooms, to be built by Alexander A. Jordan and to become Nos. 109 and 111 East 126th street. The cost of each house will be about $18,000.

Richard R. Davis has completed plans for a five-story apartment house, 25x87.6, to accommodate two families on a floor, steam heated, etc., which will be built by M. A. Walsh on 64th street, 475 feet west of 8th avenue, at a cost of $18,000.

The American Tract Society is still considering whether to build a fifteen, eighteen or twenty-story building or even a higher one on their plot at Nassau and Spruce streets. The plans are to be drawn by Mr. R. H. Robertson. As to the business phases of the proposition the society is consulting with Mr. Geo. R. Read, President of the Real Estate Exchange, upon whose advice regarding the best disposition of their property they resolved to build. It is not the first enterprise of the kind which has been conducted under Mr. Read's advice, and if the similarity continues to the end it will be both successful and profitable

Louis Korn has the plans in preparation for a modern ten-story basement and cellar mercantile and manufacturing building, to be built at Nos. 627 and 629 Broadway, 50 feet front and 200 deep, running through to Mercer street. H. Richter's Sons are the owners, and the cost is estimated at $300,000. The work of tearing down the present old buildings will begin at once, and construction will follow as soon as the contracts can be let. The construction will be of the steel and iron skeleton, curtain walls, type of fire-proof work. The building will contain two electric freight elevators and an electric passenger elevator, steam heat, electric and gas lighting, mail chutes and automatic sprinklers. The cantilever system will be used in the iron framework. The fronts will be of limestone, brick and terra cotta. Richter's Sons will occupy part of the lofts, and will rent the store and other lofts. Mr. Korn also has the plans for a six or seven-story warehouse, to be built on 12th street, particulars of which are not quite ready. He is also preparing plans to alter the four-story building on the northeast corner of Rivington and Eldridge streets for hotel purposes, and for an extension and interior alterations to the dwelling No. 120 East 73d street, at a cost of about $5,000.

In the competition for the American Surety Company's building, to be built at Broadway and Pine street, Mr. Bruce Price has taken the capital prize, his plan having been selected by Consulting Architect Richard M. Hunt, and approved by the Board of Directors of the company. It calls for a twenty-story structure that will be 300 feet high, and thus the next tallest building in the city. The building will be in the classic Greek style, probably of marble, and will be built on the tower plan, of steel and iron-frame and fire-proof curtain walls and interior construction. The specifications are not complete, but as to the materials to be used will not vary greatly from the type of buildings of which it promises to be a conspicuous example. The cost will be between $800,000 and $1,000,000. It is intended to begin the removal of the present buildings on the 1st of May, and to proceed immediately thereafter with the construction of the new building, which must be finished within a year. The main floor will be arranged for two banking offices, and the basement in safe deposit vaults for one of the banks which will occupy the main floor. The second floor will be occupied by two large corporations, and the third, fourth and fifth by the American Surety Co. Special facilities in the way of ventilation, by the exhaust system, will be provided, and in other respects the building will contain all the latest conveniences and appliances.

The plans by Architect F. P. Dinkelberg are out for a sixteen-story office building to occupy the plot on Broadway and Greenwich street, adjoining the Washington Building, opposite Bowling Green. This property is said to belong to a syndicate of which Postmaster Dayton is a member. The syndicate has been threatening to build for nearly or quite two years, but has postponed from time to time until now, it is said, contractors are making estimates upon its construction. There is nothing in the present condition of the property to prevent the immediate beginning of building operations.

The executive board of the University of the City of New York have decided to remove the old building on Washington square in the spring and to erect a ten-story structure in its place. The plot measures 100x180. Only the general features of the building have been agreed upon, but it is expected to cost between $600,000 and $700,000. The seven lower stories will be rented, and the upper ones will be used for university purposes. Work will begin in May.

The Fidelity and Casualty Company will build an office building for its own use on the plot on Cedar street, Temple street and Church street, purchased from Mr. Jefferson M. Levy this week. The building will be made susceptible of enlargement to ten or more stories if occasion should require.

It having been reported that Randolph Guggenheimer would build five large mercantile buildings on the site of the New York Hotel, Mr. Guggenheimer said, in answer to inquiries about it, that the property had been in the market ever since its purchase by himself and Mr. Clausen, and still is. If not sold soon, however, he would buy Mr. Clausen's interest and improve the property, probably as stated.

In explanation of the difference of nearly $100,000 in the cost of erecting the Coffee Exchange building on Beaver street, at the present time and that of three years ago, R. W. Gibson, the architect, said: "Three years ago I submitted plans for the building in competition, to cost $319,000. The plans were accepted, but after consideration the Exchange decided not to build, as their buildings were in good condition and alterations to cost about $50,000 would make them very desirable. The plans for the present building are practically the same structurally as those submitted three years ago, with these exceptions that the specifications call for less extras. But materials are cheaper, it is true, and no small part of the difference in cost is due to that fact."

Louis M. Jones will improve a plot, 60x87, on the southwest corner of Greene and 4th streets, by the erection of a handsome store building. Messrs. Candee & Krekeler, contractors for removing old buildings, are engaged in razing the old houses on the site. Architects Cleverdon & Putzel are preparing the plans.

S. Gifford Slocum & Co., architects, have just finished the building of the Saratoga Club-house, on Broadway, Saratoga, a handsome brick and redstone building, with terra cotta ornamentation, that cost $18,200. The same firm has completed plans for alterations and additions to the house of E. T. Brockett at Saratoga, to cost about $6,000.

Henry Davidson has made plans for converting the basements of the most northerly three of a block of houses on Alexander avenue, between 137th and 138th streets, belonging to M. A. Stafford, into stores, and for alterations in the corner store already existing, the work to cost about $5,000. The owner contemplates carrying this improvement through the entire block eventually.

Frederick Ebeling is preparing plans for a three-story and basement extension, 12x18 feet, to be added to No. 131 East 71st street, for H. M. Toch; cost, $2,000.

James B. Gillie will commence the improvement of the plot of lots he recently acquired from A. C. Denman, on the southwest corner of Amsterdam avenue and 94th street, by the erection of two fine flat houses.

Dickerson & Degan are preparing plans for the alterations to a building, 22x40 feet, on Eagle avenue. The building will be raised and a basement added underneath. It will contain all improvements.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, FEBRUARY 10, 1894.

Real Estate Values and Municipal Art.

TO the man who is at all familiar with our systems of municipal government and the appearance of our cities, it must be apparent that the former fall very far short of a satisfactory efficiency and, as a natural result, the latter are devoid of order in their structural parts, and are anything but attractive in their appearance—especially in and about their public places. Until recent years, we have been notoriously deficient among the nations of earth in native art sense, and even now our art suffers the reproach of lack of originality—of servile imitation of foreign forms. But in our cities it would seem that we had made no profit even of our studies and imitations of foreign cities.

It is utterly impossible to believe that, having the virgin soil to deal with—the raw materials of great cities, as it were—any community of Europeans would have produced such unlovely conglomerations of buildings, such massings of heterogeneous substances as are found in our great cities. Despite their poverty, despite their lack of "all the modern improvements" and despite the simplicity and plainness of the habitations of the masses, the public places of European cities bespeak a popular art sense and civic pride of which we in the unfettered and opulent United States are wofully deficient. Neither will money buy it for us—it must be studied and learnt as are other intellectual and spiritual attainments.

The problem was with us from the beginning, and we ignored it; it is with us now, and pressing more urgently for attention, that the cities are increasing more rapidly in population than the rest of the nation. It has, in fact, forced a partial recognition, which is acknowledged in the universal striving for some expression of architectural art in our public and semi-public buildings. But the efforts that have been put forth along that line serve only to magnify our municipal vulgarity. We display our architectural gems like diamonds on a scrubwoman, amid rags and dirt. We have hitherto seemed to be oblivious of our cities as separate political entities, and have continued to treat them on the same principle upon which we deal with farm lands. Theoretically, our laws concede the supremacy of the municipality in the control of the property within its borders, when required for the public use, but they have never affirmatively declared art to be a public necessity as are streets, and bridges and waterworks. Herein they are deficient.

Several times on recent occasions in this city and in New York has the need of a larger municipal authority in the control of private property been manifested—an artistic, cultured authority we mean. During Mayor Hewitt's administration in New York, its need was shown in the Elm street improvement matter. Mr. Hewitt's conception of the treatment of that project was truly artistic and magnificent. He would have made it to New York what Baron Haussman made the Avenue de l'Opera to Paris, and he would have made it to pay for itself. But the laws prohibited him from taking a square inch more of private property than was absolutely required for the new thoroughfare, and as this would have left a number of shapeless plots and gores to disfigure the thoroughfare and breed trouble and enmity between the owners of property along the line, he abandoned the proceeding. Had he been re-elected, it is every way likely that the law would have been amended so as to empower him to take all the abutting property deemed necessary, and after laying out the street, to sell the remainder in symmetrical parcels and under such restrictions as would have prevented abortions in its improvement.

The imagination dwells with pleasure upon the picture of what might have been had the authorities of New York City, in their exercise of eminent domain, been able to include the property surrounding their parks and public places. Take, for instance, the authority and the sense of municipal art for granted, what would have been the treatment of City Hall Park and its surroundings? Would ever that Post-office monstrosity been tolerated in the park? Emphatically, no! Would such contrasts have been allowed in the size and style of the surrounding buildings? Again, no. Or would it ever have been allowed to encumber that sweet and green oasis in the wilderness of commercial structures with such a group of diverse structures as now defaces it? Certainly not. The old City Hall Park and its immediate surroundings was the field par excellence in all this country for sublime architectural opportunities. Was, say we? It is still, though with magnified cost and labor. But reactionary tendencies are prevailing and the last semblance of beauty in the bright little spot will be obliterated if the people do not soon come to the rescue.

It is Brooklyn, however, that furnishes the chief text for this homily. In the most conspicuous public work in which the city has been engaged—a work which has brought the city great increase of population and wealth—refinement has been subordinated to vulgarity. The Brooklyn Bridge approaches would have suffered nothing in utility or practicability had they been treated with some regard for municipal art, nor would they necessarily have cost any more.

The Brooklyn Bridge trustees have labored under two paralyzing restrictions. In the first place they have had no conception of municipal art and its value as a property, and in the next, even if they had they were so hedged in by the law that they were practically helpless. But according to their lights they have done as ill as they could. From the moment that the bridge was given, clean and majestic, into their hands from its creators, they have continuously degraded and debased it, and the degradation and debasement have extended like a pestilence to all the surrounding property. No need to go into details and specifications. The bridge approach is there and the surrounding property is there in all its dilapidation and dirt. Owners of such property have these bridge managers to thank for the depreciation in its value. The municipality has them to thank for the financial predicament in which they have involved it and for the universal mess they have made of the entire job. It is safe to say that no civic body working ostensibly for improvement, ever wrought such widespread havoc and devastation, and that no city in the Union exhibits such a repulsive aspect about its chief portal.

There is no possible excuse for this condition of things, no explanation that does not convict the bridge management of incapacity or worse. The land lays fair, and by reason of its close proximity to New York City ought to be the most valuable in Brooklyn. But ever since the beginning of the present bridge management it has steadily deteriorated in value, until now, in the estimate of competent judges, it is worth not more than 60 per cent of its former value.

Now if, instead of evading and ignoring the municipal art problem, this great work had been conducted under its inspiration how different would have been the result! Without presuming to specify a fixed plan, suppose that the Bridge Trustees had perfected their scheme of approaches before beginning work upon it; had consulted with architects and artists as well as with engineers; had embraced within their area of improvement all the private property fronting on the approaches; had laid out their plaza, and ornamented it, and had prepared the plans for a classic treatment, say, of the surrounding property, and after their work on the bridge approaches was finished had sold the surrounding property subject to restrictions which required its improvement according to the specified plans; can any one doubt what would have been the result?

But the fact is past and beyond recall. The point we wish to make is that municipal art has a value, measurable in dollars and cents, to the city at large and to every individual property-owner, and that no large public work should ever be undertaken or tampered with without being fully considered and treated from its point of view. Architecture counts for nothing without perspective, and a bridge plaza might just as well be a tomato-can alley if it is to be only the centre of a region of low groggeries, laundries, cheap restaurants and blacksmith shops.

This quality of municipal art ought to be incorporated in the municipal government with large authority. The ranks of municipal office are not generally recruited from art connoisseurs, and especially are Commissioners of Public Works, Bridge Trustees and Park Commissioners seldom found with even tolerable conceptions of the quality of art. All the greater, therefore, is the necessity for a supervising body with a veto power upon the works of such men. Brooklyn more than any other American city needs a long course of this treatment because of the sad condition into which she has fallen. The difficulty is to find where to lodge this power. It might be in a board of architects and landscape engineers, having authority to review and modify the plans for any municipal work, to take the immediately adjoining or surrounding property under eminent domain, and after reconstructing it so as to really improve and develop rather than degrade it to sell it for the benefit of the municipality. No one who knows anything about the effect upon property of beautifying public improvement will doubt for a moment but that nine out of every ten such courses of treatment of public works would return a handsome profit to the municipality. It is high time this matter was taken in hand for earnest, serious consideration, and Mayor Schieren, if we mistake him not, is just the man to give it forceful, practical direction. Property-owners ought, in pure self-interest, to give this matter their earnest attention and not rest until the laws give rightful recognition and effect to municipal art.

COMMISSIONER WHITE in severing the ties that bound some seven or eight score political parasites to the public crib has rendered the taxpapers a double service. He has not only stopped a leak in the treasury through which over a hundred thousand dollars disappeared every year, but he has uncovered one of the methods by which the game of politics was made to pay its players without rendering them liable to punishment for grand larceny. Whenever it was necessary or desirable to placate one of the more insistent of the lesser boodlers, instead of directly abstracting the money from the treasury and giving it to him in a lump, as less expert politicians might do, they gave the machine a turn and put his name on the salary list. The plan required a small measure of self-sacrifice by the recipient of the favor—he had to go once a month to draw his salary—but he thus saved his friends the peril of the penetentiary that would have followed the other method. The plan is said to have originated in Troy and been taught by Boss Murphy. Which method of robbery the taxpayers prefer we have not yet learned.

Questions and Answers.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

I had a boy in my employ for about two weeks whom I sent to collect a bill. He returned and stated the bill should be signed and the party would pay. It was signed and sent back. He returned and said the party would call and settle it themselves, he having the receipt tore off. A few days after I called and found that he left the signed bill and had collected the same. Now, what I want to know is, can a boy or any one else be punished by law and how can it be done; will it be expensive to do it? He has done it to several other parties, and seems to make a living by it, which I think should be stopped.

Answer.—Certainly he can be punished, so make complaint before a police justice. It should cost you nothing but your time.—LAW EDITOR.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

In April, 1893, I bought a house and lot in which the store of said house was let to some parties since the 1st of March, 1892. No verbal or written agreement was made between the former landlord nor myself. On the 1st of February, instant, I handed the tenant a written notice to surrender the premises on the 1st of March next, which he would not recognize, and declaring at the same time that he would not remove before the 1st of May next. Please tell me now, what steps I have to take to get him out. N. V., 125 Graham avenue.

Answer.—Go retain a lawyer to dispossess him.—LAW EDITOR.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Kindly favor with an answer to the following: B bought a piece of property at an auction sale from A who had an insurance on the house against loss and damage by fire. On the same day B sells the property to C; about ten days after a fire occurred; about twelve days after the fire the deed was delivered and C became proper owner. The insurance company refuses to pay C the amount of damages caused by the fire. Can the insurance company be compelled to make payment to C? B. H.

Answer.—No. Not unless the insurance policy had been duly assigned to C, by and with the consent of the insurance company, in accordance with the terms of the policy.—LAW EDITOR.

WHAT IS A TENEMENT HOUSE?

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly submit to your law editor and publish through the columns of your paper a reply to the following query, which will undoubtedly interest many others besides myself, namely:

What is the legal effect of, and what construction have the Courts put upon the term "Tenement house," as used in the usual nuisance clause now so common in restricting property? In other words, are there any decisions of the Courts, and where may they be found, which will permit the use of a piece of property, restricted among other things against tenements, for the erection of an apartment house, flat or hotel? QUERY.

Answer.—The New York Building Law defines a tenement house as one where there are two or more families on any floor above the first. In Musgrave against Sherwood, 53 Howard's Practice Reports, page 311, the defendant tried to turn his two houses into "French flats" or apartment houses, and it was held to be a violation of a covenant not to erect a tenement house, "a building which is to be occupied by tenants, in name and in fact, is clearly within the true meaning and definition of a tenement house." It is a question whether a "hotel" would be a violation of such a covenant unless expressly named in it.—LAW EDITOR.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Answer in your paper, at your earliest convenience, if the law is still in force relative to recording of mortgages; that it is required of a mortgagee to file a notice once every twenty years that the mortgage is still in existence, and oblige A SUBSCRIBER.

Answer.—No. It was passed by the Legislature in 1890 and repealed in 1891.—LAW EDITOR.

THE RETORT COURTEOUS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

SIR—The officers of the South Brooklyn Co-operative Building and Loan Association in your last issue quote some statistics to show that your statement that the Daily News Association is the largest in the State was inaccurate.

Of course, the question of which is the fairest and best co-operative savings and loan association is more important than the question of which is the largest, but even on this last point the officers of the Daily News Association, without intending any disparagement of their South Brooklyn friends, still maintain that in point of volume of business, whether measured by the day, by the week, or by the month, the Daily News Association is at this time doing a larger business than any similar association in the State. Since January 1st its membership has increased by over two hundred and fifty, and its receipts have averaged over $1,000 a day. When it is a year older, the Daily News Association will be nearly as old as the South Brooklyn Association now is, and will then, at its present rate of growth, have probably 2,500 members.

C. O'C. HENNESSY, Secretary-Treasurer.

A Satisfactory Beginning.

John Seton, proprietor of the Brooklyn Skylight and Cornice Works, is one of the fortunate business men who has no complaint to make of the times. Up to recently he has had his time and plant well employed, and he reports that his business prospects for the present year exceed any previous year up to date. His contracts for work on buildings under way, and which will be ready for roofing by July, include cornices, skylights, metal, tile and slate roofing on the Constable Building, at 18th street and 5th avenue; St. Luke's Hospital, the Museum of Natural History, W. B. Ogden Building, 39th street and Madison avenue, besides other smaller jobs. These form a very satisfactory basis for the year's business, and it is therefore not surprising that Mr. Seton takes a cheerful view of the situation.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—The market does not vary to any pronounced extent, but occasionally there might be heard a slightly more cheerful expression. Whenever there has been a good working day builders were inclined to push forward the jobs in hand, and as some of them are about out of previously-engaged supplies they have made just a trifle more business since our last. A portion of the demand was met by stocks held for account of combination of manufacturers, a portion of it by "outside" lots of Hudson River make and Long Islands and a few Jerseys, with no quotable change in cost, although it was only the "limited" stock that brought top figures. There are some evidences of new work planning, but it will not be hurried, as operations can be held until mild weather approaches.

There appears to be no new developments regarding the attempt to organize a trust, and most of the trade in this locality do not think the movement can prove successful, no terms as yet suggested proving in any way satisfactory, and there is a great deal of doubt about ability to perfect an organization into which all makers could be attracted. There was a meeting of manufacturers at Haverstraw for consultation, and the discussion of plans by which on next season's make the output can be reduced and controlled, and probably at some later date matters will be perfected.

LATH.—Conditions have improved. Some stock came to hand, and with it there was a little increase in the inquiry, which gave sellers an advantage, especially for the best grades, as buyers happened to be a little fastidious. Still the feeling on the whole is apparently more hopeful, as the chances favor greater consumption, and many dealers are probably carrying scant stocks. There is the usual claim of moderate amounts afloat and few to ship. The highest figure we have heard of to present writing is $2.15 on St. John stock.

LIME.—Trade is reported as generally dull and unsatisfactory and the tameness noted last week is again noticeable. The "official" quotations on Eastern make are reported unchanged, but what the selling prices are it is somewhat difficult to determine. There seems to be no doubt that "outside" and "combination" goods have all sold lower and the possibility is mentioned of 85c. on common and 105c. on finishing, though these figures are merely mentioned casually and the position is really nominal. Most deals are probably of a special character.

LUMBER.—From the yards the distribution is irregular, but not gaining to any extent and most dealers appear inclined to grumble. The season is against trade and all the pretty stories to the contrary consumers are not yet in a courageous mood sufficient to induce them to operate with greater freedom. There are plenty of plausible arguments to show why both the manufacturing and building interests might lay their plans and propose for their execution with safety, but as yet there is no practical action of a satisfactory character. When it does come our prediction of weeks ago will surely be verified and the entire market at once feel the benefit of the improvement because of the small stocks in the hands of dealers with a few exceptions. Toward bulk lots of goods, however, there has of late been a fair amount of attention turned, the cheaper grades getting most demand and in addition to car lot trading some very good-sized engagements of boxing and shippers going upon record. That, to be sure, is only a development ordinarily expected just after the turn of the year and is in reality a little late, but encouraging so far as it goes, and may possibly be hailed as the precursor of more active operations. The dull portion of the market in a wholesale way is on the better qualities of all kinds of lumber, but of such there is no great quantity offering and agents generally adhere to a steady range of valuation. There is one noticeable feature in the attitude of most local buyers, very few of them are holding off because they calculate upon lower prices. Most staple goods are admitted to be cheap enough, but the preference is to let them remain in first hands and minimize the line of obligations until probable wants are better defined. It shows the complete prostration of speculative spirit and may be accepted as a healthy feature even though it be somewhat annoying to sellers.

White pine has remained much the same as last noted, more or less demand turning up for shippers, principally West India assortments, and the call for box maintaining comparatively fair volume, as the supply of many makers, small to commence with, is now running rather low, and must be renewed for ordinary trade requirements. There has also been some engagements made for later delivery, but at terms to be kept secret. There is much less figuring on special bills than usual at this season of the year, and even the effort to control output of favorite mills seems to be modified. In yellow pine there is something doing in specials all the while, but still on very nervous margins, as operators do not yet abandon the competitive attitude that throw so much advantage into the hands of buyers. In common with other grades, the local stock has small volume and assortment, and while no random would get much attention now, there are visions of better trade later in the season. Exporters still afford some employment to dealers in f. o. b. orders.

Carolina pine is not much in favor for immediate wants, but the seasonable booking of orders by box makers for spring delivery is proceeding with even greater freedom than hoped for, and a corresponding expression of satisfaction is heard among sellers. The big oil company is particularly spoken of becoming a better customer every season, and affording an excellent outlet for low grade box. In accordance with the agreement entered into by our local dealers and those at primal points the price of Carolina pine at New York will in future be $3 per M. above the Norfolk price list.

Eastern Spruce will remain nominal until the market can be tested by a fair assortment of random. Some specials are tendered for estimate but as a rule under such restrictions that operators hesitate about sending them on. There has, however, been a real good demand for 13-foot State spruce and at firm rates, showing say 21@22c. for No. 1, 16c. for No. 2, 15c. for No. 2½, and 14c. for No. 3. Hemlock still lacks local demand, but there continues to be some very good trading with dealers up the State, who seem to have run stocks low and find replenishing a necessity.

Poplar is reported to have been placed on contract with some freedom at the Eastward of late, principally for miscellaneous manufacturing purposes, but locally the trade rarely extends beyond car lot deals. The price is doubtful, but apparently somewhere around $32@33 for inch, and where a higher figure is made it can generally be traced to some special selection. Hardwoods in general are dull and unworthy of special comment at the moment beyond recording a nominal condition of values. A moderate accumulation and assortment, however, seems to insure a good demand the moment consumers afford any encouragement.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

It is evident that the demand is rising, and will continue to rise, on the side of consumption, and that this will first be felt by those who handle stocks from the wholesale and retail yards. When the volume of such distribution shall become large enough to have cleared out stocks on hand in the yards sufficiently to make it necessary for the dealers to buy more, then the bulk stockholders will begin to see that there is a market. The present tendency of the trade, as distinct from the mills, is to keep out of the market for new supplies until dealers have sold their present holdings low down. They are apparently satisfied that prices will not be higher until the year shall have been well advanced, and, besides, there is not yet sufficient motive in demand to induce the purchase of more stock. For this reason there is extreme quietude at the leading mill points, where there are heavy stocks on hand. Inquiry thus far has been slight, though this week there has been some sign of reviving interest on the part of wholesale dealers.

The shipping trade was checked by the snowstorm and cold wave of last week, and has not fully recovered from that effect. It was natural also that the demand should slacken off as the month drew to a close. Now that February is here, we may look for another influx of country orders. The traveling salesmen will be out, many already having gone on the road, and they will stir up some demand. February is the month when the spring trade proper takes a start. Within a few days it will be known whether there is to be a fair demand or only a sluggish, small order business simply sufficient to meet the most pressing requirement.

At Chicago the question of prices is interesting dealers to more than the ordinary degree. The trade here is menaced by a considerable supply at northern mills for which there has been small demand during the winter. Northern accumulations must be worked off, and as soon as the spring trade shall manifest any life there will be a scramble to secure orders. It is reported that one Menominee concern, which has a heavy stock to be disposed of through the car load trade, has lately sent out a rather low priced list, and it is feared that others will follow. This, it is apprehended, may make some of the dealers here, who have large stocks, anxious to unload before the opening of navigation; for it is surmised by some that the cargo market will open at low prices and will continue weak thenceforward, and that such lumber as is carried beyond May will be sold at a loss. But it is yet early to get into any such state of mind. There is likely to be a fair country demand and a good local trade. A combination of the two will absorb lumber in the yards so as to leave short stocks by May 1. It must be observed that little lumber has been received during the winter—less than during a corresponding period for years. Reduction has been continuous, as broken assortments and the good inter-yard trade of January prove. While it is the wiser course to sell freely with the market, there is no reason why there should be a panic in prices or any serious cutting below present figures. It is the time for Chicago dealers to steady the market, for Wisconsin and upper Michigan men will not cut under prices here more than is positively necessary, especially since they are obliged to pay higher freight rates than a year ago. The local demand will take care of so much of the lumber now on hand that the residue can be worked off in the country at prevailing figures.

The poplar market is not particularly active, but handlers of this wood are at least doing their share of the business. Inquiries are coming in a little more freely than a month or two ago, but the woodworking industries of the country have not yet started up full force, and until they do the poplar trade will be quiet.

When demand does begin to develop there is bound to be an advance in prices, for stocks are not heavy now and the supply of logs available for this season's cut is limited.

CANADA.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Northwestern Lumberman writes:

During the past week upward of $500,000 worth of timber limits have changed hands here, the greater portion of which was realized from the sale of the limits owned by Perley & Pattee. J. C. Brown, of Ottawa, purchased 96 square miles on the Kippewa river, at $160 a mile; 47 miles on the Kippewa, at $450; Fraser & Bryson, 235 square miles on the Coulonge river, at $890; Bronsons & Weston, 104 square miles on Lake Temiscamingue, at $500; Mason & Sons, 100 miles on River Dumoine, at $100; Gillies Bros., 191 square miles on the Pettawawa, at $80; the Hakebury Lumber Company, 212 square miles on the Pettawawa, at $43; Hon. Peter White, 115 square miles on Black river, at $30; W. C. Edwards & Co., 37 square miles on the Bonnechere, at $500, and 200 square miles on the Black river, at $170. Lumbermen attending this sale stated that the prices realized were good, and attributed it to the impression that prevails that lumber is to be placed on the free list in the United States..

METALS.—COPPER—Ingot since last writing has shaded somewhat in cost without attracting much attention from buyers. Indeed, the former and volume of demand has appeared to indicate quite clearly that custom is in no hurry to anticipate the future, and has been pressing wants at the moment. Offerings, however, have been moderate, and producers seem to feel in humor to resist further modification in price. On the average range of valuation we quote at 9¾@9⅞c. for Lake and 9¼@9½c. for casting brands. Manufactured copper presents no unusual feature. There is fair demand from regular sources, possibly a little fuller than at the commencement of the month, without, however, indicating any desire among buyers to venture upon free or general investment.

Production promptly balances the requirements of the market. We quote as follows: Sheet, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 22c.; do. 14 to 16 oz., 23c.; po. 12 to 14 oz., 24o.; do. 10 to 12 oz., 25c.; do. 8 to 10 oz., 28c.; do. under 8 oz., 30c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@14 oz., 2c. for 10@12 oz. and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets not above 36x96 in., 16 oz. and over 22c.; do 14 to 16 oz., 24c.; do. 12 to 14 oz., 26c.; do. 10 to 12 oz., 30c.; do. 8 to 10 oz., 33c. Sheets longer than 96 inches 22c. for over 32 oz. and add 1c. for 16 to 32 oz.; 1c. 14 to 16 oz.; 1c. 12 to 14 oz.; 1c. for 10 to 12 oz., and 2c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz., 22c.; do, 16 to 32 oz., 24c.; do, 14 to 16 oz., 26c.; do, 12 to 14 oz., 28c.; do, 10 to 12 oz., 32c. Sheets wider than 48x 96 and longer, 22@27c. for 32 to 64 oz.; 25@28c. for 16 to 32 oz.; 27@29c. for 14 to 16 oz. and 29@ 34c. for 12 to 14 oz. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 16 oz., 26c.; 14 oz., 26c.; 12 oz., 27c., and 10 oz. and lighter, 29@32c. Bolt copper, 3/8 inch diameter and over, 22c. Circles, segments and pattern sheets, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 4c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 5c. do. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1@ 2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottoms, 26@32c. per lb. IRON—American pig has not for some time been offered in active competition owing in part to the low rates ruling, but the cost as yet fails to attract a substantial run of trading. Buyers assert that their consuming wants increase very slowly and until they find greater encouragement must refuse to handle a fuller run of supplies. There is a sufficient quantity of foundry and mill grades for all wants. We quote at $13.00@14.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $12.50 @13.00 for No. 2 X do., and $11.00@12.50 for Gray Forge. Old material is offered low, but that does not seem to have any influence as a stimulus to trade and dealings run along in small odd lots as the requirements of regular custom may happen to arise. We quote at $12.00@ 13.50 for old iron rails; $10.00@11.50 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $10.00@11.50 for cast scrap; $10.50@12.00 for old car wheels, and $6.50@10.00 for borings, stove plate, etc. Manufactured iron is slow for all kinds and there is still complaint over the backward character of the demand for architectural assortments and bridge building specialties. Prices are somewhat uncertain, but generally favor buyers. We quote Beams up to 15-inch, 1.75@2c.; 20-inch, 2.10@2.25c. for round lots; Angles, 1.75@1.90c.; Universal Mill Plates, 1.70@1.90c.; Tees, 2@2.15c.; Channels, 1.80@2c. on dock. Steel plates are 1.65@1.90c. for Tank; 1.90@2.10c. for Shell; 2@2.15c. for Flange, and 2.50@2.80c. for Fire Box, on dock; Refined Bars are 1.60@1.90c. on dock, and Common, 1.45@ 1.60c. Steel rails of standard section remain steady, because of association control, but lighter weights are irregular, and for no description does the demand assume satisfactory form. Manufacturers are very ready to meet any increase of orders. We quote standard sections $24@25 per ton at mill, with usual advances for delivery at tide water. Pig lead not very active, but seems to get a trifle more attention, and holders are inclined to show a steadier front with offerings carefully made. We quote at 3.35@3½c. per lb. The manufactures of lead are quoted at 5¾c. for Pipe, 6½c. for Sheet, 15c. for Tin-lined Pipe, and 37½c. for Block Tin Pipe. Pig Tin is not very firm in consequence of some disappointment regarding consumption, and a certain amount of fear regarding tariff legislation. Offerings, however, are not seriously pressed for sale. We quote at about 19.85 @19⅞c. for round lots, and 20@20¼c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plate has been offered to quite the extent of natural outlet and occasionally a little in excess, with result to be found in easy rates, although sellers do not shade freely. Actual consumption is below the average for season. We quote as follows: I. C. Charcoal, Melyn grade, $6.35@6.37½; Charcoal, Melyn grade crosses, $7.87½; I. C. Charcoal, Allaway grade, $5.50@5.55; Allaway grade crosses, $6.56; Charcoal terne, M. F. grade, 14x20, $7.25@ 7.30; M. F. grade, 20x28, $14.50@14.55; Worcester, 14x20, $5.70@5.75; Worcester, 20x28, $11.35@ 11.40; Dean grade, 14x20, $5.35@5.37½; Dean grade, 20x28, $10.50@10.60; D. R. D. grade, 14 x20, $5.15@5.20; D. R. D. grade, 20x28, $9.90 @10.00; I. C. Coke, Penlan grade, $——@——; J. B. grade, 14x20, $5.30@5.35; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $5.45@—— basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares $5.55@5.60 basis. Spelter is generally held with firmness, but does not show much business, beyond the natural line of trade orders. We quote $3.65@3¾c. for Common Western, according to brand.

NAILS.—Reports continue in hopeful strain and the market is considered steady and indeed somewhat firmer for both wire and cut nails. Manufacturers are undertaking to control the output with somewhat greater success than heretofore, and buyers seem to appreciate the unusually low cost to a sufficient extent to stock up with rather more freedom than were common at the close of last year. Now and then some export orders are booked. We quote Cut at $1.00@1.10 per keg for car lots and $1.25@1.25 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c. per keg for steel; Wire, $1.00@1.15 for car lots, and $1.25@1.35 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—There is not much variation in the general character of the demand. Buyers are cautious and evidently determined to keep in view the propriety of abstaining from assuming obligations of an extensive character, and also show a manifest desire to confine selections to goods of a thoroughly staple character. There is, however, an evident increase of interest as spring approaches, and orders are expanding somewhat in size and number. As a rule prices may be called nominally steady, but on leads competition is still forcing a great deal of irregularity, and principally to the advantage of buyers, some of whom find enough attraction in the low rates offered, especially on "outside" brands, to indulge in a little investment against future wants. Corroders' quotations stands as follows: Lead in oil in kegs and dry lead in kegs in lots of less than 500 lbs., 6½c. net; in lots of 500 lbs. to 5 tons at one purchase, 6c.; 5 tons to 12 tons, one purchase, 5.94c.; 12 tons and over, one purchase, 5¾c. Lead in oil in 12½ lb. tin pails, add 1c.; in 25 and 50 lb. tin pails, add ½c.; and in 1 to 5 lb. tin cans, assorted (100 lbs. in case) add 2½c. per lb. to keg price. Terms on lots of 500 lbs. and over, note or acceptance at sixty days, or 2½ per cent discount will be allowed for cash paid within fifteen days of invoice date. To make either of the above required quantities any assortment of packages of white lead, red lead and litharge may be counted. The above quotations are free on board cars or boat at corroding point. Linseed Oil has very good sale at times and will then experience a temporary lapse into quietude, but on the average a fair volume of business is sustained. Prices remain about steady and particularly so on the best makes of stock. We quote at 45@48c. for Western, 50@51c. for City from domestic seed, and 62@63c. for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits Turpentine has gained a little in value and generally shows a firm market, but the demand does not appear to increase in volume and buyers refuse to invest beyond the limit of early natural wants. We quote at 31½@32½c. per gallon, according to quality, quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—There has been a trifle more demand from one or two sources, but nothing of a really active character or calculated to order the general tone of the market. Sellers retain sufficient control to sustain values, but hardly advantage enough to exact an advance. We quote Tar at $1.75@1.80 in pine or Wilmington bbls., $2.25@ 2.30 in pork bbls., and $3.25@3.30 in [oil bbls.; Pitch $1.50@1.70.

THE decision of the Burlington and Quincy directors to maintain dividends at the rate of five per cent per annum ought to help things a good deal. Given that they are acting conscientiously, and in the best interests of the property they represent, this ought to mean that they consider the promise for business to be better than it has been. Reports for last year show a loss of over two millions of dollars in gross earnings and less than four hundred thousand dollars in net, which is an evidence of the extent to which economies in operation have been carried. The announcement of the dividend caused shorts to cover and ran the price of stock up two and a quarter points, besides beneficially influencing the whole market. The liquidation that has been seen in so many directions recently, particularly in silver and in wheat ought to improve the situation because the low prices make a new basis on which business may be done, just as it is reported from the dry-goods regions that the low prices for certain well-known lines of goods are bringing buyers from all over the country. To return to the stock market, the good and bad features are mixed up. For instance it is hard to see how the situation is improved by the announcement made by three directors of the Security Corporation, whose bonds had to accept a first preferred stock in the new Cordage Company, that they intend to reorganize New England. Atchison securities are strong with reasons more or less absurd in circulation to account for the fact. Some shrewd people accept the movements of quotations in preference to what in Wall street goes by the name of news, and these people should find Atchison bond issues at any rate deserving of attention. Operators in Sugar are acting on the assumption that any duty on refined sugar in excess of that laid on raw will protect sugar manufacturing in this country. For this reason sugar advanced on a story that the Senate had decided to amend the Wilson Bill by making the duty on raw sugar 1 per cent and that on refined $1\frac{1}{8}$ per cent. The bounty paid on German sugar is equal to about a quarter of a cent a pound, and the difference between that and the eighth of 1 per cent extra duty on the refined sugar would be offset by our greater nearness to the market for raws, and the fact that the German beet sugar is not acceptable to consumers on this side of the Atlantic. From latest advices the manufacturing situation is less satisfactory than it was some weeks ago, from the fact that the demand for goods is so slow in coming, retailers still confining themselves to the supply of momentary needs only. Taken altogether the situation, financial and commercial, while it cannot be said to retrograde as a whole, is more supported by the hopes of merchants, manufacturers and financiers than by actual business, or any certainty of it in the immediate future.

THE statement of the English Chancellor of the Exchequer that the Indian mints would not be reopened to silver and no further attempt would be made to maintain a minimum for the rupee is only what might have been expected. The closing of the mints was a matter of necessity in view of the certain repeal of the Sherman law. Of the bad conditions that have followed it it is not possible to tell what are due to trade depression independent of the movements of silver, and until that can be approximately known it is impossible to apply a remedy. The reopening of the mints would surely do no good, because the value of the rupee declined continuously when the mints were open and when the United States was a large buyer of silver. The situation is a serious one for India, which will most certainly have to meet some part of the year's current expenses by further increase of her sterling debt, but this will be preferable to instituting attempts at reform at a time when the exact conditions of the case are not clearly discernible. A swap of the measles for the smallpox would be no gain. Indian finance and the prospect for a general election this summer coming are the two most important questions under discussion in England and neither is of a nature to boom business. It is questionable whether France is to be congratulated on the conversion of the $4\frac{1}{2}$ rente into $3\frac{1}{2}$; as a financial operation it was a distinct success, but as its object was to clear the ground for a new loan it is hard to see where the congratulations are to come in. The Government favors an increase of the import duty on wheat as a result of the fall in prices in foreign markets. Frenchmen must eat French bread whatever the cost. Whether this is as patriotic in the popular as in the political view is a question. Berlin seems to be trying to delude itself as to the value of its holdings of Italian rente, everything being done to maintain their prices in spite of the undeniable financial and banking crisis that exists south of the Alps. Such delusions have always to be paid for heavily sooner or later, and for that reason Berlin itself will be a source of suspicion, if not of anxiety, to other monetary centres. The condition of the iron business of the Empire continues to improve, but that is about the only favorable feature in the business outlook there reported this week. The visit of Prince Bismarck seems to have been without lasting influence on the situation. The liquidation of a number of financial houses is expected if the bill for reforming the bourse becomes a law, because it will largely cut away their business on the stock market, leaving only the banking business proper, which is monopolized by the great banks. Austria has accepted the reconciliation of Bismarck and the Emperor William to mean something good for itself at least, and as a consequence prices on the Vienna Bourse have advanced. It is, however, in the Hungarian part of the dual-Empire that the most commercial activity is displayed. It has been pointed out that the discounts in Hungary for 1893 were almost as large as those for Austria, although the latter has fifty per cent more population than the former, but it remains to be seen yet whether the smaller population has not to discount some part of its recent progress. We alluded last week to the withdrawal of accommodations from Vienna because of the extent of the building mania at Budapesth, and the effect of this withdrawal is yet to be seen. In Spain, notwithstanding commercial and financial depression, the collection of taxes for the last government year was $5,000,000 larger than in the previous year, due to the efforts of a minister who insisted on an honest collection. Hitherto the political "pull" has been worked in Spain for the evasion of taxation with great effect. That it has now become powerless in that respect is probably due to the need the government has for money, owing to the decline in custom duties and as a result of the conflict in Morocco. Out of the deep darkness of Russia comes again the cry of the peasant in distress. Taken altogether there is nothing in the European situation for the distressed American to envy, except the way that conceited theorists, who, in and out of parliaments, want to play with financial and currency laws, are kept in the background.

THE President's veto has not put a stop to the activity of the promoters of the New York and New Jersey Bridge scheme. The old bill has been amended in sundry important particulars, and considerable confidence is now felt that it will become a law. This confidence is perhaps not unwarranted, but it will certainly be doomed to disappointment if the just contentions of the New York real estate interests receive the slightest consideration in Washington. We have expressed an opinion in these columns more than once that, under present conditions, the bridging of the Hudson is a chimerical enterprise. It is impossible to demonstrate by any business calculation that the venture can be a profitable one, and we frankly believe that the desirability of the charter to the promoters interested in securing it lies not in its actual value but in its prospective value. We have no quarrel, however, with the enterprise upon its commercial side. If there are any bona fide capitalists willing to invest their money in bridging the Hudson for the accommodation of mythical traffic we are not concerned in urging them to desist. Our opposition springs entirely from the fact that in pursuing their schemes they are working positive, actual, dollar-and-cent injury to a number of New York property-holders. We do not think that this is just or that Congress ought to permit it. In the first place the location of the Bridge has been fixed at a point where it will produce the greatest waste and injury to property-owners. All but a very small part of the New York water front has been relinquished to commerce and put to commercial uses, so that the approaches of the structure of the Bridge, etc., could injure it only in a very slight degree, if at all. At 70th street, on the West Side, however, begins not only the choicest residential section in the city, but also (in the vicinity) one of the most beautiful and costly of New York parks. It is right here, where damage will be greatest, instead of elsewhere where one would expect it to be, that the terminal of this bridge has been placed. Not for financial reasons. Not to secure any special benefit or accommodation for the teeming crowds that are expected to make use of the Bridge; for plainly it would be to the advantage of the Bridge Company as well as of the Bridge's passengers to make the crossing of the river as near to the projected depot at 42d street as possible. No. The selection of this site rises wholly from the fact that the New Jersey charter of the Company, which we believe is an old one, requires that the Bridge shall be constructed north of the southerly line of Union Township in the County of Hudson. New York property-owners can hardly be asked to regard this as a good and sufficient reason why fine residential property should be needlessly destroyed. Congress should be deaf to such arguments. Already this scheme, problematic as it is, lacking even complete legislative sanction, is working to the injury of real estate. Property along the supposed line of the structure is being blacklisted by our financial institutions, and now owners find they can neither dispose of their property at a fair price, nor obtain the reasonable financial accommodations which under ordinary circumstances they could get, and which as a matter of fact in many cases they tacitly counted upon when purchasing the property. It cannot, of course, be expected that private interests are to rule above the paramount needs of the public, but in providing for the public it is surely the duty of Congress to see that no unnecessary damage is done to private property and that the individuals seeking for right to overrule private interests shall give, before they get their charter, the most indubitable proof that their scheme is not one of exploitation.

A City Architect.

A GOOD many people must have noted with satisfaction the bitter cry for a City Architect that was extracted from His Honor the Mayor by the complete and rather ridiculous collapse of the pet project, which was also the pet project of his predecessor, for a new City Hall. The Mayor had reason to complain of his architectural advisers. They had been so very careful to exclude favoritism from the competition that when the commission, acting on their advice, found it impossible to select a design as suitable for execution the commission found it impracticable to do anything whatever. And now the commission remains with a hundred and thirty odd designs on its hands which it has not even any way of disposing of since it has bound itself not to find out even to whom they belong, in advance of a decision which it cannot make.

It is no wonder that a Mayor confronted with such a condition should sigh for a municipal functionary to relieve him of a burden he is unable to bear. But, indeed, there are other reasons even more cogent than the desirableness of a workable programme for a competition, that might well make an intelligent and conscientious Chief Magistrate sigh for a city architect. As things are now, every department of the city government when it has any building to do, chooses an architect. By some curious perversity of fate it always chooses a bad one. The exceptions to the rule are so few that they are not worth counting. What municipal building, in fact, is there on the island of which any enlightened citizen can be proud, excepting the City Hall, a relic of the past which the present municipal government desires to demolish? There is the Jefferson Market Court House, which was built under the direction of a special commission which was somehow guided to the choice of an artistic architect, but which afterwards fell among the regular municipal architectural authorities, who first adjoined to it an incongruous market, and have lately defiled and insulted it by painting its brickwork. Then there is the addition to the Court House, which is very good in itself but which pours open contempt upon the building to which it is attached. Stay, there is the Fire Headquarters in East 67th street, which is a respectable and rather picturesque piece of free Romanesque, and there is an engine-house in Old Slip which is a picturesque reminiscence of the Dutch settlement and occupation of that part of the town. We cannot recall any other alleviating exceptions to the dreadful rule of municipal building. The Board of Education spends large [sums of money every year, and hitherto has spent them under the worst possible advice. Nothing could debauch the taste of the youth who are brought up in the public schools more than the aspect of the school-houses themselves. Of late there has been some improvement in the outsides of the school buildings, but the old stereotyped ground plan has been assumed for many years to be perfect, whereas it is in truth very imperfect, and provides for the special requirements of the buildings very clumsily and inadequately, so far as it provides for them at all. The police department has its headquarters, and as many station houses as there are precincts, and there is not one of its buildings that is not offensive to a person of any architectural perceptions. The fire department is another building department, or at least a department that occupies many buildings. These also, with the exceptions noted, are all bad. As to the special buildings which the municipality puts up from time to time, there is not an exception to the rule of architectural failures. The latest and most pretentious of these, the Criminal Courts, is one of the most atrocious, and has been protected from public execration only because it is situated where few persons but criminals and criminal lawyers ever have occasion to go.

Now all this might be changed by a single act. If a law were passed authorizing the appointment of a City Architect at a suitable salary, and a proper appointment were made under it, and all the departments were referred to this functionary when they had any building to do, what a surprising improvement would result in what a short time. Suppose that every one of the police courts were as well housed as that of Jefferson Market. Suppose that all the public school-houses instead of being planned and designed, as they appear to have been, by boss builders without architectural assistance, were henceforth to be planned and designed by an educated architect, whose office induced him to give special study to these requirements, and who was capable of an architectural expression of the arrangement at which he arrived. Suppose the same thing to happen to the building of the fire department and of the police department. The special building needed by each of these departments is an attractive problem to an architectural artist. Each one of them has been abandoned to men to whom the phrase an architectural problem has no meaning. Rescued from such hands and put in proper hands each one of them would result in the establishment of an architectural type, which would impose itself, subject, of course, to improvement, to the incomputable benefit of the city and its inhabitants. In such special exigences as that which has elicited the Mayor's bitter cry, the city architect, even if he were not intrusted ex-officio with the work—and nobody who is not fit so to be trusted is fit to be city architect—would at least be a trustworthy and a responsible professional adviser.

All this may be only a dream, but it is at any rate a pretty dream, and why should it be only a dream? The municipal architecture, instead of being ahead or even abreast of the private building of the city, is very far behind it. This fact is recognized by every educated man who walks the streets. Such men recognize and deplore the barbarous condition of the municipal architecture. It is merely a question of getting the educated opinion of the town to bear upon the State Legislature to have the office created and then upon the municipal authorities to have it properly filled. It is not that there is any corrupt interest or any political interest opposed to such a reform. It is only that the officials to whom the municipal architecture is intrusted neither know nor care anything about it. The apathy of the Mayor has now been dispelled and his co-operation in a movement to improve the municipal architecture is assured in advance. It remains only that a vigorous movement should be made.

IF an inquiry were made into the manufacture of "news," as carried on by the leading journals of the present day, it would reveal a greater amount of "queerness and crookedness" than would be disclosed by an investigation into the manufacture of any other adulterated article with which the public is supplied. This, of course, is particularly true of news with a political bias. A very good example of the truth of the foregoing is furnished by an editorial paragraph which appeared in the Evening Post, last Monday. In quite a jubilant spirit, the writer declares that the Jefferson Mills, one of the largest of the Amoskeag Corporations mills, will soon be running overtime to keep up with the press of orders, and that the same state of affairs prevails at the Manchester Print Works, where the operators are already working extra hours. These, we are told, are indications of the revival of industry which has followed the passage of the Wilson Bill through the House. We cannot say what effect the passage of the Wilson Bill through the House has had upon general business; but we are officially informed that the stories of these particular mills running overtime is absolutely incorrect. Since starting up, after closing last year, the mills have been in operation only forty hours a week, which, of course, is very far from full time, and even under these short hours stock has been piling up. Forty hours a week is still the rule in all but one department of the works, and this exception, we understand, is a small department employing only a very few hands. The Evening Post, of course, did not originate the false story, but after the manner of "journalism" readily seized and printed it as it apparently fortified its attitude upon the tariff question.

THE FINANCIAL REVIEW FOR 1894.

Wm. B. Dana & Co., the publishers of the Commercial and Financial Chronicle, have just issued the edition of their well-known "red-book" for the current year. Its contents will make it as valuable a book of reference as its predecessors have been to the banker, merchant, investor and writer. While all the familiar features of this work are apparent in the '94 edition the facts and figures have been brought up to date and enlarged to meet the wants of the day.

The Boston Convention.

THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF BUILDERS IN THEIR EIGHTH ANNUAL CONVENTION.

BOSTON, MASS., Feb. 15.—Notwithstanding the prevalence of a severe snowstorm, the worst of the season, all the railroads leading into Boston began Monday evening and continued till to-day to bring from all directions the delegates to the Eighth Annual Convention of the National Association of Builders. Tuesday, the first day, brought only half the crowd that has since assembled, many who started in time having been detained by late trains, in consequence of the storm.

The convention is being held in Cotillion Hall, which is handsomely decorated for the occasion. The New York delegation is less in numbers than those of either Philadelphia, Chicago, Baltimore, Buffalo or Detroit, and the fact has been the subject of comment not altogether complimentary to the Metropolis. Many faces familiar to preceding conventions are seen, among them President Ira G. Hersey; Secretary Wm. H. Sayward, of this city; John S. Stevens, Wm. Harkness and Stacy Reeves, of Philadelphia; John W. Herrick, George W. Carter, Charles C. Calkins and Charles W. Adams, from Buffalo; George Tapper, Charles W. Gindele, E. D. Scribner, Frank J. Johnson and J. G. McCarthy, of Chicago; Theo. F. King, E. Hall Howell, C. N. Merritt and Isaac Filbert, of Baltimore; John Whittaker, George H. Clipper, James Meathe and M. H. Godfrey, of Detroit; Anthony Ittner and Chas. B. McCormack, St. Louis; Chas. W. Brown and L. G. Gillette, Minneapolis; Geo. J. Grant, St. Paul; A. J. Vierling, Omaha; and from New York, Isaac A. Hopper, Stephen M. Wright, Robert T. Brown and Oscar T. Mackey. Altogether the first day found 119 delegates and alternates present.

President E. Noyes Whitcombe, of the Boston association, delivered an introductory address, and Secretary Sayward introduced Mayor Matthews, who made an interesting address of welcome. The day's business concluded with the appointment of a committee on credentials.

The delegates were late in assembling for the second day's session, which was largely devoted to eulogies of the noted dead, the dark angel having been very active among the members of the Association during the year. Col. Richard T. Auchmuty, of New York, of Trade School fame, was also the subject of memorial resolutions. The reading of reports from the filial organizations in the Association consumed the greater part of the session. That of the New York Association, read by Mr. Wright, received the closest attention. As it contains much that is of local interest to New York, its main features are given herewith;

"Our membership, so far as numbers are concerned, remains the same from year to year, owing to the fact of it being based upon the plan of assessable certificates which are held against the individual until transferred, and whenever so transferred all claims of the Exchange against the certificate must be liquidated prior to the consummation of membership of the new holder. We feel a pride in saying that throughout the various trades represented in our membership are employed a greater number of able-bodied men than in any other branch of business in the City, and by reason of their employment more homes are made comfortable than by any other single agency.

Regarding the question of wages paid and hours of labor, they are substantially as follows:

Masons, 8 hours, 50 cts. per hour; double rates for Sunday, holidays and overtime.

Carpenters, 8 hours, $3.50 per day; double rates for Sunday, holidays and overtime.

Plumbers, 8 hours, $3.75 per day; double rates for Sunday, holidays and overtime.

Plasterers, 8 hours, $4 per day; double rates for Sunday and overtime; no work allowed on holidays.

Painters, 8 hours, $3.50 per day; double rates for Sunday, holidays and overtime.

Decorators and Frescoers, 8 hours, and from $4 to $6 per day, according to their artistic ability; double rates for Sunday, holidays and overtime.

Roofers, 8 hours, $3.50 per day for outside and $3 for inside; double rates for Sunday, holidays and overtime.

Iron Work, 9 hours, $3.50 per day; double rates for Sunday, holidays and overtime.

Cabinet Work, 9 hours, $3.00 per day; double rates for Sunday, holidays and overtime.

Tile, Grates and Mantels, 8 hours, $4.00 per day; double rates for Sunday, holidays and overtime.

Stair Builders, 8 hours, $3.50 per day; double rates for Sunday, holidays and overtime.

Bluestone Cutters, 8 hours, $4.00 per day; double rates for Sunday, holidays and overtime.

Granite Cutters, 8 hours, $4.00 per day; and double rated for Sunday, holidays and overtime.

Freestone Cutters, 8 hours, $4.50 per day; no Sunday, holiday or overtime work allowed.

Marble Workers, 8 hours, $4.00 per day; double rates for Sunday, holidays and overtime.

Electricians, 9 hours, $3.00 per day; 1½ times rate for Sunday, holidays and overtime.

Sash and Blinds, 9 hours, $3.25 per day; double rates for Sunday, holidays and overtime.

Steamheaters, 8 hours, $3.50 and $4.00 per day; double rates for Sunday, holidays and overtime.

Lathers, 8 hours, $4.00 per day, double rates for Sunday, holidays and overtime.

When laborers are required in any of the above trades, they are paid from $2.25 to $2.75, according to the skill required, for the same number of hours work as the journeyman, while common unskilled laborers are readily obtained for $1.50 per day, of 8 hours work.

No serious strikes or lockouts have occurred within the past year, with the exception of the contest of the Operative Plasterers with the Employing Association, over the allowance of a half holiday on Saturdays.

It is the opinion of most conservative builders that there will be an unusual lack of activity in the building trades for some time to come, as most of the important jobs now under way are rapidly nearing completion, and there is comparatively little new work contemplated, as is best evidenced by the little work now in progress in the architects' offices as well as the large number of competent draughtsmen seeking employment.

The effect of the stringency in the financial centres has been more severely felt by the class known as Speculative Builders (not in any way identified with the exchange), who, failing to secure the necessary loans to carry on their structures, have been compelled to succumb and thus embarrassing some of our best known dealers in building materials, but the regular Contracting Builders have experienced very much less trouble, their difficulty mainly being for a time to secure the currency requisite to pay their workmen.

Manual instruction in which the National Association takes so deep an interest may be said to be thoroughly established in this city where that noble benefactor, Col. Auchmuty, founded the Trades' School. No apprehension need exist as to its successful continuance, for year by year it is becoming more prosperous and the need more manifest, and although its illustrious founder has passed to his reward, he generously and thoroughly provided for its perpetuation under the management of an efficient Board of Trustees, ably assisted by competent committees from several Employers' Associations. To-day 575 bright American boys are availing themselves of the opportunity of acquiring the knowledge of a trade and thus, in the future, becoming skilled mechanics. But some well-directed effort should be made by the Employers' Associations to encourage young men in attending the school, and then abrogate the existing agreements whereby it is made difficult for a trades school graduate to find employment.

The scheme for an Exchange building for New York is still agitating the minds of those in the trade, and while it does not really emanate from this organization the movement commanded the support and sympathy of many of its prominent and influential members. When it became apparent that the conditions under which this body was created precluded the ownership of a piece of property of the magnitude contemplated, and it was therefore compelled to cease all further consideration of the question; the movement was taken up by the Building Trades' Club, and after very careful and exhaustive consideration of the matter, it decided to go forward with the project and under the guidance of an able committee empowered by the club a prospectus of the plan proposed was issued (a copy is now in the hands of your Secretary), the actual canvassing for subscriptions did not commence until October, and notwithstanding all the discouragement of the severe depression in business, coupled with the extraordinary financial stringency, they have already reached the satisfactory sum of $100,000; having turned this point it is confidentially believed that our expectations will be realized, for we cannot disguise the fact that there are so many who wait to see if success is to attend the project before they are willing to join with it; but when such seem assured they can be relied upon, and upon this we greatly base our future anticipations and hope that those who may attend the succeeding Convention will be able to report the project well advanced.

The statistics of the buildings projected for the year are rather confusing and deceptive, in that they show the aggregate to be $55,162,953, as against $59,107,618 reported to you last year, whereas the building really done has been very much less. The reason for this is found in the fact that the plans for the Episcopal Cathedral, the St. Luke's Hospital, and numerous other large buildings, were all filed within 1893. Yet the expenditure for the cathedral, it is expected, will extend over twenty years, and the hospital, and some of the other buildings, over at least another year or two, so that it is hardly fair to include them entirely within the figures for this year. And again, this year perhaps more than usual, particularly towards its close, many buildings contemplated and their plans filed, and so included in the record, have not been commenced, or even the contracts for them awarded. A comparative examination of the condition of the buildings proposed in the month of December, for the past three years, more explicitly reveals the severe depression.

In 1891,	244	buildings	were	projected	costing $5,037,285.
" 1892,	170	"	"	"	" 2,886,632.
" 1893,	109	"	"	"	" 1,427,050.

It seems almost impossible to obtain any reliable information as to the exact number of unemployed workmen, but from the most conservative, yet reliable, sources, it appears that less than one-half of the workmen connected with the important branches of the building trades are to-day employed. It is very obvious that should this stagnation in the building line much longer continue it will naturally result in the unsettling of the present established rates of wages, for with so many competent workmen seeking employment the temptation to accept a lower rate, if offered as an inducement, will naturally influence some needy ones desirous of an engagement, and while one high in authority in the Labor Union has proclaimed publicly that the lowering of wages will only come as the result of a fight, he dare not say that it will not come. Already it is currently reported that workmen coming from territory outside the jurisdiction of the Trades Union of the city are being employed at less than union rates.

The question of arbitration is more and more forcing itself to the front as the only true method of settlement of controversies between the employers and workmen, and in some cases the principle is successfully established, but there is a suspension at present of the Arbitration Board in connection with the Plasterers as well as the Bluestone Cutters—in the first instant owing to the issue already referred to in the report, and in the latter in consequence of a disagreement among the workmen themselves, resulting in the establishment of two Unions of nearly equal number. Nevertheless, the good effect of the agitation of the question is thoroughly manifested in the increasing acknowledgment by the employers of the right of the workmen, when reasonably and equitably expressed, and also in the faithful manner in which the employers endeavor to carry out their agreements with their workmen."

The form of arbitration issued by the National Association a few months ago has been forwarded to each Employers' Association with a letter from this Exchange requesting that it receive the careful consideration the importance of the question entitled it to, and while none have yet fully adopted the method proposed, such attention is being given to it by the several associations as to lead to the expectation that the desired end will eventually be accomplished.

The large number of persons engaged in each of the several leading branches of the building trades in this city, enables such to have their own organization, composed exclusively of those engaged in a particular trade. These bodies naturally supercede, to a great extent, the function of an exchange, as they are so much better qualified to legislate for their particular branch and are enabled to more comprehensively treat with the workingmen's union. We have excellently well-organized associations as follows:

The Mason Builders' Association, Master Carpenters' Association, Painters' and Decorators' Association, Association of Master Plumbers, Employing Plasterers' Association, Electrical Contractors' Association, Association of the Manufacturers of Cabinet Work, Master Stair Builders' Association, Bluestone Dealers' Association, Granite Manufacturers' Association, Master Freestone Association, Marble Industry Employers' Association, Slate and Metal Roofers' Association, Society of Architectural Iron Worker, Iron League; The Tile, Grate and Mantel Association; Master Steam and Hot Water Fitters' Association, Association of Dealers in Building Materials.

Most of these are represented by delegates in a sort of Congress, known as the United Building Trades, having for its special object the direction of the resistance to any extended strike, but, happily, it has not been called into use throughout the past year.

It is universally conceded that much of the success and stability of the above assaciations is due to the facilities offered by the Building Trades' Club, in whose thoroughly equipped club-house is found every convenience for the meetings of such associations, and where the entire surroundings are in full accord, and at the same time it affords to those attending the meetings, whether members of the club or not, the advantage of socially associating with those of the other allied trades; yet, notwithstanding the growing disposition among employers to unite in the organization for mutual encouragement and protection, we still have among us the larger number disposed to cavil at any attempt at unification, mainly from their inability to comprehend the result of concentrated effort unless fully expressed by dollars and cents, while these self-same individuals, when attacked by strikes or other antagonistic elements are the first, like the hounded deer, "to run to cover" and cry aloud for help and add their reproach at its not immediate forthcoming.

Our Exchange finds itself year by year better recognized as one of the influential commercial bodies of the city and is now frequently invited to co-operate in movements of public importance or civic pride. For three years past it has been an affiliate of the State Board of Trade."

Among the many resolutions offered and sent to the Committee on Resolutions which will report on them to-morrow, are the following of more than transient interest:

For biennial instead of annual conventions.

For an addition to the code of practice of the clause, "Where an entire contract has been let to one contractor, all dealings by the owner or his agent the architect with the sub-contractors should be conducted through the general contractor."

For the opening of bids at a special time and in the presence of all bidders.

For each member having for his only business address the exchange room, to compel attendance there.

For the possession of a home of its own by every exchange.

For the holding of all regular and special meetings during the change hour, so that members may be forced into the habit of attending them.

For the establishment of a permanent board of arbitration between architects and builders.

For the abolishment of all lien law.

For the establishment of organizations among the separate trades to settle their own disputes.

For the use of a uniform form of proposal for furnishing material and performing labor.

The convention adjourned at 4.30 to reconvene at 10 o'clock on Friday. To-day will be devoted to sight-seeing. The following is the programme for Friday:

Morning session—Roll call; discussion of the uniform contract, with the purpose of securing suggestions as to possible improvement of the form, it being understood that the only action which can be taken by the association is to recommend the delegates to the "joint committee on uniform contract" to urge the adoption of changes, which after discussion may be approved by the convention.

Afternoon session—Report of the committee on resolutions and action on same; report of committee on time and place of next convention, and nomination of officers; election of officers; naming and election of directors for 1894; unfinished business; miscellaneous; adjournment.

Legislation at Albany.

ALBANY, Feb. 15.—The Greater New York bill was amended the past week in a somewhat amusing manner. The Brooklyn Senators and Assemblymen wish to have New York City take upon her shoulders some of Brooklyn's tax burdens. They therefore amended the Greater New York bill in the Senate Committee on General Laws so that it now reads as follows upon one point:

"The ballots cast in the County of Kings shall be deemed and taken as an expression of the voter in favor of or against consolidation of said county with the City of New York under an equal and uniform rate of taxation."

The bill to create a "non-partisan" Board of Police in New York City has been put upon the shelf for two months; and it is now doubtful if any bill upon the subject will be passed this year. The bill provided for two Republicans and two Democrats, but there was divided sentiment among the Republicans upon the matter, and therefore, as stated, the bill has been shelved pending the investigation of the Police Department. The Republican Senators now have turned their attention especially to improving the election system. They have adopted a ballot bill providing for a blanket ballot and abolishing the blanket paster. Moreover they have a bill completed dividing the election inspectors equally between the two great political parties of the State.

The Assembly Committee on Cities reported favorably the past week Mr. Sheffield's bill placing the license of pawnbrokers at $250 instead of $500.

The Assembly and the Senate passed Elbridge T. Gerry's bill giving the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children $30,000 annually of New York's money.

The Assembly and the Senate passed Mr. Lawson's bill providing for the completion of Riverside Park, in New York. Since it was passed Mr. Lawson has been informed that there are some errors in it which may require its return from the Governor.

The Assembly also passed Mr. Lawson's bill giving the Park Department care of the trees upon West End avenue.

Senator Cantor has introduced a bill providing for the payment of damages arising from the change of grade of railway tracks in the 23d and 24th Wards of New York City.

The Senate has passed Senator Guy's bill for the completion of the Cathedral Parkway; the same bill, introduced by Mr. Lawson, was passed in the Assembly.

The Senate has passed Assemblyman Lawson's bill prohibiting the erection of slaughter-houses near the parks of New York.

Senator O'Donnell has introduced a bill providing a Board of Scientific Directors for the Botanical Gardens in New York City.

The Senate has passed Senator Ahearn's bill providing for summary proceedings in getting sites for police stations.

Senator Robertson has introduced a bill authorizing the completion of the Museum of Natural History, New York City.

Obituary.

CAPTAIN BENJAMIN P. FAIRCHILD.

In the death of Captain Benjamin P. Fairchild, head of the firm of Fairchild & Yoran, on Sunday last, the real estate fraternity lost its oldest and one of its most popular and respected representatives. Notwithstanding his great age he was active and attentive to business until about three weeks before his death, when he contracted a severe cold which prostrated him and from which heart failure, and, at the last, partial paralysis of his left side, developed. His remarkable vitality kept death at bay during thirty hours of coma. He died about 3 o'clock in the morning, at his home, No. 128 West 85th street, in his declining hours attended by the members of his family.

Captain Fairchild was born Sept. 2, 1814, at Broome and Varick streets, and in all of his long life ensuing never lived ouf of New York City, except for a few weeks last summer, which he passed at his new summer home on Long Island. Like many another successful business man he was his own schoolmaster, and if his culture showed most prominently in practical affairs it was because his life was cast in an environment that was above all things practical. His first recollection was of going to work in a grocery at 42d street and 9th avenue, after spending some years at which he started in the auction and real estate business. As early as 1855 he was Sheriff's auctioneer and continued so to be until well in the '60's.

From his earliest beginnings in business he conceived a favorable opinion of New York City realty and of the destined growth and development of the city. His first venture as a young operator is said to have been the entering into a contract to purchase the southwest corner of 42d street and 8th avenue at $900, from which he allowed himself to be dissuaded however by some of his timorous friends. Recently, as a director of the Franklin Savings Bank, he endeavored to buy the same property at $225,000 but without success. Captain Fairchild was known previous to the great panic of 1873 as one of the largest owners of real estate in the city, but the terrible shrinkages of that memorable year in the history of realty left him in common with many another operator whose confidence in the speculative market of the period was too expansive, bereft of his fortune.

But Captain Fairchild was a born trader and it was not long before he was again on his feet and in the midst of the conflict. He was a stimulant in every market and did not by any means confine his attention to real estate. A familiar figure in all the auction markets, if he saw an article going at what he considered less than its value, be it a steam engine or a case of calicoes, he would bid on it—and at his price, buy it, too. His fame as an operator was made, however, in the real estate market, and his activity was such that for a time the followers of the auction market refused to bid against him, believing that it was less expensive to buy from him at an advance than to bid against him. This sometimes prevented them from getting the property they wanted, for he was often in such cases the commissioned agent for other persons.

He was for over half a century a member of the Columbian Order, or Society of Tammany, and a member of the Committee on Organization of Tammany Hall at the time of his death. He was a prominent member in the Baptist Church, a large contributor to its support and a member of the Baptist Social Union. His funeral, which took place on Wednesday, from the Riverside Baptist Church, at Amsterdam avenue and 92d street, was attended by a host of personal and business friends. The interment was in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery, at Tarrytown.

GEORGE W. DA CUNHA, JR.

George W. da Cunha, Jr., died at his home on Church street, Montclair, N. J., on February 1st, after a comparatively brief illness. His death was primarily due to the grip, which speedily developed into pneumonia. Mr. da Cunha was an architect by profession, having studied in the office of his father, and subsequently opened an office at Montclair. Although a young man, scarcely thirty years of age, he had already made his mark. Some of the handsomest residences in Montclair and elsewhere bear witness to his skill and proficiency. He was a member of the American Institute of Architects. The interment was in Greenwood.

The Lady of Venice.

The production on Monday night of the "Lady of Venice," at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, deserves commendatory mention, if only because of the cleanliness of the play, the exquisite beauty of the scenery and its correctness for the period, the 15th Century, in Venice and Genoa, where the action takes place, the splendor and choice of color of the costumes and the original music and dancing introduced. Miss Katrine Clemmons, the "Lady of Venice," is tall and beautiful, a natural blonde, with a soft musical voice, most effective in all the quiet scenes. In the combat with the Prince of Florence, when she takes the place of her husband (the Prince of Genoa), the applause on her entrance in the scene was spontaneous throughout the crowded house. There was a fascinating dignity, charm and strength in her bearing. Miss Clemmons has an international reputation as a swordswoman. While the play was a disappointment, and Miss Clemmons was not always satisfactory in the stronger situations, the performance, as a whole, was delightful and noteworthy.

INTERESTING SUGGESTIONS FOR THE IMPROVEMENT OF PROPERTY ON WASHINGTON HEIGHTS.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

I notice in your paper of February 10th, that the Legislature is laying out a great deal of work in the upper part of the island, but for some reason or another a certain portion of the city is neglected, and the march of improvement appears to have stopped at 125th street. The section of the city between 125th street and 152d street, west of the Boulevard, needs some scheme of improvement for the purpose of enabling property-owners to make use of the land in their possession. The grades of the streets running westerly from the Boulevard almost prohibit buildings being put upon them. And further, the position that is being taken by the Hudson River Railroad in blocking up the streets and not allowing any access to property on the westerly side of the railroad, puts the whole section to a great disadvantage. Would it not be well if an arrangement could be made between the City, the Hudson River Railroad and the property-owners, by which a retaining wall could be built on the easterly side of the railroad track rising to a mean level, thereby supporting the bank and allow the property-owners to get the full benefit of the land they own, also allow them where necessary to fill in to that wall. An exterior street might be laid out on the top of this wall, making a terrace with the houses facing the river, the street not to be over 60 feet wide, as it would only need a sidewalk on the easterly side. Then open up an avenue parallel with the Boulevard and dividing up the block as between the Boulevard and the present Hudson River track. The question for the grades could then be easily arranged and property-owners could front their houses on either the street or the parallel avenue as they might see fit. This avenue could only go to the Trinity Cemetery or 153d street, as it might not be possible to go through the cemetery. The retaining wall on the Hudson River Railroad would have to be put up by the city at large, as the expense would be entirely too much for the property-owners, but it would only seem to be equitable that the property-owners should be allowed to make the fullest use they could of their land, as in the present position of affairs there is from fifty to one hundred feet of each man's property which is absolutely lost, as he cannot utilize it for building purposes. Admitting that this improvement could be carried out, there then should be an arrangement made by which bridges should be built across the railroad track, allowing access to property lying on the west of the railroad company's line. CLAIRMONT.

LAND TRANSFER REFORM FOR THE SURROGATE'S OFFICE.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

The adoption of new indices and the shortening of the forms of conveyances and mortgages have done much to lighten the labors of the conveyancer, but there is still much to be done. The Surrogate's offices should furnish indices of the names of all persons named in wills, in petitions for granting letters testamentary and of administration. The conveyancer unearthing a title in the Register's office works backward to a point where all signs fail, and an examination of the "grantee" index to the earliest record discloses nothing. He then gropes blindly through the indices of the Surrogate's office without any clue of a positive character to assist him. The owner of the property at the point where the chain of title breaks and whose name may be John Rogers may have received same by devise from or through the intestacy of Alexander Higgenbotham. If Rogers the grantor on the Register's index appeared also on the Surrogate's index as a devisee in someone's will, or as named in a petition, much valuable time would be saved to the hard-worked conveyancer, who would be put at once on the right track and his fretful soul soothed as with balm. JAMES F. DOYLE.

Mr. Doyle is a lawyer of large experience in real estate matters, and doubtless speaks from experience. This is a matter well worth the serious attention of the Legislature. The extension of this index system as indicated ought to be compulsory.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly answer the following question in next week's RECORD AND GUIDE: "In case a house is let to a party for one year, no lease and nothing said about longer time, at end of year, if party remains, how does broker base his commission? Can he charge 5 per cent for renting and collecting second year?" A SUBSCRIBER.

Answer.—He is not entitled to commissions for the second year's rent unless obtained through new negotiations by him.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

(1) As an old subscriber I would like to ask if a person residing in Canada and holding mortgage on leasehold property in this city, can be taxed for same as personal property? (2) If taxable, how can city collect? (3) Is personal property taxable here if the owner lives in Westchester County? PROPERTY.

Answer.—(1) No. (3) No.

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

Inclement weather and a disposition on the part of business in general to hang fire have made this a rather dull week, where a moderate amount of business was expected. The general tone of the market continues to be firm and buoyant, however, with confidence in the perfect stability of present prices slowly increasing. This is shown in the more liberal feelings of the loaning institutions, an example of which is mentioned in the case of an application rejected in June last and frequently since then, until this week, when an institution that refused it during the panic sent an agent to notify the owner that it would now be accepted at 5 per cent. We hear, furthermore, from authentic sources of large transactions consummated where for sufficient reasons the fact cannot yet be announced. As certain as that business will sometime revive in this country is the fact that investments at present prices (under the advice of competent brokers) in New York City real estate will return handsome profits in time.

The following are the comparative tables for New York Conveyances, Mortgages and Projected Buildings for the corresponding weeks of 1893 and 1894:

THE UP-TOWN MOVEMENT AND BROADWAY LEASES.

Something of a panic has been created among storekeepers and other business men whose leases are about to expire for premises on Broadway, above 32d street, by recent developments in property there, and particularly by the notices they have received from the landlords of the rents they will be required to pay henceforth, which are nothing short of double what they have been paying hitherto. This movement on the part of the property-owners is said to have found its incentive in the fact that the proprietors of the World have recently leased the whole of the basement of the Union Dime Savings Bank building over the heads of the present tenants, mostly insurance companies, who have had branch offices here, at an increased rental said to be $12,000 a year, or about twice what was received from the same premises before, though that is probably higher than the real figure. Officials of the Union Dime Savings Bank declined to confirm this report to an extent further than that the basement of their building had been leased at a substantial advance. It is, however, a fact that their new tenants are the proprietors of the World, who will convert the premises into a handsome up-town office for their paper. Following on this the Thomas M. Lawrence estate, which owns the block on west side Broadway between 33d and 34th streets, has notified its tenants that their rents will be doubled for the year from May 1st next. Naturally such a wholesale increase came as a great surprise, and has caused not a little indignation in the minds of the tenants, coming, as one put it, "at the very worst time it possibly could from a business standpoint." There is some justice in this complaint on the part of the tenants, and it does seem unreasonable to raise rents in this way at a time of extreme business depression. At the same time it must be taken into account that the business movement is pressing on the property in that section, and values must increase there. Already there are improvements contemplated to increase the office and store space on the same sites, that are only kept back by the condition of the times. The best that the tenants can hope is that the rents demanded are intended to induce ready compliance with terms easier, though above those hitherto received, and that the outcome will be some concessions on both sides, and while the tenants will pay more it will not be anything like what is asked, except should another case such as that of the World arise wherein the amount of rent is not the largest consideration.

THE JERSEY CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY'S UP-TOWN LEASE.

The recording of the Central, of New Jersey, Railroad Company's lease for the block bounded by 10th and 11th avenues and 15th and 16th streets, with wharfage rights, etc., for twenty-one years, at a rental of $40,000 for the first year and rising to $55,000 per annum, revives the story of the improvements intended to be made by the railroad company on the North River at that point. Up to the present time the company has not announced its intentions, though it is naturally inferred from the facts that it at present has no up-town ferry slip and that a large market exists near to this property, that it leased a year ago, that it will make improvements to extend its business and has probably been deterred from commencing them before by the condition of the times.

$500 and $1,000 FOUR PER CENT GUARANTEED MORTGAGE CERTIFICATES.

The mortgage certificates issued by the Title Guarantee and Trust Co. in conjunction with the Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Co. are a long step forward in realty dealings. As explained on page iii, certificates for $500 and $1,000 bearing 4 per cent interest are issued and are a definite part of a definite mortgage on well-located property, which the investor may examine before putting out his money. As the mortgages are selected by the Title Guarantee and Trust Co., who have loaned nearly sixty million dollars on real estate security in the last four years and principal and interest guaranteed by the Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Co., with a capital and surplus of $1,170,043, the loans are sure to be conservative and safe, and the certificates have the additional and important advantage of being easily negotiable. It might be added that the Prussian Mortgage Insurance Co. of Berlin have been doing a business of this kind for thirty years.

Cotton Prices and Statistics.

There has been a good deal of bullish talk on cotton, based on estimates of this season's crop and of the demand. The latest contributor to the statistics and conjecture on this subject is a Mr. Anton Hvistendahl, of London, whose views have been received with considerable favor on this side of the Atlantic. This gentleman argues that in 1890-91 and 1891-92 the production of American cotton was far in excess of the world's needs and the cotton trade was in a very depressed condition. Now, Lancashire spinners and manufacturers are doing a profitable business, while the American cotton crop promises to be below the world's requirements. Moreover, the business depression, which has been prevalent everywhere for three years, is passing away; consequently the prices that were perhaps fortified by the circumstances of the past three years have no longer any reason for existence, and the cotton trade will have to prepare for much higher prices than those now ruling. The result here predicted would be a very gratifying one to attain, seeing how much of our welfare depends on obtaining prices encouraging to the growers of our staple products. We cannot expect to have prosperity so long as the growers of wheat and cotton, for example, continue to receive so little for the product of their labors, and any assurance that they will do so cannot be anything but gratifying. But in the instance of cotton, the prediction is based upon statistics of crop and consumption from which general deductions are drawn. It is not necessary to point how delusive such calculations have been of recent years. They somehow fail to cover the whole supply, though pretty accurate in the matter of consumption, so that stocks continue to come forward in large quantities when, had the original estimates been correct, the market ought to have been denuded of supplies, and consequently the expected advance in price does not materialize. Nor do prices rise and fall with the increase or decrease in the supply in the way that is generally supposed. Take, for instance, Mr. Hvistendahl's figures of consumption and crop for the years 1886-87 to 1892-93 inclusive given below, to which we have added the surplus or deficiency for each of those years, the average price in New York and an estimate of the consumption and crop for the current season based upon returns for previous years:

	Consumption Bales.	Crop Bales.	Surplus Bales.	Deficiency Bales.	Av'ge Price.
1886-87.....	6,700,000	6,505,000	....	195,000	10.25
1887-88.....	6,900,000	7,018.000	118,000	....	10.27
1888-89.....	7,100,000	6,936,000	....	164,000	10.71
1889-90.....	7,300,000	7,311,000	11,000	....	11.53
1890-91.....	7,500,000	8,653,000	1,153,000	....	9.03
1891-92.....	7,700,000	9,035,000	1,335,000	....	7.64
1892-93.....	7,900,000	6,700,000	....	1,200,000	8.24
Totals.....	51,100,000	52,158,000	2,617,000	1,559,000	....
Net surplus....	....	....	1,058,000	....	....
1893-94*.....	8,100,000	7,588,838	....	511,162	†7.15
Net surplus....	....	....	546,838	....	....

*Estimated †Feb. 9, 1894.

Cotton is coming from the plantations faster than it did in the same time last year. The amount received since September 1, 1893, to a recent day was 5,329.103 bales against 4,468,457 bales in the same time 1892-93, and 6,279,957 in the great crop year 1891-92. Thus the receipts up to date, though 950,814 less than in the last mentioned year, are 860,646 more than last year. Estimating that the receipts will be proportioned as to time the same as they were in other years, that is, 40 per cent of the amount delivered before January 1st being received after that date, there will be a crop this year of 7,588,838, or only 511,162 bales less than the estimated requirements which, considering the depression, are too high, and leaving a net surplus for eight years of 546,838 bales, instead of leaving no surplus at all and a promise of a deficiency in 1894-95. The continued growth in consumption of American cotton, coupled with a lessened supply, if we get the lessened supply, ought in the long run to affect prices favorably. At the rate of increase given in the above table, 200,000 bales a year in four years, the requirements will be equal to the largest recorded crop. But even this cannot be accepted unqualifiedly as certain to raise prices. Low prices will restrict cultivation, but they have no bearing on the produce per acre, and a good or a bad year will upset the calculations of the best statistician.

News of the Building Trades.

STANDING IN THEIR OWN LIGHT.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., February 10, 1894.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

At a time when, owing to the financial depression there is little or no building, the inclosed shows how mechanics stand in their own interest by advocating increased wages, deterring people from building who contemplated same, and resulting in the employment of non-residents who work cheaper. J. JOHNSON.

The inclosure is an appeal by a workingman, a painter, to the employing painters of Englewood to pay the $3 per day schedule.

One of the right sort of men to consult in building, reconstructing and repairing operations where an intimate knowledge, and long experience, in mason and carpenter work, plastering, joining and cabinet work are desirable qualities, is Mr. J. Glasbrenner, whose shops are at No. 401 East 19th street. Mr. Glasbrenner is equipped for all kinds of work requiring immediate attention and quick execution, and can furnish estimates, fit up stores and offices, make alterations and execute all kinds of jobbing work on short notice.

A NEW BUILDING, NEW MACHINERY AND NEW EQUIPMENT.

Thomas Dimond has moved into his new building at No. 128 West 33d street, and with new machinery in every department is better equipped now than ever before for the execution of all kinds of structural, architectural and ornamental iron work. Mr. Dimond has been in the business twenty-five years, having succeeded his father. Since last August when he left the old concern, his business has grown to large proportions. Most men in business, if they are men of approved character and ability, obtain much of their business advancement through their associations. It is not a matter for great surprise, in this view of the matter, therefore, that Mr. Dimond's business advancement should be rapid, for he is a trustee of the Broadway Savings Bank, a Director of the Mutual Bank, the Treasurer of the Iron League, Vice-President of the Architectural Ironworkers' Association, a Trustee of the Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange, a Trustee of the Colonial Club, one of the Advisory Committee of the American Lloyds, Captain of the 8th Company, 7th Regiment Veterans; a member of the Manhattan Club and the American Yacht Club, New York Riding Club, 7th Regiment Veteran Club and of various other associations. He has been actively and directly engaged in the business a quarter of a century and there is no section of the city which does not contain examples of his business and industrial skill.

MORTGAGES.

The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be record. d.

Wherever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, FEBRUARY 17, 1894.

The Grip of the Ring on the Sheriff's Office.

ONE of the accidents of politics in Kings County is Sheriff Buttling. Brought out of the obscurity to which he may have been an ornament by the wave of electoral reform which swept over Brooklyn in November, and hoisted into a prominence as unexpected and surprising to himself as it was to the political machine that placed him in nomination, he was given an opportunity to make for himself an enviable reputation and to win the approbation of the people who exalted him, in the belief that he would prove at least the lesser of two evils. But he has at his first public opportunity shown a disposition to ally himself with the individuals against whom the reform movement was specifically directed. He was the official custodian of John Y. McKane in his recent trial, and as such was twice publicly rebuked by the presiding judge for the favoritism shown to that arch-conspirator against the integrity of the ballot.

But the direction in which he has shown most signally his enmity against the substantial interests of this city, is in his alliance with the McLaughlin ring in the matter of the public sales of real estate. The united expression of the real estate interests of Brooklyn outside of the ringsters has been in favor of the concentration of all the legal sales of real estate at some one central point, and that to be the Real Estate Exchange. Under the manipulations of the ring these sales have been held in the Court House rotunda, in the Willoughby street Auction Room, and in various other places, as best suited their purposes.

The effect of this has been to absolutely destroy whatever interest the investment public might have taken in such auction offerings, and to leave the unfortunate and crippled defendant to his own unaided resources for the rescue of some portion of his equity from the rapacious hand of the law. The intent of justice, that the property of the defendant should not be sacrificed, but that it should be offered in the most public market obtainable, and after widespread publication, has by these methods been defeated. For all practical purposes the sales might just as well have been made on the high seas, for it is notorious that they have nearly always resulted in the knocking down of the property to the plaintiff, sometimes with big deficiency judgment ensuing against the defendant.

The effect of this has been disastrous to realty values throughout the city. When the quotations of the auction market show one price for a piece of property that is far below its real value, it is difficult to convince a buyer that the next adjoining parcel, identical in its intrinsic value, is worth 50 per cent more in the general market. Especially in periods of financial depression are practices of the kind noted fraught with widespread menace and real danger to property interests. They, more than any other agencies are calculated to create alarm and diminish confidence in existing values. It is the policy of wisdom to do all that is possible to foster and maintain a strong central defensive body in the real estate market, that can always be relied upon to come to the rescue when a property is threatened with sacrifice—not for philanthropic reasons, but to support and maintain the standard of values for self-defense, for the public interest and for the best interests of the municipality as such. To this end, the representative brokers, owners and operators in Brooklyn have endeavored to secure the concentration of such sales at the Real Estate Exchange, as the most central and appropriate and conspicuous place, and where the interests of the defendant debtor would be most sure to receive the protection intended by the law.

In this endeavor, after the recent election, a committee of the brokers gave Mr. Sheriff Buttling the formal honor of a visit, at which they placed the matter before him, and he gave them assurance that he would direct the sales to be held at the Exchange. But he has proven false to his promise. A few sales, it is true, were sent there, but, like his predecessor, he has distributed his favors wherever the old ring desired him to. It is said in his defense that he is in a measure in the power of the ring and would sacrifice an income of something like $30,000 a year if he should do as he promised the Exchange committee; that this income is derived from the feeding of prisoners in the Raymond street jail; that it is optional in most cases with the police justices whether they commit prisoners to the jail or to the penitentiary; that the justices are the creatures of the old ring and under their orders, and that if Buttling should cut off the auction room pap from the ring, the ring would retaliate by ordering the justices to cut off the supply of prisoners to the jail. The answer to this is conclusive. It is that if Buttling was a man of principle and moral stamina he would do his duty conscienciously, regardless of the consequences, and that if he had shown an earnest disposition to stand with the elements who gave him his present lease of power, the ring could never have succeeded in carrying out its threat.

Buttling's venality has made it of the most importance, however, that the bill now pending in the Senate, requiring the holding of all legal sales at the Exchange, should be pushed to unfailing enactment. The officers of the Exchange feel confident that it will pass. It is short in its terms and we therefore give it in full:

SEC. 1. All sales of real estate, hereafter made in the county of Kings, under the decree or judgment of any court of record, unless otherwise especially directed in such decree or judgment, shall take place at the real estate exchange auction room, located at numbers one hundred and eighty-nine and one hundred and ninety-one Montague street, in the city of Brooklyn, in said county.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect thirty days after its passage.

The brokers of Williamsburgh and the Eastern District have expressed a desire that the bill be amended so as to authorize the holding of sales in that section in the local auction room, and as the two communities are so separate and distinct in their real estate relations, the officers of the Exchange are disposed to consent to it. We think that will be a mistake, but it is of minor importance to the main question. Every person interested in the welfare of Brooklyn should lend his influence to the enactment of this law. After that the sinecures attaching to the Sheriff's office ought to also receive legislative curtailment—as a measure of retributive justice as well as for public economy. It is preposterous to assume that men like Buttling and Courtney are worth $30,000 a year in any position. The salary of the office is ample compensation; all the fees should be turned into the public treasury.

THE STEAM ENGINE NUISANCE IN ATLANTIC AVENUE.

A citizens' movement has been organized to secure the removal of steam motive power from the Long Island railroad in Atlantic avenue. At a well-attended meeting recently held in Conservatory Hall, at Bedford avenue and Fulton street, an organization was effected embracing such men as Eugene G. Blackford (who was chosen president), Edwin H. Compton, T. S. Barnes, C. W. Seaman, Isaac Howland, Charles S. Whitney, George H. Cook, Charles Cooper, Edward H. Hobbs, James O. Carpenter, N. T. Hayes, John A. Quintard and Thomas Monyhan. The efforts of the association will be directed toward securing the passage of the bill introduced by Senator Reynolds, which repeals the law, chapter 187 of the laws of 1876, which authorized the use of steam on Atlantic avenue east of Flatbush avenue. The Long Island Railroad Company has a charter for an elevated road through Atlantic avenue, and the property-owners want it to make use of its charter without further delay, or depress its tracks and adopt the electric system of traction. Either one would do away with the standing menace to the property of the present steam surface railroad.

WALLABOUT MARKET IMPROVEMENTS.

A conference of city officials, with Mayor Schieren at the head, was held on Tuesday over the Wallabout lands purchase from the Federal government and the condition and improvement of the market. Without fixing any date it was informally agreed that the city would accept the lands at the purchase price stipulated, $1,200,000, and would make a first payment on them of 25 per cent within about three months. The matter of the leasing of the stands was given cursory attention, and it appearing that there was a remarkable lack of system in it, and that they were the subject of a peculiar speculation, the Mayor appointed a committee of citizens, composed of Andrew D. Baird, Henry Batterman, Eugene G. Blackford and Henry

A. Powell to inquire into the subject and report to him a plan for the improvement of the system.

Builders—Brooklyn.

G. W. Walgrove, of New York, is the architect for four four-story English basement houses to be built for Joseph Fahys on the southeast corner of Clinton and De Kalb avenue. Two of them will be 18.6 and two 19 feet wide and all will be 48 feet deep, with 17-foot dining-room and 10-foot butler's pantry extensions on each house. The fronts are to be of Lake Superior stone in the first story and of mottled brick with stone trim above. They are to have galvanized iron cornices and tin roofs. The trim throughout will be of hardwood, the parlors part in white and gold and part in birdseye maple, the halls and dining rooms in quartered oak and the upper floors in sycamore and birch. Furnace heating, exposed sanitary plumbing, marble-tiled and wainscoted baths and built-in kitchen ranges will be the prominent features of the furnishings. The plans show an entrance, but two or three steps above the yard level, then a reception room, a foyer hall and back of that the parlor, with light from a rear court, then back of that the 17-foot dining-room extension and back of that the butler's pantry extension. The houses will set 25 feet back from the street, and will have one and two-story bays projecting from the upper stories. They are estimated to cost $40,000.

The Building Material Exhibit.

Before making their contracts for material of any kind, whether constructive or finishing, architects, builders and individuals who propose beginning new work this spring or remodeling old should visit the Building Material Exhibit conducted by THE RECORD AND GUIDE at Nos. 276 to 282 Washington street, Brooklyn, and examine the extensive variety of goods there displayed. Visitors will find much to instruct and interest them, particularly in several new exhibits that have lately been put in position. One of these, in the furnace and range department, is the celebrated Kelsey corrugated hot air furnace, for which the medal was awarded at Chicago. This heater, manufactured at Syracuse, is constructed upon peculiarly original and distinctive principles, successfully solving the problem of securing a maximum of heating power at a minimum use of coal. Another highly important feature, and one that is bound to secure wide recognition because of its obvious excellence, is the fact that distant rooms may be equally as well heated as those near by. In Section "T" a very beautiful exhibit of floor mosaic, known as "Manhattan Mosaic Marble," is made by the National Mosaic and Marble Co., of West 42d street, New York. This material, which is produced in all colors, with highly decorative effects, is used not only as a floor tile, but also for wainscoting, columns, in staircase work, building blocks, copings, and in a variety of other ways. It is well adapted for all of these purposes, as it is of a hard, vitrified character, well able to withstand all ordinary wear to which it may be subjected, at the same time retaining its high surface polish and lustre. It is well worth a careful inspection. The very moderate price at which it may be had will doubtless secure for it a wide use.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—It has been a bad week for consumption of stock in consequence of the stormy weather, and the wholesale market was pretty dull throughout. Just after our last some few sales were made, mostly of odd lots of washed brick and other cheap grades to custom not requiring the highest quality, but so far as learned down to the present writing the held lots of choice goods have not been disturbed. They are held firmly at the old limit. There is a symptom that a portion of custom wants a little high grade stock as shown by inquiries regarding the chances for obtaining supplies from Long Island, but we learn of no fresh arrivals from that locality, or any other for that matter. Just by way of jarting with the alleged scheme to form a "Trust" it may be said that the matter has probably become relegated to the list of incidents the trade occasionally encounters and after dissecting their merits allow them to drift into the memories of the past. It is pretty generally understood that many, if not the majority, of the large manufacturers have positively refused to go into any movement for organization of a Trust, and that settles it, we assume. There will, however, be organization for purpose of controlling the out-put during coming season, or attempting to do so at least.

GLASS.—The condition of affairs on the market for window glass does not improve. A certain amount of regular trade is secured from time to time as the necessities of dependent custom arise, but buyers are all very careful about investments, and the movement of stock is greatly below the average for season. Limited consumption will account for a great deal of the dull trade, but fears of the tariff reduction and competition from foreign grades is the principal factor. Foreign glass is slow now, but importers can get a supply here pretty quick if it is wanted. For plate glass the tone is quiet, although from one or two localities some fair special orders came to hand. During the week it was reported from Pittsburgh that charges had been made against officers of the Window Glass Workers' Association for failure to keep proper record of and account for funds placed in their keeping by the association.

LATH.—No further changes of importance this week. Arrivals amounted to practically nothing, which is probably just as well, as with the past weather demand proved slow and indifferent. The tone is called quite as firm as heretofore, with $2.15 quoted, although that figure appears to be quite extreme and it has yet to be seen whether it will stand on a full cargo deal. It is generally understood that the offering of round wood stock will be very late this season, and few of them at that. Conditions have not been favorable for making round wood stock.

LIME.—Confirmation of the weakness in tone noted for some time past is now open for record in the quotations given for Eastern at 85c for Common and $1 for finishing, including both the combination and the independent products. Moderate arrivals have taken place, and a slow sale is reported at the modification in cost. Fair, seasonable orders are obtained for the State product, on which the wholesale rates are 80c. for Common and $1.10 for Lump, the latter finding special attention.

LUMBER.—Changes in general character of business since last report have been few and unimportant, and the new developments hardly of a character to inspire any remarkable addition to confidence. The assignment last week of a couple of the large speculative builders has been followed by wagging tongues in reference to the probable standing of other operators in similar line of business, and realizes the fears that were entertained by any one who has carefully watched the current of events. Furthermore, there are floating stories of disappointment attending the efforts to entangle the affairs of dealers who became embarrassed some time ago, and quiet efforts to sell the paper of other concerns at prices that seem suspiciously low. All these features form a quiet undercurrent, not so much of alarm as of continued caution, which is keeping business upon a positively perfunctory basis, and there has been no addition to negotiation or actual trading of late that was not the result of pressing necessity of the moment, or the engagement of certain staple cuts, for which an outlet had practically become secured before the purchase was made. It is to be expected also that trading will gradually increase as the progress of the season brings natural addition to wants, and no one seems to have the least idea that lower prices are to be expected, many buyers even admitting the probability of an advance the moment demand gathers any force, but still they feel unwilling to invest until they can do so under an impression of more positive promises regarding general consumption. There are, of course, exceptions to the rule, but rarely among a class of custom considered particularly desirable.

Eastern Spruce generally furnishes a pretty good index of the conditions and promises of the building trade and accepting the basis affairs remain dull. It is quite likely that a little random stock of attractive specification could be placed and made to command full former rates without difficulty, but even with the moderate accumulation held at so many yards receivers would not care to be burdened with the task of attempting to place any important quantity at the moment. Of special bills the tender is small for the season, unusually so, even allowing for the current feeling of caution, and would-be buyers continue to place a limit for their bids to which manufacturers are not yet prepared to submit. State spruce has very good demand and agents say they are placing 13-foot stuff about as fast as parcels can be made up for sale. Hemlock is steady and the business very good with the outside line of trade.

Yellow Pine arrives to a moderate extent on orders and some additional specials are placed from time to time, besides more or less business with exporters for shipment from Southern ports, but business is neither full or satisfactory and prices continue to be adjusted to the deals immediately in hand. Carolina Pine remains steady and finds attention from custom willing to contract against fixtures in the way of consuming wants, but fails to reach seasonable animation.

White Pine is steady enough in price because there is no important offering of the finer qualities, for which little demand prevails, and an outlet quite equal to the supply of coarser grades. Indeed a little more box could probably be placed if promptly available and at full figures. It is, however, with this as well as with all other kinds of stuff buyers are only investing for their clearly-defined needs and many of them do not fail to keep in mind that good supplies remain at primal points and are likely to come along as soon as the market becomes really needy, should such an event materialize. The chances for export are still fairly promising.

Hardwoods generally remain in a dull condition and neither manufacturers of furniture, trim, or miscellaneous products, or dealers seem to feel at all interested. Now and then they afford a little custom where an extra tempting offer is made, but in a majority of cases prefer to stand off. Valuations generally remain nominal, but the turn is in buyers' favor. Poplar as a rule sells below list rates, nearly every deal having its own special price.

The recent coming together of operators in Carolina Pine, in order to associate for mutual benefit in maintaining prices, adds one more to the local lumber trade organizations, and we hear of another "association" likely to form for purpose of protecting interests in a line of goods now handled on the go-as-you-please plan. All these combinations or associations, it is assumed, are justified by the difficulties they are formed to combat, but we still hold to the notion that they should not be floating about in an independent manner. The wholesalers, the retailers and the parties to the arguments regarding the handling and pricing of various grades of lumber ought to come together in one general body as a lumber exchange where, in addition to advantages now held, benefits of a much broader character would seem to be assured and the position of the entire trade strengthened and dignified. Separately the associations are really weak because of the narrowness of the scope, but bound together in honorable combination, like the fasces of old, the lumber trade of this city should stand as an emblem of power and strength in its representative capacity, second to no other commercial body. Who will move first to create a general exchange organization?

Eastern spruce continues to go into pulp with some freedom, and, in addition to home market, the export trade is becoming an important factor. We learn that, during the present week, the Norwegian steamer Skuld, cleared for Fleetwood, England, with 1,518 tons of wood pulp, valued at $15,000. This is the first full cargo of wood pulp ever shipped by steamer from Portland.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

In the bulk stock market of the white pine field there is as yet little stir. The jobbers are more interested in working off stocks on hand than in securing fresh supplies. A few Eastern buyers have lately been at Marquette on their way along the Lake Superior shore, but their mission is probably preliminary to the season's campaign more than for present buying. They are simply on a scouting expedition prior to a general movement. Dealers who in person or by letter have lately investigated at the lake mill points have found that holders of lumber are quite firm in their views about stocks which have been carried over from last year. Asking prices are as yet higher than wholesale yard dealers or cargo jobbers can meet with any proposition to purchase, especially in case the lumber is to be diverted to western points of distribution. This, up to the present time in the season, amounts to a deadlock in negotiations. But it can be said that jobbers have, as yet, manifested little interest in lumber at the mills, so that it is of small concern that sellers and buyers are wide apart in their views about prices. The cargo condition must wait for the development of the spring trade.

The Ottowa correspondent of the Lumberman also furnishes the following interesting statement:

There is no industry in Canada that is more deeply interested in the Wilson tariff bill, or that will be more heavily affected by the removal of duty than the lumber trade. The total value of the exports of the forest from Canada in 1892, the last year for which the returns are available, was $22,281,744, of which $11,472,306 went to the United States. Taking the exports of forest products according to their classification for 1892, one gets a fair idea as to how far the free list schedule, as proposed by the Wilson bill, will affect this trade. In the trade and navigation returns for that year, the exports from Canada to the United States are given as follows: Basswood, butternut and hickory, 2,067,000 feet; elm logs, 31,000,570 feet; oak, 1,153,000 feet; pine logs, 72,963,000 feet; spruce logs, 23,434,000 feet; elm, 34,116,000 feet; all other logs, 12,063,000 feet; spruce deal, 1,143,000 standard; lath, palings and pickets, 246,061,000 feet; planks and boards, 612,954,000 feet; joists and scantling, 8,839,000 feet; staves and headings, 84,905,000 feet; masts and spars, 9,343,000 pieces; shingles, 276,674,000; sleepers and railroad ties, 1,467,356 pieces; stave bolts, 33,292 cords; box shooks, 412,071; square timber, elm, 65 tons; white pine, 162 tons; all other square timber, 931 tons. Products in which value but not quantity are given: Lumber, n. e. s., $241,211; cedar, tamarac and other posts, $175,722; shooks, $30,531; blocks for wood pulp, $183,312, and other articles exported to the United States under forest products, $148,451. It is hardly a matter of wonder, therefore, that the lumbermen on this side of the line should be jubilant over the prospect of having access to the American markets for the products of their mills, free of duty. In fact, already the prospect of free lumber has had an appreciable effect upon the prices at which timber limits are now held, and although the matter is yet an uncertainty, the stiffening up of prices by those who have timber limits to dispose of is quite noticeable.

Custom returns for the five months ending November 30 show an increase of $100,000 in the value of lumber shipments from Canada, during that period, as compared with the corresponding period of last year.

There is a strong feeling now being worked up by those who will not be directly benefited by the admission of Canadian lumber free of duty in the United States, against the unrestricted export of logs from Canada across the border. While there is a good deal of sentiment in the matter, the fact cannot be denied that the opinion is taking deep root on this side of the line that with the increased shipments of sawed lumber across the border which will result from the removal of duties in the

AN interesting question is raised in accounting for the world-wide business depression through which we are now passing, and that is how far the peace that has existed throughout Europe for nearly twenty years has contributed in bringing it about. War is a great destroyer; not only does it draw away hundreds of thousands, and in later times millions of able-bodied men from the industrial populations, whose loss is felt for many years, but it consumes so much of the product of times of peace; towns and cities are sacked with a resulting sum of destruction to buildings, plants, machinery, crops and stores, enormous in its proportions. The replacement of these necessaries so destroyed must have a tendency to keep up prices, just as the world, when at peace, is sure to produce more than it can consume and the surplus must be sold for what it will bring, thus inevitably lowering prices. Offsetting this of course is the loss of consumers from death and disease engendered by war, but that cannot equal the loss of supplies, and consequently war is a great factor in maintaining prices. No one is inhuman enough to advocate war as a cure for business depression, but in a scientific examination of the causes of that depression it ought not to be lost sight of. Coming to the matter of the condition of business itself at this moment, it cannot be said that the week has produced much if any improvement. On the Stock Exchange commission business is as near to dead as it can be, and in railroad securities is likely to continue so until there are prospects for better earnings. The continued report of decrease after decrease is too depressing to permit of a rise in prices. Any one who buys railroad stocks now must do so with the expectation of seeing unfavorable earnings probably until the summer. Comparisons are now and will for some months to come be made with the period of active business which preceded the opening of the World's Fair; when June arrives will begin a comparison with the bad times that still continue. In the dry-goods trade buyers continue to hold off, and while the week is equal to that proceeding it, it makes no showing as compared with the same time a year ago. And so it is in most other lines. In iron and steel there is a sign of a little improvement encouraged perhaps by the low price of ores.

BUSINESS men in Great Britain find promise of better trade in the returns of imports and exports for last month, both of which increased somewhat. The condition of the silver market and the prospect of a general election in the near future limit improvement to a moderate recovery from great depression. The Bank of England has responded to the demand for extended discounts by notifying bill-brokers that instead of discounting 15-day bills only it will take 30-day bills at its published rate. The new French $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent rente have become very popular, gaining in one week the recently paid coupon. It is needless to say that money is plentiful and cheap at Paris, as it is at all great money centres. No decision has been come to as to the amount of the duty to be put upon imported wheat. The difference between the prices at which wheat can be imported and grown in France estimated at 66 per cent on the price of the grown wheat is the extreme suggested. Russia, however, has informally entered a protest against a heavy import duty on wheat and in view of the peculiarly complicated political relations of the European powers, this is likely to have some weight in, at least, moderating the duty. While attempts are being made to protect the home wheat grower, crop reports are very favorable. The agrarian opposition in Germany to the treaty with Russia bids fair to fail under the more prevalent idea that the treaty will stimulate manufactures and trade generally, besides bringing the relations of the two countries on to a more amicable footing. The reduction in Russian import duties on coal, manufactured iron and steel, machinery, etc., under the treaty are considerable and are calculated to more than offset any injury done to the agricultural interest. In matters of this kind the probable total benefit is looked at more than the loss in any one item. It is anticipated, too, that the putting in force of the treaty will result in Berlin again becoming the centre for Russian financial operations in which considerable profit would come to the banks there. But the Reichstag has to pass upon the treaty yet and meantime money is idle and cheap and trade dull. Vienna has seen a reaction in prices. The Austro-Hungarian Bank's shareholders have ratified the plan stated here some time ago for putting into circulation the new gold coinage of the Empire. Both the capital of the Empire and that of the Kingdom are regarded suspiciously from other points in view of the fact that they have not liquidated while all others have. Attempts have been made to break Austrian and Hungarian securities in other markets, but so far without success; but this does not lessen the suspicion with which they are regarded. The clearing of the European political sky gives some encouragement to Italian financiers as it makes a wholesale reduction in military expenditures more probable than has hitherto seemed possible. The relief thus gained would help the work of putting the finances of the country on a more stable basis than they now are, though it would not solve the whole problem. The tax-gatherer in Spain is becoming as obnoxious as he recently was in Sicily and Southern Italy. As yet this dislike has been confined to demonstrations only, but the fact that the government is holding troops in readiness to quell any disturbance shows how heavily the people are burdened and how just their complaints are. The Argentine House of Deputies has voted to increase the honorarium of its members from $700 to $1,000 a month, besides increasing the salaries of judges and other officials and the grants for religious and charitable purposes, while their country is still bankrupt and unable to carry out the modified arrangement made with its creditors.

THE jubilation over the conviction of McKane is an empty business. These spasmodic triumphs of popular vengeance may perhaps serve justice in some degree, but they have also something in them of the nature of tyranny and violence. Certainly they are not the expression of a calm determination of the people to preserve the purity of government in all its branches. They are not the results of the ordinary vigilance and workings of the Law. They are essentially extraordinary and fortuitous. McKane, indeed, broke the law; but the law broken was scarcely one of the really active statutes of the land. In all political matters, the public conscience is extremely lax. Party villany is tacitly permitted even to extreme lengths; so that it may be said that McKane had in a sense a popular warrant for the crime he committed. To suddenly suspend this understanding, and change, as it were, the rules of the game, must in all fairness be regarded by the candid as slightly arbitrary and unjust. McKane may rightly demand why this sudden rigor towards him. Probably there are very few of our "bosses" and the legion of scurvy politicians who could not be convicted of even worse crimes than his, were only a popular hue and cry raised against them. Indeed, now that all the story is out, McKane stands forth as a very decent individual for a "boss" and a politician. It is true he played his own dirty political game irrespective of the public interests, but did not the entire country permit him to do so for years; did not both the Republican party and the Democratic party at different times knowingly participate in the result of his audacity? Isn't it rather absurd to preach about "the Law" at this late day? What has the Law been doing since McKane's authority first became paramount in Gravesend? And what will "the Law" do now with the scores of other rascals who far more richly merit the penitentiary than McKane? Clearly these periodical outbreaks of virtue on the part of the public are miscarriages of justice. The cant about the "public conscience" and the "purity of the ballot" to the tune of which the sacrifice of the scapegoat is performed is hypocritical and sickening. And as a chorus to the farce we have those two Dromios of cheap vulgarity, the Herald and the World, braying as to which is to be credited with having secured the conviction! The purification of politics, indeed, seems to be an iridescent dream; but what is to be gained by adding cant, hypocrisy and cheap fake newspaper advertising to the dirty mess?

THE public is more to be congratulated upon the appointment of Senator White to the Supreme Court bench than is that gentleman himself. This is not because the man is too good for the position or the position for the man, but because the dispute over the choice for this office was in danger of becoming a scandal and of occupying time that had better be given to more important matters, important as the selection of a fitting person to fill so high an office is. For a time it looked very much as if the President had forgotten that the Senate was a part of the appointing machinery, expressly created to limit as far as possible individual power in the government of the country, and that the Senate had conceived the idea that one of its privileges was being overlooked when nominations were made without consulting the wishes of the Senators from the nominee's State. In view of the ugly lengths to which such a difference as this could be drawn, it is a matter for congratulation that President Cleveland has cut away from it and named a gentleman so admittedly suitable as the Senator from Louisiana, and one whom the Senate could accept promptly and whose choice is in every way agreeable to the public. There are some, of course, who raise the objection that the appointment should not have gone away from New York, but they will find sympathy only from those who look upon politics and office with the partisan eye. The first point of importance was to secure a fitting man for the position, which has been done; the next, that the filling of an office of such importance and dignity should not be the subject of a vulgar party dispute, and especially not one carried on between the White House and the Capitol; finally, it was most important that nothing should intervene to take up time of the Senate that might be given to the Wilson Bill, which is soon to be brought before it. As to whether Mr. Cleveland or Mr. Hill or Mr. Anybodyelse comes out triumphant from this dispute only themselves or their personal following, will care if anybody does. To the great mass of the people this is only a matter of passing interest, if not of indifference, so long as a suitable choice is made and the appointing process does not stand in the way of an intensely interesting matter like the Tariff Bill.

"Pauper Labor."

OF the many bogies that from time to time have affrighted our friend, Uncle Sam, during his eventful career none apparently has caused quite so much perturbation to the good old gentleman as that which he has named "Pauper Labor." He has changed his opinions many times upon many subjects, as becomes a man of broad inclinations, who boasts, not entirely without warrant, that he has a profounder respect for the direct voice of Experience than have most other people; but with regard to this ancient spectre, the obstinacy of a mind made up keeps him firmly fixed in ideas that are older even than he himself. He is convinced, apparently beyond reach of argument, that unless the doors of his house be specially barred for protection the gaunt creature he dreads is forthwith capable of breaking into his domicile, seizing upon his household and scattering the inmates to an irremediable fate beset with all the evils of poverty and starvation.

"Once admitted," cries the old man, "and what will become of my fat farms and comfortable homesteads, whereon—mind you—the best blood and sinew of my family has been raised? They will henceforth be the breeding places of starvelings, and the very beneficence of Nature, sir, will be rightly withdrawn from me. As to my factories and stores, they will be closed. The foreigner, sir, will take possession of my docks; and the tides of commerce, which like the sea should ebb and flow equally, will set all one way and drain me and mine of our wealth—the harvest of our large inheritance—and of what I prize more highly than wealth, though I confess, sir, my esteem for wealth is not slight, that is the happiness and contentment, the freedom from the bitter touch of care, which is largely the result of industry, conjoined to a substantial possession of this world's goods."

The old man, undoubtedly, is in an exceedingly timorous frame of mind concerning the matter; and the present boisterous discussion about the tariff (which, as in the case of all popular debates is so largely an affair of ignorant and selfish vociferousness) is scarcely calculated to produce in him a calm and receptive mental attitude, which will permit facts and arguments tending contrary to his old prejudice, to assert themselves with the full of their inherent force. The best that can be done under the circumstances is that we of the younger generation of the old man's household, who are more deeply interested in the security of the family fortune than others, having longer to enjoy it, but who feel ourselves under no congenital obligation to perpetuate ancient prejudices or mistakes, proceed at once to investigate this matter of pauper labor, to discover whether it really threatens our patrimony and well-being, or is only an hallucination begotten of crude reasoning and at oo hasty desire for self-protection.

In looking around, then, first of all for the largest facts that promise to help us to form judgment, we find, all the world over, that the dear labor countries are the seats of the greatest industrial activity, and that almost in exact correspondence with the dearest of labor is the degree of national prosperity. The United States is more prosperous than England, England than Germany, Germany than Russia. Obviously, this is clean contrary to what one would naturally expect to find, were all that our good Uncle Sam tells us strictly correct. If it is the fate of dear labor to succumb inevitably to cheap labor, why are not the cheap labor nations the great producing communities of the world? Certainly, they are not such. The Chinese, despite their industry and the fact that, next to air, Labor is the cheapest commodity they possess, have a place among commercial nations only by virtue of certain articles in which it may be said Nature has given them a considerable degree of monopoly. East Indian looms, even with the assistance of wages so low that the extremest poverty of Europe shivers at the mention of them, do not compete with the English looms of Manchester; and whereas we hear from time to time a great deal of how the ryot farmer and the Muscovite wheat-grower are wresting the markets of the World from the American granger, statistics do not show that they have succeeded in diminishing the exports of agricultural produce from the United States. Indeed, the fact is wherever we turn we find dear labor in ascendancy and control, harmonizing exactly with what we see at home—the labor that suffers most from competition is invariably cheap labor. It is cheap labor, not dear labor that somehow or the other cannot hold its own. If Uncle Sam's fears are well founded, how is it that every factory in Great Britain has not been closed by the much cheaper labor of Continental Europe? John Bull's doors are open to the free passage of all competitors, and although once in a while the old man cries out when some favorite corn of his is trodden upon, he continues to do an enormous business in a multitude of articles, in all of which, did cheap labor rule, he should be ignominiously beaten. At home, too, in our own experience there are facts which question very pointedly the contention of Uncle Sam. Massachusetts cotton goods, manufactured under the highest wage-rate in the World, are sold in large quantity in the Orient where the wage-rate is the lowest in the World. And we all know that cheap labor doesn't keep, for instance, American ploughs and sewing machines out of Europe.

But to prove that Uncle Sam is partly wrong, at least to the extent that cheap labor does not necessarily and in all cases compete successfully with dear labor, is far from assuring ourselves that we have nothing to fear from cheap labor. The old man's fears, undoubtedly, are too spacious, nevertheless there may be much ground that they legitimately occupy.

To proceed further, let us inquire what is the primary economic condition in default of which there would not be wages. Clearly, it is production. Without production, using that word in a wide sense, there can be no wages. Indeed, wages may be defined as a certain interest or share in the results of production; and, obviously, the amount of this interest or share, the determination whether it be much or little, depends upon (1) the amount of the product to be divided, and (2) the proportion that governs the process of division. When we say, then, that in such or such a country low wages prevail, we really assert that in the place designated, labor is either unproductive or, due to some circumstances, obtains only a small proportion of what it produces; or both. Our statement cannot mean anything else. Of course, where high wages exist the converse of the foregoing is the case.

It also follows from what has been said that when we or others call for higher wages as necessary or advisable in this trade or in that, we really demand either that labor shall be made more productive, or that the distribution of the results of production shall be more in favor of the workman; or both. And so, too, a decline in wages must henceforth be for us an indication of diminished production, or of a change in the proportion governing the division of the products of production.

As there is nothing else entering into the determination of the wage-rate but these two factors, (1) production and (2) division of products, we have not very far to seek for an explanation of high wages or of low wages or of the "Pauper Labor" so terrible to Uncle Sam, wherever our investigations may be made. If the King of Dahomey tells us that his subjects earn higher wages than do the people of the Sultan of Bambezu, and ascribes the fortunate fact to certain talismanic legends which he (the King of Dahomey) has caused to be nailed around the boundaries of Dahomey, we proceed at once to test the truth of what the King says by examining whether the talismanic legends could possibly assist the Dahomans in the work of production by, as it were, making two blades of grass grow where formerly there grew only one; or, this not appearing to be the case, whether the sacred inscriptions tended to expand the hearts of men and incline them to deal more liberally than ordinarily with their fellows. If neither the one nor the other is apparent to us as the result of the regal institutes, we would not, indeed, being wise men and perhaps painfully conscious that we were in Dahomey contradict his Majesty flatly and with the particularity permitted in the United States, but we would be silently certain that as the writings did not either augment production or modify the distribution of the products of productions they were not the cause of the higher wages prevailing in Dahomey than in Bambezu.

As we travel about the world applying our tests to the many queer assertions regarding labor that make a noise everywhere and disturb common sense—that common law of the reason which all profess to observe—we shall soon be driven to the conclusion that of the two factors, production and distribution, instrumental in determining the rate of wages, the latter plays but a comparatively small part in creating the great inequalities in wages which prevail. In free-trade England wages are very much higher than in protectionist Italy; not, however, because the English manufacturer or employer takes as his share a smaller portion of what is produced. In the protectionist United States wages are higher than in free-trade Great Britain, but this is not due to the larger heartedness of our millionaires or because the labor market with us is ruled strictly according to the golden rule. In Australia, where tariffs are low, wages are as high as in the United States, where the tariff is high, and the parity can not be attributed any more than in the case of the divergences just noted to differences in distribution. In short, the more we travel, and the more we see the more we are driven to the conclusion that inequalities in the wage-rates of countries denote as in the case of inequalities in the wages of individuals, inequality in powers of production. Why does Jones earn twenty-five dollars a week and Brown only ten dollars? In the main, is it not because Jones is a harder worker than Brown, or a higher class of worker? We may be very certain that high wages, wherever they exist, in individuals or in communities, connote high powers of production. As we have seen, it must mean either this, or differences merely in the distribution of what is produced; and if we accept the latter explanation we have to face the question: Can it be in the process of division that the American secures twice the wages of the European and the European many times the wages of the Oriental? It would be difficult to maintain this theory.

We are brought, then, to the conclusion that high wages are the correlative of high powers of production and efficiency, that they cannot be created by the sacred writings of Dahomey or by any other sacerdotal or political instrument; they cannot be stolen or obtained by fraud or force—they must be earned by work in the sweat of the brow and by the operation of the intelligence. If wages are higher in the United States than in Europe it is solely because people in this country work more efficaciously than do those in Europe.

But if this be so, unto what a pass are we bringing our dear old Uncle Sam, with his fears about "pauper labor." "Pauper labor" is inefficient labor, labor of a low productivity; and can the inefficient compete successfully with the efficient? What is competition but the process through which the efficient triumph? In modern industrial history what is the chief fact that stands forth? Is it not that men, methods and machinery of relatively low productivity have everywhere been supplemented by men, methods and machinery of relatively high productivity? The inefficient labor, the cheap labor, the pauper labor, cannot successfully compete with the efficient, the dear, the high-class labor any more than can an antiquated piece of machinery compete with a costly modern engine. Old locomotives of the Stephenson type can be obtained at a small part of the cost of a modern compound Baldwin, but what railroad would replace the latter by the former? Indeed, and this is the centre of the matter, it is high-priced labor that is cheap labor, and the pauper labor that Uncle Sam fears is the dearest on earth, and the only labor that cannot compete with his household.

While the old man is suffering from headache and nervous fright about "Pauper Labor" manufacturers and economists in the United States and in all progressive, enlightened countries are satisfying themselves that "higher wages mean a greater amount of work done," and that the Poles, the Hindoos, the Chinese earn uniformly small wages and cannot compete with the English and much less with the American, because with them the cost of production despite the low wages is high. High wages do not necessarily mean dear labor. The German Commission of 1879, the English Commission of 1885, collected a large amount of evidence substantiating this view. Hofman says the Berliner accomplishes as much work in ten days as the East Prussian in twenty-seven. The wages earned by the former are proportionately higher. Roscher declares the Mecklenburger does twice as much work in a given time as the Thuringian and earns double the wages. The cost of spinning a yard of cotton goods is greater in India than in England, though the Indian operative's wages are lower and his working day longer. Mr. Blaine showed that the labor-cost of spinning in this country is the lowest in the world. In the Prussian coal mines the average annual earnings of a laborer is $225, in Pennsylvania $335, yet the cost of mining a ton of coal is two-thirds less in Pennsylvania than in Prussia. Because the former produces only 256 tons per annum against the American's 560 tons.

In England the average wage of the nailmaker is about $3 a week, in the United States upwards of $5 a day, yet American nails are only half the price of English. The reason for this disparity is that the American produces two and a-half tons of nails in the time that the Englishman is making two hundred weight.

It is unnecessary, however, to multiply examples. High wages wherever they exist are not a gift, nor a social convention, they are the result of a high rate of production. Uncle Sam then has nothing to fear from "Pauper Labor." It is only the more efficient, the more productive, the better educated labor that he need trouble himself about. The "paupers" of Europe or Asia will never bother the old gentleman or work him injury.

Legislation at Albany.

ALBANY, February 22.—James R. Sheffield, the Assemblyman of the 11th Assembly District of New York, who introduced the bill making 59 Liberty street again the place where legal sales shall take place in New York City, had arranged with the Assembly Judiciary Committee for a hearing upon the measure this afternoon, but owing to a late session of the Assembly the Committee had no time to hold its meeting. Mr. Sheffield, therefore, was compelled to defer making his application for a favorable report on the bill until Tuesday next. He intends to push the bill with all possible energy and regards it as one of the most important that he has presented to the Legislature.

Senator Cantor, as the representative of Richard Croker, has given notice of his intention to fight the bill with all his power. Mr. Cantor is at present ill at Lakewood, N. J., but his friends here are observing Wm. Sheffield's movements in regard to the bill with keen attention, and it can be predicted that ex-Speaker Sulzer will interpose every parliamentary obstruction he can employ to the advancement of the bill beyond the walls of the Assembly Chamber.

The present week the Senate passed Assemblyman Lawson's bills for the completion of the Riverside Park and Driveway, and for the completion of the Cathedral Parkway. The sum of $50,000 has been lopped off of the appropriation for the Riverside Park, leaving it at $700,000, and $50,000 off the appropriation for the Cathedral Parkway, leaving it at $200,000. This action was taken at the request of Mayor Gilroy, who stated that $100,000 would be expended upon these parks out of the appropriation of $1,000,000 recently made by the Legislature for the improvement of the Parks of New York. Both the Riverside Park bill and the Cathedral Parkway bill are now in the hands of Governor Flower; who, it is said, has been advised by Mayor Gilroy, who was here the present week, that he had better sign them.

The bill for the extension of the Riverside Park and Driveway to the bulkhead line is in a shape satisfactory to the authorities of New York, according to the statements of Assistant Corporation Counsel Blandy, but late this week Senator Guy received a letter from James A. Deering suggesting that certain amendments be made to the measure. Senator Guy could not understand from Mr. Deering's letter precisely what he desired done and accordingly has sent him the bill and the suggested amendments to fix it up as he desires to have it shaped. Then Mr. Blandy intends to have another look at the bill.

Senator Robertson and Assemblyman Robertson introduced a bill the present week abolishing the four-headed Board of Park Commissioners and substituting one of two members; one to be a Democrat and one to be a Republican. This undoubtedly is a Republican party measure. It is difficult to tell whether or not it will pass the Legislature. The attitude of the Democrats upon the measure will doubtless disclose Governor Flower's probable course toward it if it ever reaches him. If they oppose it no one will doubt that he intends to veto the measure.

Mayor Gilroy while here the present week expressed his disapproval of the bill appropriating $2,000,000 to build a bridge over the Harlem River, from 1st avenue to Willis avenue, unless it was amended so as to provide that the work need not be begun under four years. This amendment has been accepted by Mr. Butts, the introducer of the bill. It is generally interpreted to mean that Tammany Hall does not intend to build the bridge under four years. It is said that the Tammany Hall magnates are directing most of the appropriations to the improvement of the West Side, where they have unimproved property which they wish to sell, rather than to the district north of the Harlem River, where they have but little.

Mayor Gilroy, also through Mr. Blandy, is opposing here the bill of Mr. Sheffield appropriating $500,000 for a site and $625,000 for a new building for the College of the City of New York. President Hunter and a large number of the prominent graduates of the college appeared before the Assembly Committee on Cities on Tuesday in behalf of this bill. While Mr. Blandy opposed it on the exasperating ground to the graduates that the college had outlived its usefulness, the graduates argued that if the City of New York could afford to build a Speedway upon which to speed fast horses, it could well afford to buy a new site for its chief college and build a new college building for it. But Mayor Gilroy's hostility will probably kill the bill if it ever reaches Governor Flower.

Assemblyman Lawson has introduced a bill prohibiting the construction of an elevated railway upon 14th street, New York, between 7th avenue and 4th avenue. The bill is introduced in the interest of the shopkeepers upon 14th street. "I do not wish to interfere with any rapid transit schemes," said Mr. Lawson, yesterday, "but I do think that 14th street should be protected from the invasion of an elevated railway, when some other street could as well be taken."

A bill was introduced by Assemblyman Butts yesterday declaring that on and after January 1, 1895, "all incumbrances and obstructions upon any street or sidewalk or public ground in the 23d and 24th Wards of the City of New York shall be removed by the Commissioner of Street Improvements" in these wards. The Board of Estimate and Apportionment of New York is to make an appropriation for removing the incumbrances.

Assemblyman Tobias presented a "labor bill" of interest this week. It provides that "all stone of any description used in State or municipal works within the State, or which is to be worked, dressed or carved for such use, shall be so worked, dressed or carved upon the grounds where such works are being carried on, or within the boundaries of the State, or within the boundaries of the municipality."

Senator Guy has abandoned his bill requiring the advertisement for 60 days of foreclosure sales. He says it would add too greatly to the cost of foreclosing property.

A bill was introduced by Assemblyman Gleason upon Thursday authorizing Mayor Gilroy to appoint two "coal inspectors," at a salary of $2,000 each annually, to see to the enforcement of the law passed in 1893 for the protection of coal consumers.

Assemblyman Marrin introduced a bill upon Tuesday declaring that every elevated railway in New York should begin to complete its structure upon any street or avenue "upon any part of which it may have heretofore erected any part of its structure." The bill is supposed to refer to the Suburban Railway.

Assemblyman Butts wishes to move the Central Park "Zoo" to some other park. Tuesday he presented a bill authorizing the Park Department, with the consent of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, to "erect, construct and equip upon a site in Central Park or in any of the new parks above the Harlem River within the City of New York the necessary buildings, cages and other things for the proper accommodation and exhibition of the Zoological collection now in the possession and custody of said department and lay out such site and construct approaches thereto."

The Hudson River Bridge Scheme's Injury to Real Estate.

Coming events cast their shadows before is an old saying of wide applicability; it may also be said that some seemingly coming events only have the ability of throwing a line of gloom over the course they may occupy or will occupy if eventuated. To this latter class belong that questionable enterprise of securing a charter for a bridge across the Hudson River to come into some part of good property on the West Side. As is well known, the plan known as the New Jersey and New York Bridge scheme proposes to strike Manhattan Island somewhere about 70th street and come down either on or near 11th avenue, and possibly between that avenue and 10th avenue to 42d street, where a depot is to be built for the lines that will use it. This scheme has naturally caused a great deal of discussion, and raised endless opposition on the part of the owners of property affected by it or in the vicinity of its route. Money lenders, too, are beginning to enter their protests against it in a very practical way by declining loans on property on this line. Whatever can be said in favor of a bridge connection between the Jersey shore and New York City is said in behalf of an enterprise sanctioned only to parties who can give guarantees that the work will be done forthwith. Even with such a condition there are many objections from the property-owners' point of view. In the first place the line of route will be severely let alone by investors. The objection would not be so much to property certain to be taken for the work, but that cannot be located by reason of the indefiniteness of the line as laid down. No one will want to buy and incur the risk of having a high railway viaduct built alongside, and bringing with it all the annoyances and detractions to value of loss of light and air, dust and drippings from the railroad track, etc. But these will be as trifles compared with the injury that will be done to property if a charter is given to irresponsible people, who get it simply for what they can make out of it by selling it, and who may be and very likely would be years in disposing of it. A charter, once created, is very difficult to destroy, no matter what the implied conditions under which it is granted, so that any body of speculators having once secured this franchise would have no difficulty in keeping it alive for many years by making an appearance only of doing work or perhaps without doing any at all. While such a condition of affairs lasted, real estate affected in any way by it would be practically dead. These considerations have already begun to shape the policy of some of the large moneyed institutions in their treatment of applications for loans on property within possible contact with this New Jersey and New York Bridge scheme. Only this week one loan, in other ways one that would be attractive, being for a moderate amount and for improvements, was specifically declined after examination because it came within the limits of this probable malign influence, and recently another application for a loan on corner property was refused by a different company, though the reason was not stated, but inferentially for the same cause, because the refusing company has already a loan outstanding on lots within the same, or the next block, a third more than the amount asked on the corner lots. But the best testimony on this matter is that of the loaning companies, which, though not unanimous, is sufficiently conclusive of the difficulty there will be in making new loans on this property while any such danger as the above exists.

Our inquiries at the office of the Mutual Life Insurance Company brought out the statement that they had refused no loans for the cause mentioned above. There was no reason for such a refusal because it was easy to fix the value of property, and the loan would be protected by the damages awarded for the property taken. Undoubtedly, if the bridge approaches went far back and struck valuable residential property it would do great damage. The issue of a charter to irresponsible parties would have a damaging effect on the value of property affected. But to take the position that the charter was going to be granted was discounting the future too far.

Vice-President Doremus, of the Germania Life Insurance Co., said: "As a matter of ordinary business prudence we would want to avoid proximity to the bridge structure. Consider the district from the City Hall down to the river to have been a residence neighborhood and you can easily see what would have been the effect of the bridge approach being built there; it would certainly have been unfavorable. There is no question of the injury that would be done to property on the line of a proposed bridge and approaches if a charter got into the hands of people unable to carry out the work and resulting in the enterprise hanging fire for any considerable time."

At the office of another large company which preferred not to be named it was said that there was no discrimination made against the property in question, nor did they see any reason why there should be. At the same time they believed the region affected was built up by tenement houses and factories, two classes of property on which they were now not making loans.

Mr. J. N. Petty, manager of the Temporary Loan Department of the German-American Real Estate Title Guarantee Company, said: "We have with solicitude, seeking to be conservative, canvassed the probable effect of the erection of the North River Bridge and its approach to run indefinitely on or near 11th avenue, or between 11th and 10th avenues, from 72d street to in the neighborhood of 42d street, where it curves round to the proposed depot, and in view of the possible and reasonably probable effect of that structure upon values of adjoining property we have declined to make loans particularly for the erection of new buildings within a distance as near as we can arrive at it of five hundred feet on either side of the line where the approach will pass over. This is purely a conservative precaution we have taken, but we are acting on it."

Vice-President Welch, of the New York Life Insurance Co., said: "We have not had any applications for loans on property in the district mentioned. If we had any right in the line of the bridge and approaches we should inquire carefully to find out if the charter was likely to be granted and if it was we should not want to make the loans. A charter given to irresponsible parties would be likely to affect values of property very materially, but I do not think a charter would be granted without guarantees of the ability of the parties to put it through."

The Bowery Savings Bank had never considered the case, but its officers admitted the certainty of damage to property in the event of a charter being granted under circumstances that would indefinitely delay the execution of the work, or keep it in abeyance for any considerable time.

President Wm. C. Sturges, of the Seamen's Bank for Savings, said: "We have had no occasion to look the matter up. I can understand how it can be objectionable to some people."

Property and Good Municipal Government.

The better government of the City of New York is a matter that has actively interested the Real Estate Exchange for some time and its members have on several occasions considered the question of the means to secure it. Recently the Exchange expressed its unflattering views of the people, or rather the person and his satellites, now in control of the city, and condemned the system on which their proceedings are based. Members of the Exchange, property-owners and taxpayers were urged to make a determined effort individually and in concert to break the power of the cliques controlling all the city departments and to secure the election of honest and competent business men, regardless of their political affiliations, to all the offices in the gift of the citizens. To secure organized effort in this work of reform Messrs. C. W. Luyster, Wm. Cruikshank and Douglas Robinson, Jr., were appointed a committee on organization to enroll members for a club to be called "The Real Estate Exchange Honest Government Club." The result of the work of that Committee was a meeting on Monday last, held under the presidency of Mr. Horace S. Ely and at which Mr. Franklin B. Lord acted as secretary, when the Club was formally created by the adoption of a constitution and by-laws. Messrs. Cruikshank, Marling and Elliott were appointed a committee to nominate a board of trustees, and they named the following: George De F. Barton, Charles S. Brown, J. J. Clancy, C. L. Clarkson, John C. R. Eckerson, William H. Folsom, Richard V. Harnett, J. H. Hunt, F. B. Lord, C. W. Luyster, S. Elwood May, Andrew Powell, Douglas Robinson, Jr., George L. Slawson, Henry C. Swords, John P. Windolph, William H. Whiting and Frank Yoran. These trustees will meet on Monday next to choose officers for the ensuing year.

The object of this club as defined in its constitution is: "To concern itself in the government of the city (especially as it affects the real estate therein), and by determined effort of the members acting individually as well as in concert to promote the honest, efficient and economical administration of city affairs and the election of honest and competent officers, without respect to party, and to co-operate in procuring such legislation as may tend to promote the good government of the city." Provision is made to give the movement that the club represents a larger support and representation than could be found within the membership of the Exchange itself. This membership represents in various ways property interests estimated at $800,000,000, and its voice should be powerful to influence reforms. At the same time the club not being technically the creation of the Exchange, but of its members individually, it has been thought wise to make a way for suitable admissions from outside the Exchange. Consequently, while any member of the Exchange in good standing may become a member of the club by subscribing to the constitution, the trustees may also admit by their vote any resident or taxpayer of the City of New York on the same terms. The trustees in whom the general policy and conduct of the club are placed cannot incur any pecuniary liability in excess of the sum in the treasury at the time the liability is incurred, nor can they indorse the candidate of any political party for any office without authority from a majority of the members of the club present and voting at a regular meeting or any special meeting called for that purpose. These two provisions show that there is to be no clique control in the case of this club. The protection of the rights of individual members and the unquestioned value of the object it has in view ought to make it one of the best reform organizations in the city.

Shade Trees in the Streets of New York.

NEED FOR A CHANGE IN THE SYSTEM OF THEIR CARE AND PRESERVATION—HINTS ABOUT THE IMPROVEMENT OF THE BOULEVARD PARK PLOTS.

The proposition has recently been broached, by some members of the West End Association, to put the trees that line the sidewalks of West End avenue in charge of the Department of Public Parks. They have thus far flourished—or gone into decay, as the case may be—without the aid of the municipality. Wherever houses have been built and the sidewalks have been improved, the builder, and, after him, the resident, has taken a proprietary interest in the trees, and has protected them from their enemies, trimmed their branches, cultivated their roots and given them such nourishment as was needed for their strengthening and growth. As a consequence some of the trees along this beautiful avenue are all that could have been expected of them, and in their leafy season return a grateful payment for their care in the greatly enhanced beauty of the property and in suggesting what the entire avenue would look like if only all the trees were thus cared for.

The trees are furthermore still in their infancy, with trunks that reach only basement high as yet, and are capable of giving shade only in small patches over their miniature lawns. But they are of the kind that in maturity should tower above the tops of the highest houses and spread their branches wide over the entire sidewalks, giving to the avenue an arboreal beauty to be obtained in no other way, and of which New York City has no example, except the Mall, in Central Park. That they may in time attain the strength and grace and beauty which full maturity alone can give, is surely to be desired. But it is a serious question whether in transferring them to the Park Department their future would not be jeopardized rather than improved. An elm can endure all the hardships of variable seasons, of wet seasons and drouths, of early frosts and prolonged winters, of cool summers and of blasting hot winds, if only the ground affords sufficient nourishment and its infancy is protected from animal and human foes.

But the West Side has an example in its beautiful Boulevard of the sort of care of its trees and park plots of which the Park Department is capable. It is not that the intelligence is lacking in the department, for the trees in the parks and along 5th avenue opposite Central Park show that the department is capable of proper and efficient treatment of its tree charges. But the trees and park plots in the Boulevard are also striking and suggestive examples of the negligence of which the Park Department is also capable. If visiting New Yorkers should find such slovenly disorder in the avenues of any other large city, they would exhaust language in their criticism and denunciation of it. But because it is only another evidence of the misgovernment which they have been schooled to endure with patience and resignation, nothing is said of it. Visitors to the World's Fair at Chicago during last summer and fall cannot fail to have noted the high state of cultivation of the trees and park areas that made of Drexel and Southern boulevards a scene of beauty almost as well worth going a thousand miles to see as the Exposition itself. People who do not know Chicago, many of them, imagined that the pyramids of flowers and ornamental shrubbery, the beautiful park plots that divided the driveways were creations of the season only and municipal adjuncts of the Fair. That is not so. The trees were planted thirty years ago and have been carefully tended ever since. For nearly twenty years every growing season has seen these driveways, that are the glory of the Western Metropolis, made to flourish with bright foliage and flowers. There is no reason why the Boulevard and Riverside Drive should not have been similarly embellished.

Our tree culture in this city has (outside of the parks) been haphazard and ignorant. Some trees of specified species were determined upon for certain localities and contracts were invited for their setting. The contractors made what they conceived to be the required excavations—in the rock or the soil, as the case was found to be, and planted the trees. Many of them died and were replaced by others, and so on until trees were found which would survive the hard conditions of their planting. Since then little or nothing has been done for them. Once in a while a laborer will go over the line and remove the dead branches, but the trees have not been properly pruned or protected from insects, and the park areas have grown more empty tomato cans than flowers, more weeds than grass. A change must come over the spirit of the Park Department before it will be a safe guardian of the trees and sidewalk parks of West End avenue.

On this subject the Garden and Forest, in a recent number, gave the following expert advice:

"Handsome trees will never be found in our cities until the work is placed in the hands of responsible and competent officers from the very beginning, whose duty it is not only to select the trees and plant them, but to supervise all pruning. Pruning is needed for the best development of any tree, but where uniform shape is desirable, where the natnral low-branching form of many species is quite out of place and where limited root-room often demands a correspouding reduction in the size of the top, as is the case with street trees, careful pruning is an absolute necessity if even moderate success is to be attained. No tree is safe, however, when attacked by an axe or saw in ignorant hands. Unskillful pruning will not only destroy the beauty of a tree, but will leave raw wounds to invite attacks of fungi which bring disease and death. Even in the city of Washington, which contains more good trees than any city of the union, it has been almost impossible to find expert pruners, and many rows of trees have suffered from improper cutting. Some trees, like the American elm, resent the removal of any large branches, and, therefore, one of the characteristics of a good street tree is that it will endure pruning well. This is one of the good qualities of the Oriental plane-tree, and rows of these trees in Washington, which have been properly pruned once or twice, are a delight to the eye. Even the white maple, which has many qualities that are not desirable, serves an admirable purpose when it has been properly cut in, as has been done in certain streets of the capital.

"One important factor in the maintenance of the street trees in Washington is the nursery in which some eight acres of the varieties generally planted in the city are making a thrifty growth. Here young trees are properly pruned and trained and prepared for removal by transplanting, so that symmetrical specimens of uniform size are always to be had when they are needed. This is an improvement on the practice of paying contractors for pulling trees out of a swamp, or even of buying surplus nursery stock that has been left to take care of itself. The first step, however, to insist upon for the reform of street planting in our cities is that the work from beginning to end should be placed in the charge of experts who know trees, who know how to plant them, and how to care for them afterward."

Obituary.

THOMAS COCKERILL.

Thomas Cockerill, the well-known builder and member of the Mason-Builders' Association of this city, died at his residence in Melrose, on Monday, the 19th inst. He was attacked with pneumonia on the previous Wednesday, but was not considered dangerously ill until the day of his death. Mr. Cockerill was born in England about fifty-seven years ago, but came to this country while yet a young man, and after learning his trade commenced business for himself. In 1883 he took his son, John F. Cockerill, into partnership, the firm becoming then known as Thomas Cockerill & Son. During recent years he has taken but little active interest in the business except in an advisory capacity. Mr. Cockerill and the firm of Cockerill & Son built many houses in this city, but have lately been more prominently connected with school buildings.

Questions and Answers.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly answer the following in your next issue: Is it necessary to have a promissory note renewed after the time has expired for payment of same in order to secure payment? The party promises to pay the old note in a few days; does this note (the old one) remain in force until paid or must I have a new one made to secure myself? T. R.

Answer.—If there is no indorser on the old note you are secure just keeping the old one. But if there is any indorser on the old note you must get a new note newly indorsed if you want to hold him. The old note will hold the maker of it any way for six years.—LAW EDITOR.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Kindly answer the following question: My five years' lease expires April 1st on a store property I now occupy, and I am going to leave at that time. I built a small stable, 12x12, one-story high, in the rear of my yard at my own expense, and with my landlord's permission. Now I want to know, first, has my landlord any claim to the stable; second, can I move it away? A SUBSCRIBER.

Answer.—If your stable has any foundation set into the soil you can not take it away; it belongs to your landlord. Any fixture built into and upon land belongs to the landlord. But if your stable has no foundation, but merely stands on sills on the surface of the ground, you may take it away.—LAW EDITOR.

Conviction of an Unlicensed Plumber.

Herman Rubin, of 177 Ludlow street, was convicted of conducting a plumbing business without a license and fined $25 in Special Sessions last Tuesday. Rubin applied for a license and was rejected. This is the first conviction under the new law for plumbers.

Real Estate Market.

The week in the real estate market has been distinguished by no transactions of significance or great importance that have come to light. Influences against which business of this character has always found it difficult to contend have prevailed in combination: first, a lagging and listless feeling in general business, then inclement weather, and last, a holiday. Still, something has been accomplished, enough to indicate that the market is only waiting for the expected revival of general business to resume its normal activity. Moreover, before another issue of THE RECORD AND GUIDE is published, the winter will be over and spring will have arrived, with its gloom-dispelling spirit and the resumption of agricultural industries. This is the season, moreover, of the largest volume of real estate business and the beginning of the building season. There is every assurance that the country has seen the worst of the hard times and that whatever is to come will come well.

MORTGAGES.

Note.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: the first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Wherever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.
